4 Candidates To Seek 2 Seats On Dist. 59 Board

Four candidates will seek two seats on the board of education April 10 in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59.

Filing for the election closed Friday. Allen Sparks of Des Plaines is the only incumbent who filed.

Richard Hess, board president and a resident of 247 Placid Way, Elk Grove Village, decided not to seek re-election after having served on the board for six years. Hess had been expected to file based on an earlier comment in February.

The four candidates will seek two seats on the seven-member board that has 20 schools in the district.

The candidates are Erwin Poklacki, of 1223 Fernandez St., Arlington Heights; Albert Domanico, of 7 Grange Pl., and Theodore Staddler, of 1032 Brantwood Ave., both in Elk Grove Village; and Sparks of 908 Spruance, Des Plaines.

Poklacki was the last to file on Friday. The others filed earlier in late February and early March.

A research chemist at Borg-Warner Corp., Des Plaines, Poklacki has lived in the district for about 3 1/2 years. He is active in the district, serving on a committee that studied overcrowding in the junior high schools, the aims-and-goals committee, and with the School Community Council.

POKLACKI WAS a candidate in last year's election. He lost by six votes, trailing incumbent Harry Peterson Jr. of Elk Grove Village.

In the last election there were 12 candidates seeking four openings on the board that sets policy for schools in portions of Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, and Des Plaines.

Sparks is employed as an assistant director of research for Universal Oil Products, Des Plaines. He has been on the board for three years and served as president one year.

Domanich, employed as an assistant regional sales marketing manager for General Instrument Corp., Lincolnwood, is a former board member having served briefly in 1967 when he was appointed and in 1969 when he was elected for one year.

Staddler is a manager of education in engineering for International Business Machines in Chicago. He has been a resident of Elk Grove for nine years.

Jackson To Oppose Jones

John Jackson, of 330 Crest Ave., last week announced his candidacy for president of the Forest View Homeowners Association in the April 1 election.

Jackson will oppose LeRoy Jones, of 539 Woodview Ave., who is against the annexation of the subdivision to Elk Grove Village.

"I am very concerned as a candidate as to the welfare of the people in our area," said Jackson. "If annexation is stopped where will we obtain fire protection?"

"I BELIEVE the village will not continue indefinitely to morally continue to give us fire protection," he added.

Jackson's petition will be to get the 90-acre 127-home subdivision fire protection, he said.

Though annexation is a means of obtaining fire protection, he said, "If there is another solution to annexation I will give it further consideration."

Wesley Kentzel, outgoing president of the association, has sought annexation to the village as a means of obtaining fire protection.

Kentzel and the association of which Jackson is the treasurer, have petitioned the Cook County Circuit Court to annex to the village.

A hearing on the petition Friday before Judge Harry G. Comerford was continued to Friday at 11 a.m. in the Civic Center in Chicago.

JONES HAS CHARGED that Kentzel "misrepresented" the residents of the subdivision in obtaining signatures to the annexation petition.

He is seeking depositions from 25 residents who he has said have been misrepresented by Kentzel.

Elk Grove Village officials have given the homeowners fire protection during the annexation proceedings at no cost for the past several months.

Previously, the Forest View Fire Protection District trustees had entered into a contract with the village for fire protection and ambulance service until the village indicated it wanted to increase the contract from $3,000 to $11,000 a year.

THE ASSOCIATION has pursued annexation as an alternative, though it will cost homeowners about $3,600 based on an engineering survey of capital improvements the village will require be made in the subdivision.

Jones, president of the Citizen Action Committee, has said annexation would cost $7,000 to $9,000.

The village board wants the subdivision, also known as Branigan Estates, to "conform" to the rest of the community. Conformity means the addition of fire hydrants and water mains, widened streets, curbs, gutters, streetlights, and sidewalks.

Kentzel is scheduled to meet with members of the village capital improvements committee tomorrow in an attempt to negotiate and possibly delay or eliminate some of the capital improvements the village is requiring.

Residents of the area contend they prefer the "country atmosphere" that the subdivision has and that it would be eliminated with the addition of improvements such as sidewalks.

RISING NEAR the Tri-State Tollway in Des Plaines is the $500,000 church building for the St. John the Baptist Greek Orthodox Church.

Seven File For Dist. 214 Board Posts

Leah Cummins

Seven candidates have filed for election in the High School Dist. 214 April 10 school board election.

The two incumbents, Leah D. Cummins, 1009 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village, and Richard Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect, filed on Feb. 24, the first day of filing. Mrs. Cummins will be the first candidate on the ballot, Bachhuber the second.

Jack L. Matthews, 1511 E. Sunset Terr., Arlington Heights, was the third to file on March 18.

Raymond L. Petersen, Jr., 4307 Linden Ln., Rolling Meadows, filed for candidacy Friday at 2 p.m. He will be the fourth name on the ballot.

The last three, Robert C. Winkle, 680A Versailles Cr., Elk Grove Village, Clyde H. Brooks, 65 Brantwood Ave., Elk Grove Village, and Don C. McGlothlin, 1047 S. Carol Ave., Wheeling, drew straws at 4 p.m. Friday to determine their position on the ballot.

Winkle will be fifth, Brooks sixth and McGlothlin last on the election ballot.

Both Brooks and McGlothlin were candidates in the Dist. 214 election last year.

Mrs. Cummins, the first to file, submitted 141 names on her petitions, McGlothlin, the last, had 52. Each candidate must have 50 valid signatures of registered voters in Dist. 214 to be qualified as candidates. Final acceptance of the petitions must be made by the Dist. 214 board secretary.

$500 Coat Stolen From Restaurant

A mink-trimmed coat valued at $500 was reported stolen from the Maitre d' Restaurant, 111 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village, last week, Lily Lambrecht of Des Plaines told police. Another coat worth $300 also was reported stolen from Sherman Baron of Chicago.

Hospital Releases Man After Incident

Byron Crowell, 33, was released from St. Alexius Hospital last Friday after being treated for a broken wrist and jaw following an incident March 14 with Elk Grove Village police.

Crowell and his nephew, Allen Batton, 19, both of 871 Westbourne Ln., Buffalo Grove, were charged with resisting arrest and aggravated battery stemming from the incident in a service station in Elk Grove Village.

Mrs. Crowell, who was not involved in the scuffle with police as previously reported in the Herald, said she saw the incident inside the gas station and that both men did not resist arrest or strike the police officer as charged.

She charged police beat her husband in the police station later, a charge police deny.

Both men are scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court March 23.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader called on Congress Sunday to examine what he called the Treasury Department's "unlawful" proposal to give businessmen a tax break in order to boost the economy.

In a letter to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Nader said the proposal came about because "powerful private interests have undertaken a raid on the U.S. Treasury" that would cost the government $3 billion in revenue a year.

Earth Day — devoted to call attention to the state of the world's environment — was observed Sunday in New York and San Francisco. Plans for Earth Day demonstrations in other cities flared.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged President Nixon Sunday to impose partial wage and price controls to "rescue" the economy.

"This is a rescue situation," the Republican senator said. "This is a situation in which for a number of years we ran enormous deficits, sweeping the Vietnam War under the rug on the theory that, as President Lyndon B. Johnson put it, we could have guns and butter. Well, you can't."

More than 500 Jews were arrested in downtown Washington Sunday when they staged a massive sit-in near the Soviet Embassy as a protest to the treatment of Russian Jews.

The World

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Sunday the long-awaited federation of Egypt, Syria, Libya and possibly Sudan will be announced next Sunday, barring unexpected developments.

The paper said the merger would probably take the form of a federation or, if certain "obstacles were not surmounted," the form of a confederation.

In either case, the newspaper said, the four countries will unify their foreign, defense, financial and information policies. Each will keep its own political organizations and domestic arrangements, however.

French voters elected 76,000 local government officials in the second-round balloting Sunday in national elections.

Authorities reported a light turnout among the 30 million registered voters, interest being confined to areas where Communists and left-wing candidates polled their efforts to defeat Gaullist candidates.

The Weather

The first day of spring Sunday brought fair weather to most of the nation today.

The southwest warmed rapidly under clear skies after a night of record cold.

Warm southerly winds up the Mississippi Valley lifted the temperatures into the 50s through the southern parts of the Middle West.

Precipitation wise, a few snow flurries linger from Pennsylvania to northern New England. A low pressure system near Lake Michigan spread light snow through parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Charge Anti-Trust Violation; Lengthy Litigation Eyed

Couple Files Suit Against Area Real Estate Agents

by LEA TONKIN
Some 200 Northwest Suburban real estate brokers are named as defendants in what is believed to be the first suit in Illinois to be brought by a private citizen against real estate agents under federal anti-trust laws.

An amended class action suit Mazur vs Behrens, was filed Jan. 4 in United States District Court Northern Division for Illinois, Eastern Division. The original suit was filed in December, 1970.

The suit is being brought by Lillian and Edward Mazur, former Prospect Heights residents who now live in Kentucky. The Mazurs sold their home at 112 N. Lee St., last November for $49,500.

The house was sold through Homefinders, Realtors, in Arlington Heights. Principals of the company are listed as Jan Behrens, Ralph Edgar, H. David Hanner and Robert Zaun (however, the names of defendants were taken from a listing which may now be out of date). The Mazurs paid Homefinders $3,465, or 7 per cent commission, for the sale.

AS A RESULT of this transaction, the brokers are being charged with violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. This is in connection with the commission hike from 6 to 7 per cent one year ago, when real estate brokers cited inflation as the prime reason for the change. This increase boosted the commission on a $35,000 house, for example, from $2,100 to $2,450.

The Mazurs list four counts in the suit. Two counts claim violations of Section 1 of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. Alternative counts three and four are based on the pending jurisdiction of the court to hear claims under the Anti-Trust Act of the State of Illinois.

In the first count, the Mazurs claim that as of March 1, 1970, the real estate brokers cooperated in fixing the brokerage price at 7 per cent of the gross sales price.

DESCRIBING their claim as typical of other sellers in this area, the Mazurs are making the charge on behalf of all other real estate sellers "similarly situated." They state that separate prosecution by all these sellers would create inconsistencies in making a fair judgment.

The Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors (NWSBR) is named as the defendant. This not-for-profit trade association is the local branch of the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NA-REB). Other Northwest Suburban real estate firms are also included.

The Mazurs estimate that over 1,000 sellers in the area were required to pay the 7 per cent commission. They claim damages to the tune of $900,000, for the denial of their right to obtain real estate brokerage at a competitive price. This is three times the estimated difference between what the court judges to be a competitive market price and the actual rate charged.

THE SECOND charge is filed on behalf of all sellers required to pay 7 per cent on the first $50,000 and 6 per cent on the remaining balance of the gross amount of real estate. MAP Multiple Listing Service, a not-for-profit corporation, is named as defendant.

MAP includes 33 member firms. Its 64 offices are located in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling. The same area is generally served by NWSBR, in addition to Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Long Grove and Niles. MAP's monthly sales are over $11.5 million, but exact NWSBR figures are not available.

Charging that MAP's cooperative real estate listing service fixes the brokerage commission for its listings, the Mazurs claim that MAP enforced it by boycotting its members who did not comply. The suit asks for triple the amount of damages sustained.

tending for several years, according to William North of the Chicago law firm of Kirkland, Ellis, Hodson, Chaffetz and Masters. His company represents many of MAP's members.

The Illinois Attorney General's office in Chicago, Anti-Trust Division, recently disclosed that an investigation of area real estate brokerage practices is under way, but no details were released.

Deaths Elsewhere

Mrs. Mae Balliett, 74, nee Hoff, of Boca Raton, Fla., formerly of Mount Prospect, died Thursday in Boulevard Manor Nursing Home, Boynton Beach, Fla., following a long illness.

Funeral services will be held today in Hough Funeral Home, 4300 N. Central Ave., Chicago. Burial will be in Mount Olive Cemetery, Chicago.

Scobee-Ireland Funeral Home, Delray Beach, Fla., was in charge of funeral services which were held Saturday evening in Florida.

Preceded in death by her husband, Clarence survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Wanda (Frank) Plecka of Palatine one granddaughter, Mrs. Diane Fetter also of Palatine; three great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Muriel Burser of Boca Raton, Fla.

Local Control Supported By Education Association

The president-elect of the National Education Assn. (NEA) told a group of Northwest suburban teachers Thursday night that the NEA supports local control.

Donald Morrison told a group of 100 teachers attending the representative assembly dinner meeting of the Northwest Suburban Division, Illinois Education Assn. (IEA), that he respected the group's fight to gain an office in Arlington Heights.

He added that the Uniserv representative, who will aid local associations in negotiating, should be responsive to the local association first.

He pointed out that he and Helen Bain, NEA president, had never served at the state level, and that "we're sensitive to your needs."

Morrison also urged his audience to write letters to President Nixon between March 29 and April 6 to support the creation of a cabinet-level Department of Education. Blanch Erst, IEA president-elect, also backed the proposal.

At the beginning of his talk, Morrison thanked George Ergang president of the Northwest Suburban Division, for managing his presidential campaign. Morrison's talk was cut short by a dash to catch a plane to San Diego; Ergang said Morrison had been home only 16 hours in the last five weeks.

After Morrison's talk, a number of educators were honored, including Robert Haskell, retiring IEA Citizenship Commission chairman and Elk Grove High School principal, and John Harth and Richard Hemme, teachers at Arlington and Elk Grove High Schools.

Population Growth Meeting Tomorrow

Trans-racial adoption will be the topic of a panel discussion at the meeting of Zero Population Growth (ZPG) tomorrow night.

The Northwest Chapter of ZPG will meet at 8 p.m. in the Prince of Peace United Methodist Church, Devon and Arlington Heights Road, Elk Grove Village.

Members of the Open Door Society, an organization which encourages adoption of children without regard to racial or ethnic backgrounds of children or parents, will discuss the work of the organization and the availability of trans-racial adoptions.

Commuter Station To Be Built At Arlington Park

A new commuter station with 800 parking spaces will be built at the Arlington Park race track, without the use of federal money, Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights mayor said Friday.

Three parties, the Chicago and North Western Rwy., the track and the village are currently working on the terms of cost-sharing for the new facility, he added.

Walsh stressed village participation would not cause any additional taxation to local residents.

The decision to use local and private money in the initial development is aimed to quickly alleviate pressures on Arlington Heights downtown station, Walsh said.

"Most federal programs require regional plans which we don't have. It can take years before federal money becomes available. There are all sorts of complications," he added.

THE POSSIBILITY is not being eliminated of applying for federal funds in the future to expand the new station into a commuter center, Walsh said.

The total commuter center concept in other areas has been associated with multiple level parking, bus, taxi, and helicopter facilities adjoining the rail station.

Development of a commuter center could create a facility available to areas such as Schaumburg, Long Grove and Buffalo Grove because of easy access to the track area via Routes 53 and 14, Walsh said.

Plans for the new station should be available from C & NW engineers in a few days, he added.

Construction of the new station and parking facility will begin once it is determined what share of the cost each of three parties involved is willing to accept, Walsh said.

Ballot Positions Settled

The ballot positions of Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 candidates in the April 10 election was settled Friday when all petitions were submitted by the 4 p.m. deadline.

The possibility of a fifth candidate being listed did not materialize. School administrators said a woman who refused to identify herself requested and received a petition Wednesday night, saying it was for someone else. The petition was not returned.

The candidates will be listed in the order of their filing petitions. Dr. Bernard J. Powell will appear first. Following him in this order will be Adam J. Jelen Jr., Sherwood Lee Spatz and Mrs. Connie Schoeld.

Powell filed early in the campaign, before some other candidates had received their petitions. An eye specialist, he lives at 220 S. Roselle Rd. and has offices at 105 S. Roselle Rd. Jelen, of 329 Baxter Ln., Hoffman Estates, filed midway through the legal filing period. Spatz, of 7875 Ramsgate Circle South, Hanover Park, and Mrs. Schoeld, of 674 Parkview Ln., Hoffman Estates, filed Friday.

ANY OF THE four candidates still could legally remove their names from the ballot. Marvin Lapicola, district business manager, said the deadline to drop a name from the ballot is tomorrow night.

The candidates have been invited to meet with current board members at 8 p.m. tomorrow in district offices to become familiarized with district budgetary procedures and policies. The "candidates' night" with the board is an annual custom.

The four candidates will compete for two terms of three years each on the board. None are incumbents. The two elected candidates will fill seats now held by outgoing board members Mrs. Betty Landon and Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen.

Drug Arrests In 2 Villages

Both Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates village police departments were involved in arrests for possession of drugs last week.

Schaumburg Patrolman William Bartkovich charged three youths with possession of marijuana after he stopped their car at 10 50 a.m. Wednesday on Algonquin Road at Arbor Drive. The driver, Alan C. Wagner, 17, of 1004 Greenwood Dr., Mount Prospect, was charged with possession of marijuana, carrying open liquor containers in a motor vehicle, possession of alcohol by a minor and improper display of license plates. The names of the other two youths, aged 15 and 16, were withheld because of their ages.

Bartkovich reported he searched the car, finding a quantity of material believed to be marijuana, 16 cans of beer, two cans of malt liquor and a quart of Scotch whiskey.

Wagner is to appear in Circuit Court April 7.

Hoffman Estates police provided holding facilities for a federal narcotics agent Thursday after he arrested Leonard Boczkowski, 25, of 941 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village. The agent, whose name was withheld because he works undercover, charged Boczkowski with possession and sale of a dangerous drug, two separate charges. He said Boczkowski had sold him a cube of LSD.

Reduce Teacher Hirings

Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 definitely will reduce teacher hirings for next year.

The board of education, meeting Thursday night, approved hiring 19 general classroom teachers to start in September and seven more for January. The 26 total is much lower than approved staff increases in the past, which have ranged from 40 to 70 for general classroom teaching alone, said Ronald Ruble, personnel superintendent.

The lesser hirings will result in an average class size increase of one child, said Ruble, but he added current class sizes are lower than they had been expected to be. Classes now average 25 or 26 pupils, said Ruble, and next year the average should be about 27.

The teachers approved for January hirings will handle any mid-year growth in the district, said Wayne Schaible, district superintendent. He added he would not be requesting any more staff additions later in the year.

Ruble explained the decrease in new teaching positions does not result from any budget cuts, but instead is a reflection of slower growth than the district had anticipated.

For September of 1969, the district received 1,500 more children than it had the previous year. Population projections indicated a similar increase for the following year, but only 876 new children entered schools, Ruble said. Projections for next September indicate only 900 additional children will attend district schools. Because the projection of new children is lower, the number of new teachers also was reduced, Ruble said.

Concerning class sizes, Ruble said the district tries to keep within a 27 to 30 pupil range.

The board also approved hiring new teachers in the following other areas: music, two; physical education, one; art, one; speech, one; educable mentally handicapped, one; learning disabilities, two; socially maladjusted, two; guidance, one. Most of these appointments are to staff Everett Dirksen School, to open next year. Three new secretaries and three new custodians also were approved.

DEANNE GLOPPEN, a student at Daniel P. Cook Elementary School in Elk Grove Village, reminds residents that the school's Parent Teacher Council will sponsor a book fair Wednesday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and Thursday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the school, 711 Chelmsford Ln.

Recreation Plan Proposed

by JERRY THOMAS

A 27 hole golf course, and extensive recreational facilities have been proposed for a 200-acre site in Schaumburg Township adjoining Hanover Park.

The proposal, however, did not come from the owner of the property, Metropolitan Sanitary District, but Village Atty. William Davies.

The attorney received village board approval Thursday of the plans for the recreational development he proposes for the district's recent acquisition adjacent to the present Hanover Park Sanitary District's Treatment Plant off Barrington Road.

Although MSD purchased the land for a sludge farm project and expansion of its present facility, attorney Davies showed an artist's rendition of the golf course, tennis courts and football and baseball fields.

Describing it as "Davies and Humphreys pipedream" Davies said it was his and the Hanover Park District president's Harold Humphreys plan.

Admitting the MSD district owns the land he argued the village objects to the use of it as a sludge farm and hopes that the district can be influenced to develop it as a recreation area.

He added that federal and governmental agencies could be approached for financing of the project and the MSD would benefit from good publicity as much as the village would from the recreational area.

Originally the village fought the acquisition, and after the sale authorized Davies, organizers of objecting groups and the park district to negotiate with the MSD.

Pointing out they bought the acreage because they needed it to dispose of sludge and expand the present facility close to $3 million, and told the attorney to come back with a concrete offer from a developer.

MSD added that it would consider a cooperative recreational use while the land was used to dispose of the solids, from the plant that is being expanded.

There was talk of a golf course but the MSD would not be tied down to any promise except one to work with the villagers.

Mrs. Karen Goro, chairman of the Hanover's Involved People Group recently banded together to fight the MSD plans for sludge farming, wasn't too pleased with Davies' plans.

She asked how sludge could be applied to turf and still be used as a golf course. The odor was also discussed as she talked about the ammonia-like smell of fertilizers.

Davies said that's why his plans showed 27 holes; while sludge was being applied on some areas the others would be open for play.

He said the MSD district should be receptive to the plan since they could point to the recreational development as "something beautiful, useful to the community and still working for the district."

"But sludge still stinks," objected a resident. "Would you rather have a stinky golf course or a stinky corn field?" asked Davies.

Although he holds approval from the trustees Davies will continue to attempt to attract a developer for the site.

The board noted that it would prefer industrial or commercial development of the acreage, but if that fails would work for Davies' plan.

NEC Affiliation Approved By Board

The Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education voted five to two in favor of continuing affiliation with the Northwest Educational Cooperative (NEC) Thursday night.

The board has been considering its membership in NEC for the past several months, and delayed making a decision on staying in the cooperative until its last meeting before the deadline.

Members for the 1971-72 fiscal year must register by April 1.

Board members have expressed dissatisfaction with NEC, saying administrators of the cooperative take too much initiative. The employee staff has taken the role of initiating programs and seeking financial support from member school districts, said the board, rather than leaving the direction for programs up to the member districts.

The Dist. 54 board also has complained that it has not gotten a sufficient return for its money for its money spent on membership fees. The annual fee is $4,800. Complaints also have been made about NEC projects, which board members have said are unnecessarily expensive for their benefits.

MRS. BONNIE Hannon, board member and district representative to NEC, spoke in favor of the continued membership, and said there will be changes in the organization's constitution to make it a more responsive and effective service for school districts.

The organization was formed to assist and deal with mutual problems facing the 10 member school districts, and to explore means of coordinating services for mutual savings.

"NEC is already providing methods to meet some of these problems," she said, mentioning the cooperative's data processing center, teacher training program and developmental training center.

Mrs. Hannon also said the district could work for the changes it sought in NEC policies as a member, but by dropping affiliation could not hope to produce changes.

Wayne Schaible, district superintendent, also urged membership be retained, and said he was certain cooperative procedures would be improved.

THE BOARD discussed a letter NEC received from Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, the only remaining district of the 10 members. Schaible and Mrs. Hannon said the letter had stirred controversy at the last NEC meeting, and could be a start in forming new by-laws.

The two Dist. 54 members who voted against continued membership were Mrs. Betty Landon and Don Rudd.

Four Dist. 54 members voted against approval of current NEC by-laws, defeating the motion. Voting in favor of the by-laws were Mrs. Hannon, Mrs. Diane Hart and Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen. The board agreed to discuss recommendations for procedure changes in NEC at a future meeting.

3 File For Board Seats

Three High School Dist. 211 residents have filed as candidates for two board positions in the April 10 school board election.

All announced their candidacy before the final filing date Friday.

Paul Hughes, 410 MacArthur Ln. in Palatine, will lead the ballot. Robert Seger, 919 Canterbury in Schaumburg will be second, and John Sowa, 151 Edgemont Ln. in Hoffman Estates, will be last on the ballot.

Lytle Johnson of Hoffman Estates and Harris Helgeson of Palatine, incumbent board members whose terms expire this spring, will not be seeking reelection.

Johnson has been on the Dist. 211 board four years, Helgeson 22 years. Both have served as school board president.

Camp Fire Girls Slate Luncheon

The Kani Ta Horizon Club of Camp Fire Girls, with members from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Elk Grove Village will sponsor a mother and daughter luncheon with style show Saturday, March 27, 1 p.m., at Schaumburg High School.

The fashion show will feature clothes handcrafted by mothers of the Camp Fire Girls and the girls themselves.

The members will use the profits to help pay expenses to "Aware 71," a national conference for youth being held in Washington, D.C., Minneapolis, Minn., Claremont, Calif., Portland, Oregon, and Denton, Tex.

These meetings are being held by Horizon Girls to identify the problems of the world.

The Horizon Girls have scheduled luncheons in Elk Grove Village and Hanover Park for April and May.

Police Exams Help Youth Center

Additional supervision, safety precautions and more active discouragement of drug possession has stemmed from examinations of the Des Plaines Place for People Youth Drop-in

Charge Man With Burglary Attempt

An 18-year-old Des Plaines man was charged with attempted burglary Thursday night after he was reportedly found in a darkened meat locker of an Arlington Heights supermarket.

Arlington Heights police said the man, Robert Dye-house, of 1409 Campbell St., Des Plaines, was discovered in the locker by employees of the A&P supermarket, 1818 N. Arlington Heights Rd., at closing time.

The employee, Mike Gaynor, told police he was making a final check of the store prior to closing when he found Dye-house at the rear of the darkened locker. Gaynor said Dye-house claimed he was looking for a washroom.

Dye-house was held overnight without bail and was arraigned Friday before Magistrate Paul A. O'Malley, of the Cook County Circuit Court.

Dye-house was later taken to the Cook County Jail, in lieu of $20,000 bond, awaiting an April 2 court date.

Center by Des Plaines Police youth officers.

Examinations of the informal youth center in February showed that teenagers were sitting in almost total darkness, smoking and overcrowding the hall and stairway, all in violation of fire safety rules.

The youth officers have begun daily examinations of the center at the Rand Park Fieldhouse, Dempster near Parkview, according to Det. Lawrence Zumbrock, youth officer.

Sgt. Ken Fredricks and other members of the youth division have visited the center and have had discussions with the Rev. Dave Russell, chairman of the youth center board and with the Rev. Richard Smith, director of the center.

REV. RUSSELL, speaking Thursday at a meeting of the Des Plaines Coordinating Council on Youth Problems, said that smoking has been forbidden in the main room of the center and adult supervision has increased. Rules against drugs are being enforced, he said, and a greater effort has been made to keep the center clean.

Fire precautions now enforced include use of exit lights and full lighting of the center, he said.

He also said a policy is being worked out by the Place for People board on what should be done if narcotics are found in the possession of a youth.

According to Zumbrock, Smith would like to talk to any youth who has been discovered to have narcotics. Smith would then discourage its usage.

But Zumbrock feels that police should be called in when narcotics are found.

RUSSELL SAID narcotics might be found at the center because of the current drug culture among Des Plaines youth, but the center is now collecting $1,000 to have additional drug counseling and to set up a course on drug education.

The center also is planning courses on ceramics and other activities to replace the boredom that often leads to drug addiction, he said.

The Drop-in center has received a $500 contribution from the Maine West High School student council. The center has also become a state chartered non-profit organization and is seeking state and community financial report support.

The Des Plaines Park District this week renewed the Youth center lease for three months at the second floor of the Rand Park Fieldhouse.

The center was created last summer to provide an informal atmosphere for discussion and counseling for Des Plaines teens who don't feel they fit in with athletic or school sponsored activities, center officials have said.

The youth center board has representatives from the Kiwanis, Jaycees, First Methodist Church, Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church and St. Martin's Episcopal church. It has received the support of the Des Plaines Coordinating Council, according to Sgt. Fredricks, Council chairman.

Police Investigate Thefts In Village

Schaumburg Village Police are investigating two burglary reports from last week.

Carl O. Zimmerman, 220 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg, told police at 4:30 p.m. Thursday an estimated $1,000 in cash and electrical equipment were taken from his apartment sometime between 6:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. that day. Missing were $50 in coins, a tape recorder valued at $500, a movie projector valued at $125, a portable television valued at $120 and two tape players, one valued at $140 and the other of unknown value.

Wednesday morning, Lt. Oliver Kugleman, Chief of the security force at Motorola Inc., told police a $217 adding machine had been taken from a company office. Police said the culprit apparently scaled a nine-foot temporary partition to get into the office.

Carnival Atmosphere

Harper College Career Day Set

Trampoline stunts, a tooth booth and an electronic tic-tac-toe game will provide a carnival atmosphere for the Harper College Career Day Tuesday, March 23 at the college.

Businessmen and housewives as well as high school and college students are invited to visit the daylong Career Carousel where the college's 29 career programs will be explained.

Area high schools have been invited to bring students to the program between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Evening hours for students and residents who cannot come during the day are 7 to 10 p.m.

The trampoline stunts will be demonstrated by the physical education department. A booth built like a tooth will be the information center for the dental hygiene program, and the electronic tic-tac-toe will be located at the electronics career booth.

IN ADDITION, the law enforcement department will have a police squad car, motorcycle, and a state police van on display. A cardboard computer built by students in the data processing program will tell fortunes.

All 29 career programs will have information booths open where visitors can discuss the programs with students and faculty advisors.

Programs available at Harper include accounting aide, architectural technology, baking, business and industrial security, chemical technology, child services, clerical or administrative assistant, cooking, data processing, data processing clerical, dental hygiene, electronics technology, fashion design and fire science.

Other career programs are food service management, journalism, law enforcement, legal secretary, marketing mid-management, mechanical engineering technology, mechanical drafting, numerical control technology, nursing, secretarial science, supermarket management, supervisory and administrative management.

Two new career programs are interior design and real estate.

The Career Carousel is being organized by Robert Cormack, dean of career programs, and the Harper Career Coordinators' Council.

Adults who have an interest in continuing their education in a specialized field are being encouraged to attend the Career Carousel, according to Cormack. A national need for skilled technicians is prompting development of career programs at the community college level.

Harper College offers a two-year associate degree in most of the 29 career programs. A few programs offer a one-year certificate.

"High schools outside the Harper district (areas served by High School Dist. 211, 214 and 224) have expressed interest in our programs as well as those within the district," Cormack said. Currently, Harper is participating in a cooperative program with high schools in health occupations careers besides enrichment and regular courses for adults.

Harper is located at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine.

Three School Programs On Board Agenda

Three school programs — the action program and modular scheduling at Wheeling High School, and the self-contained classroom at Prospect High School — are on the agenda for discussion by the High School Dist. 214 School Board tonight.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Building, 799 W. Kensington Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Two substitute teachers, Mrs. Ronald Ladders, 34 University, Buffalo Grove, and Mrs. Donald Meisner, 1827 Rolling La., Arlington Heights, will speak to the board about substitute teacher salaries.

Substitutes presently receive $25 per day for the first 10 days they substitute in a school year and $30 per day after that. The substitute teachers are asking for an increase in the daily amount, which they say has not been changed for three years.

The board will also take final action to award the 1971-74 bus contract for the northern part of the district to Cook County Bus Co. Circuit Court Judge Edward Egan in a declaratory judgment requested by the school board, named Cook County as the low bidder over Davidmeyer Bus Service.

Approval of $106,000 for purchase of movable furniture for Rolling Meadows High School will also be considered.

Percy And Stevenson Think Alike

by ED MURNANE

There have only been a handful of meaningful votes cast thus far in the 92nd Congress but if the early indications are prophetic, Illinois finds itself with two very similar-thinking senators.

As of Friday, March 12, there were 17 yes-no votes taken in the Senate and, on the 13 votes which Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., have both been recorded, they have differed on only one vote.

The difference came on March 10 when Percy voted for and Stevenson voted against a motion to table an amendment which would have included voting representation for the District of Columbia as part of the package calling for a universal 18-year-old vote. The motion was tabled, with Percy and 67 other senators voting in favor and Stevenson joined by only 22 of his colleagues.

Morality And The Effects On Youth Will Be Explored

The American morality and its effects on today's youth will be among the issues explored by a select group of senior high school students March 27, at the Cook County Student Forum.

Students from Hanover Park, Mount Prospect and Wheeling will participate.

The event called by Schools Superintendent Robert Hanrahan will be held at 9:30 a.m. in his offices at Chicago's Civic Center.

The meeting, closed to teachers and administrators, is scheduled as an effort to examine the problems confronting students in Cook County. Saturday's session will be the third of its kind held this term.

Two thirds of the 53 delegates invited are selected at random by William Cote, director of research. The remaining third are student council presidents.

High school guidance offices in Cook County are now using a Selective Service System manual, offering legal alternatives to the draft, a result of the Student Forum.

Other topics to be discussed in "an informal, unstructured exchange" include campus demonstrations, the nature of student dissent, dress and hair codes and classroom ethics.

The Student Forum in October discussed how to make education more meaningful to young people. December's session was confined to drug abuse in suburban public schools where delegates said existing efforts in drug education are totally ineffective.

They said teachers should undergo intensive indoctrination on drugs before attempting to give information on drugs to students.

In some respects, the similarities between Percy's and Stevenson's voting records are misleading. Four of the key votes cast thus far in the Senate have been on the same question — whether or not debate over proposed filibuster changes should be ended.

But it is interesting, and somewhat revealing, to compare the voting records of Percy and Stevenson with the records of certain other senators from both sides of the aisle and from both ends of the political spectrum.

OF THE 17 votes taken, only eight can be considered close enough to have any significance in comparing records. Others have been by unanimous vote or so lopsided that they are almost unanimous.

On the eight votes, we'll compare Percy and Stevenson with four other Democrats: Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine and Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota.

We'll also compare them with four Republicans: Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Sen. James Buckley of New York.

One thing that can be said for the two Illinois senators is the fact they have some of the best attendance records on close votes of the 10 senators involved in the comparison.

Percy has not missed one of the key votes and Stevenson has missed only one.

Scott, who is Republican Senate leader, also has a perfect record.

Bayh and McGovern, both contenders for the Democratic nomination for President next year, have each missed one of the eight.

Dole, who is also Republican National Chairman, Kennedy and Buckley have missed two of the eight votes.

The two poorest records belong to Goldwater, who ran for President in 1964, and Muskie, who would like to run for President in 1972. Both have missed four of the eight close votes.

HERE IS HOW the various senators compare with Percy and Stevenson:

—There are three votes in which Percy, Stevenson and Muskie have each voted and they voted identically on all three.

—There are six votes in which Percy, Stevenson and Bayh have each voted and they voted identically on five. The exception was the District of Columbia vote mentioned earlier. Bayh and Stevenson voted similarly.

—There are six votes in which Percy, Stevenson and Kennedy have each voted and they voted identically on five. Kennedy joined Stevenson and Bayh on the D.C. vote.

—There are seven votes in which Percy, Stevenson and McGovern each voted and they voted identically on six, with the D.C. bill again the exception.

—There have been four votes in which Percy, Stevenson and Goldwater have each voted and they have not voted identically on any. Percy voted the same as Goldwater on one of the four, the D.C. bill, while Stevenson has been opposite Goldwater each time.

—There are seven votes in which Percy, Stevenson and Scott each voted and they agreed on all but the D.C. vote. Scott and Percy have voted identically on the eight close votes.

—There are six votes in which Percy, Stevenson and Dole each voted and they did not vote alike on any. Percy and Dole have agreed on two of six votes.

—There are six votes in which Percy, Stevenson and Buckley have each voted and they have not voted alike on any. Percy and Buckley have agreed on one of six votes.

WHAT IT ALL means is that Percy, with the exception of the District of Columbia bill, has voted exactly the same as Stevenson, Bayh, Kennedy, Muskie and McGovern.

But so has Scott, the Republican Senate leader. Buckley, Dole and Goldwater have not differed on any votes in which all three have participated.

It's still early in the new Congress to form definite opinions on how close the votes of the two Illinois senators will be on key issues. But thus far, it seems as if different party labels will not assure Illinois residents of divergent representation.

Religion Today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

America's Catholic bishops have been sharply criticized for equating abortion with murder, by Father John Reedy, Publisher of Ave Maria Press at Notre Dame.

The Holy Cross priest-publisher writes that the use of the word "murder" (which the assembled prelates used in an anti-abortion resolution last November) "obscures the issue rather than clarifies it."

Father Reedy had earlier written that "The religion simplists who reduce all efforts at liberalized abortion laws to 'anti-life propaganda' do a disservice to all of us."

In contrast to this Catholic priest's plea for restraint, readers of the Archdiocese of San Francisco's usually sensible, tolerant and award-winning newspaper The Monitor, were recently treated to an impressive page one panoramic view — of the Los Angeles City Dump.

An insert to this unusual religious photographic art featured one of the dump's bulldozer operators, James Huff, who The Monitor identified as having "discovered the bodies." "Sheriff's spokesmen," The Monitor subsequently clarified, "described the fetuses as between two and five months old."

FORTUNATELY for the more sensitive subscribers who read The Monitor at breakfast, there was no photograph of "the 12 bodies" (Nor in the 1930s, when contraception was the raging issue, were there any similar photographs of "evidence" in the L.A. Dump.)

But this sort of thing had been done months earlier, when diocesan periodicals throughout the nation ran a photograph of a tiny fetus in the bottom of a stainless steel bucket.

This grisly photograph was distributed by an unofficial and conservative Catholic periodical called "Social Justice Review," in St. Louis. But when this periodical was asked about where and by whom the photograph was taken, the only response was, "in a midwestern hospital, by a physician."

(The Review, official newspaper for the Archdiocese of St. Louis refused to run this fetus-photo in its news columns after layman James Mackay protested, "For all we know this could be a miscarriage. I think we should know the source.")

In Washington State, a similar fetus-photo (this one in a giant hand) appeared on billboards and public buses throughout the state, under the caption: "KILL REFERENCE 20 — NOT ME!"

THIS NOT ONLY produced a mini-storm of protest from a few parents opposed to sex education, but the citizens of the Evergreen State responded by voting in one of the most liberal abortion laws in U.S. history.

In Hawaii, the inimitable Clare Boothe Luce proved that even in retirement she is, generally speaking, generally speaking. The famed playwright, Congresswoman and widow of the world's most powerful publisher coined a new and effectively hair-raising phrase, in asking attention to:

"... what punishment our laws should mete out to fetal murderers" — adding that the number of such "murderesses" is between "twenty and forty million."

"Abortion is a crime so horrible," wrote Mrs. Luce, "that a woman should prefer to suffer any agony of heart, mind or body — even to prefer her own death — rather than commit it."

(But she was somewhat nonplussed when, as a panelist at Harvard Law School, she was asked if she would be in favor of requiring all pregnant women abroad to carry two passports.)

MRS. LUCE included these significant remarks in reviewing two books for William F. Buckley's National Review magazine ("superbly" — commented Buckley of his reviewer's effort) — one of which was, "Abortion: Law, Choice or Morality," by Daniel Callahan.

Callahan, a former editor of the highly intellectual, Catholic-edited Commonweal magazine, recently made an astounding admission to The National Catholic Reporter. When asked how in view of his fervid anti-abortion Commonweal editorials he had come to change his mind, Callahan replied:

"For the first time I began thinking and reading seriously about the arguments on the other side."

The National Catholic Reporter also published a statement from the Rev. Don C. Shaw of Chicago:

"If abortion is murder, then let's have some warrants issued and get the show on the road. Otherwise the pompous pronouncements are essentially the wailings of hypocrites."

Solutions Offered For County, Suburb Zone Disputes

by DAVE CRIPPEN
Last of a series
A number of solutions to the zoning dispute between county and suburb have been suggested by officials on both sides. Some are uncomplicated, like that proposed by County Commissioner Charles S. Bonk who contends everyone would be happy if communities would just annex the land.

Others call for action with more far-reaching implications, such as state control of zoning in unincorporated areas.

COMMENTS FROM county and local leaders indicate there at least is some mutually agreeable steps that could be taken. These include:

—Striving for more communication between local officials and county zoning authority.

—Revising the basic guidelines on which county zoning decisions are based, either through comprehensive planning or updating of the existing zoning map.

—Achieving a closer working relationship between county and suburb in recognition that zoning and other area-wide problems can best be met through concerted efforts.

Indicative of the progress that can be achieved through more communications is the growing understanding local officials display for the county Zoning Board of Appeals Zoning Board Chairman Alex Seith is credited with bringing about this more conciliatory attitude.

SINCE SEITH took over as chairman in August 1969 he has sought comments and criticism from local officials on his board's operation. He has markedly revised the board procedures in reviewing cases.

Regular board meetings are now public and frequently, he allows comments from the floor. Board procedure and policy is reiterated by Seith at each regular session, as well as before each public hearing. And though formal agendas are not available, Seith makes it clear any interested party can find out what is scheduled for meetings merely by calling the zoning board secretary.

Municipal planner Thompson A. Dyke of Harland Bartholomew and Associates, who generally sides with local forces in criticizing county zoning practices, has nothing but praise for the board.

Procedurally they have one of the finest operations I've ever run into," says Dyke.

The board procedures are still under fire, most notably by Wheeling and its village attorney, Paul Hamer. Hamer, though acknowledging Seith's improvements, challenges zoning board refusal to continue public hearings so opposing testimony can be presented.

It would appear part of the problem could be blamed simply on the long-standing process by which a developer seeks zoning board action. No one — neither suburban nor county officials — has any idea of the nature of the proposed development until plans are outlined during the hearing. As a result, communities complain they can't prepare testimony.

EUGENE SCHLICKMAN
The prospect of state involvement

GEORGE W. DUNNE

"I'd be ready to meet with . . . the Northwest suburban children's choir."

SEITH ADMITS there is some justification for local concern over this point and hinted he is considering some possibilities for providing more information before public hearings. But he also points out that current procedure allows at least 21 days after the hearing for opposing interests to file written statements. These are thoroughly considered by the board before decisions are reached, according to Seith.

Moreover, he suggested communities already have the power to find out what a developer has in mind before the public hearing.

"If the village is that interested in what the guy is going to do, it can have a deposition taken," Seith argues. But most village officials reject that idea, because such action imposes an unjustified burden on the community.

Differences over procedural matters are not as sharp as those stemming from county zoning decisions. It is in substantive matters that officials see a need for more meaningful communications.

A number of Northwest community leaders have suggested suburbs collectively approach the county in an effort to identify and solve common problems. Staunch advocates of such a plan are Elk Grove Village Pres Jack Pahl and Bob Teichert, village president of Mount Prospect.

"HOW ABOUT county and village planners getting together to arrive at some mutual understanding?" asks Pahl. "Then the village and county can present a united front to property owners and developers." In conjunction with his proposal, he suggested a "moratorium" on zoning of unincorporated land until some common goals are identified.

But village and county officials alike dismiss the implementing such a suggestion as impractical and unconstitutional. Teichert is among those who sees little sense in a moratorium, but he supports the idea of community cooperation.

"I see a real need for the communities to get together to discuss what is good planning for all of us," he stresses. "Then let's sit down with the county." Teichert is critical of area communities for what he terms "reactionary planning" that is not responsive to the current trends and needs.

Currently president of the Northwest Municipal Conference (NWMC), Teichert is confident the organization can represent the area in settling zoning problems.

OTHER LOCAL officials doubt such efforts can achieve anything meaningful because the county wouldn't respond.

Hamer recalls, "We attempted to do that some time ago, and it fell flat on its face."

Palatine Village Mgr. Burt Braun is likewise skeptical. "As long as zoning is something to be traded, you're not going to accomplish anything."

But even the skeptics say they would back a concerted effort and give the county credit for demonstrating more responsiveness recently.

Arlington Heights Village Pres Jack Walsh asserts, "There has been attempt on the county's part to improve communications." Walsh claims he has attempted to establish better relations by personally contacting county officials and stresses a need for "non-political" efforts at bringing about mutual understanding.

As a result, Walsh claims, "I've found, in general, we have found our way to a fairly cordial relationship." He, too, backs plans to present a united front to the county but doubts NWMC is capable carrying out such a program. Walsh, currently president of the Cook County Council of Governments (COG), suggests that organization is much better equipped for such a role.

COUNTY OFFICIALS say they would welcome any effort by communities to foster better understanding and more communications. Moreover, they pledge to work with any group representing local interests.

Typical of official willingness to work with community representatives was Dunne, who remarked, "I'd be ready to meet with even the Northwest suburban children's choir on any matter."

Most officials foresee many needs beyond the communications gap. High on the long list of problems to be solved, according to some, is a desperate need for comprehensive planning.

Last year the county board set up a planning department and established itself as the "planning commission." However, the four-man staff in the department has not undertaken any projects related to land use in unincorporated areas, according to Planning Director Ted Brzyski.

County board officials contend the comprehensive zoning ordinance of 1960 serves as the overall plan to guide development. Revision of the ordinance and its zoning maps will get under way this year.

PLANNERS and local officials contend the zoning provisions are inadequate and doubt little will be accomplished by their revision.

"What happened in Cook County has happened because they left out planning," says Dyke, whose firm has prepared comprehensive plans for numerous Chicago suburbs. Dyke argues that planning must precede preparation of the zoning ordinance.

Most local officials side with him. But neither they nor Dyke see any hope for substantive planning efforts by the county.

Referring to the county board serving as a planning commission, Walsh remarked, "I don't think it is worth a ding that way."

Many visualize state involvement in zoning matters as the only plausible solution. Recently, the newly-established Illinois Zoning Commission, headed by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, released a preliminary report calling for minimum state-wide zoning regulations.

THE REPORT ALSO proposed establishment of a permanent zoning commission, a recommendation which drew a great deal of fire from those who argued the provision would undermine local autonomy. Schlickman subsequently re-

8 Seek Harper Posts

There will be eight candidates running this year for three open seats on the Harper College board of trustees.

The eighth candidate, Larry Barry of 904 Cambridge Dr., Buffalo Grove, filed Friday at the Palatine community college.

No other candidates filed by the 4 p.m. cut-off time, although the college's attorney, Frank Hines of Elk Grove Village, was prepared to aid any candidates.

Here's the way the eight candidates will appear on the ballot:

- Hannah K. Wilson of Mount Prospect.
- Larry Moran of Schaumburg.
- Milton C. Hansen of Palatine.
- Ross A. Miller of Mount Prospect.
- Gene W. Beery of Palatine (unincorporated).
- Robert Fuchs of Prospect Heights (unincorporated).
- D. Eugene Nugent of Palatine (unincorporated).
- Larry Barry of Buffalo Grove.

ACCORDING TO HINES, three of the candidates — Beery, Fuchs and Nugent — live in unincorporated areas. Under law one member of the board must be from an unincorporated area, so voters will be asked to approve either Beery, Fuchs or Nugent as the unincorporated representative, according to Hines.

The conclusion of filing means that the careers of two veteran board members, John Haas of Prospect Heights and James Hamill of Palatine, have ended. Haas, who has served on the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 board and the High School Dist. 214 board, announced over a month ago that he would not seek reelection.

Hamill announced last week he would not seek reelection to the Harper board. He had previously served as a member of the Elementary Dist. 54 (Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg) board.

Both men are lawyers and lived in unincorporated areas. They are also members of the college's original board of trustees, first elected in 1965.

Coloring Contest Winners Named

Norman Pree, age 10½, of 503 Willow, Elk Grove Village, was judged the grand prize winner and first place champion of the 1971 coloring contest sponsored by Paddock Publications in cooperation with the annual Chicago Flower and Garden Show.

Norman will receive a $25 Savings Bond. Other winners in the four-week contest will be awarded prizes of Kodak cameras.

In addition to being named grand prize winner, Norman Pree was also judged the winner of this week's first place award in the final week of the contest.

Second place went to John Ziegler, 391 Indian Hill, Buffalo Grove, and third place was awarded to Susan Villie, 402 E. Highland Ave., Mount Prospect.

A total of 49 entries were submitted this week for the top prizes.

vised the proposed powers of the commission, reducing its authority to that of a mediator, rather than giving it final authority in deciding zoning disputes.

The final report is slated to be presented to the legislature around Mar. 1.

Currently local officials offer cautious support of state zoning efforts, but are fearful of losing jealously-guarded community control over land use. County leaders are critical of proposed state involvement and have hinted they will strongly oppose legislative efforts.

But for now, the county is limiting its opposition to polite criticism, as exemplified in remarks by Homer Fields, zoning board members who commented, "I like to keep government as close to the people as possible. Although state zoning may be in the future, I can't see any need for it this year."

State zoning and other related legislation are a long way from reality. In the meantime, officials of Cook County and the Northwest suburbs must live with existing provisions as rules of the zoning game.

It remains to be seen whether local and county forces will continue to battle each or will strive for some measure of agreement on how remaining unincorporated land should be used.

The Doctor Says
by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have angina of the heart and wondered if any one ever gets over this or is it something I will have to learn to live with? I am nervous and in my 40s and female. Would you say something about angina of the heart in your column?

Dear Reader — The most common cause of anginal chest pain is atherosclerosis, fatty deposits in the arteries. It is fairly uncommon in women of our age and quite common in older women. Men can have it, too, particularly after a heart attack.

Emotional tension or excitement can cause the pain. That is why the doctor tries to eliminate excitement or stress for a heart patient.

Often an overweight person can help himself by losing a lot of weight. This decreases the amount of work the heart needs to do. I can't emphasize too strongly that even if a person has a minimal amount of extra fat, the loss of fat can greatly increase the amount of work a person can do without having heart pain.

Of course, coffee, particularly in nervous people, should be stopped and cigarettes eliminated. After weight reduction some people benefit from a walking program. But before you start you should check with your doctor to be certain an exercise program won't be too much for you. Incidentally, life's situations — like getting excited watching television — often cause the heart to work harder than a good normal walk. A person has to have rather severe heart disease before he can't walk in good weather.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Jim "One of the most enjoyable things about playing at New York's Regency Whist Club is the chance I get to play with some of the great players of the '30's."

Oswald "Sounds like a hand is coming up. Which one of the old-timers played that one?"

Jim "John Rau. I believe he won the Open Teams in 1930 and had several other firsts and seconds before he got involved in business."

Oswald "He won it with Ely Culbertson, John Carpenter and Billy Barrett. He was just 23 then and was the youngest man to win it until you did in 1955."

Jim "My raise to four spades was a gamble, but I had seen Mr. Rau play some tough dummy. He sure justified my optimism."

Oswald "How did it go?"

Jim "Hearts were opened and continued John ruffed the second heart and promptly led a low trump from his hand. East won and led a diamond. John rose with the ace, played out his ace — king-queen of trumps and wound up running my club suit."

Oswald "A nice safety play. By submerging the trump suit he left a trump in dummy so that the defenders could not force him to ruff another heart in his hand. If he had binged out ace-king-

GSA's Too Late; Poor Chap Has 'Drowned' In C-A-T-S!

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON UPI — Dealing with the federal government can be, as most citizens have discovered for themselves, an exasperating experience.

At hand, for example, is a news release from the General Services Administration. It mentions some of the interesting questions that have been phoned into federal information centers operated by the GSA.

At least one of the questions — "What's the government going to do about the cats in my basement?" — may be the nucleus of a first-rate human interest story.

The news release, however, provides absolutely no elaboration. Having piqued one's curiosity, it leaves one dangling in the information gap.

ONE COULD, I suppose, lodge a query with the GSA and eventually learn all of the details. But that would never compensate for the time one has spent dangling in the information gap and trying to visualize the situation in one's own mind.

The first mental picture one gets is a man covering under the pool table of his basement rec room, an extension telephone in hand.

Trying to reach him with their paws as he dials the federal information center are two cats the size of elephants.

Mental Picture No. 2: The same man is dialing the phone on the bar in his basement rec room. The liquor cabinet has been broken open and a number of bottles overturned and emptied.

Disporting themselves about the room in riotous fashion, some swinging on the chandelier, others wearing lampshades on their heads, are about a dozen drunk cats.

MENTAL PICTURE NO. 3: The man is standing in the basement rec room with cats up to his waist and is frantically dialing the telephone.

"Good morning. Federal information center. May I help you?"

"Yes. This is Adlebert Waples of 501 South Main and I would like to know what's the government going to do about the cats in my basement."

"About the whaaaaat in your basement?"

"The cats in my basement." About the Whaaaaat in your basement?"

Dick West

"Cats. C-A-T-S. My basement is filling up with cats."

"How long have you had this problem, Mr. Waples?"

"It started about an hour ago. I heard a purring noise in the basement and when I went down to investigate, the floor was covered with cats. They were only about a foot deep at the time but just since I've been talking to you they have risen..."

"Mr. Waples... Mr. Waples? ... That's funny. He must have hung up."

Selleck Named All-America

Jeff Selleck, a mainstay on Arlington High's Mid-Suburban League champion football team, has been named to the All-America team of Scholastic Coach Magazine.

Selleck, who was named to the Paddock All-Area team and numerous All-State teams, played offensive center and linebacker for coach Bob Walther's undefeated Cardinals.

The 6-foot, 215 pounder has signed a scholarship tenure with the University of Minnesota. The tenure does not bind the Arlington senior to Minnesota but it does prevent him from signing with any other Big 10 school.

Selleck was named to the All-America team at linebacker but Walther said, "He will probably be best at playing center or guard in college."

Selleck is the third Arlington football captain to sign at Minnesota. The Cardinals already have Tom Chandler and Paul Tollefson on the Gopher roster.

Walther considers Selleck to be "one of the best blockers I have ever seen."

"You can just take a look at our films," the Arlington coach added, "and you can see that he did a great job for us week after week."

Selleck was chosen as Arlington's captain at the close of the 1969 football season. "He was one of the best captains we ever had," Walther said. "He always led by example and he often said the right words at the right time to lead our team."

Walther believes that Selleck has a big future ahead at whatever college he finally decides on.

"He has a lot of growing to do," the coach said, "and you can tell it by just looking at him. I think that when he finishes growing he could be 6-2 or 6-3 and weigh about 240 pounds."

"He has the potential to be a fine student. His ACT tests ranked him in the upper 10 per cent of his class. If he applies himself he should have no trouble with his school work."

"You'd have to say that we're very proud of him and that he earned it and worked hard in football to be honored."

Selleck was one of only 100 boys in the United States to be selected by Scholastic Coach for All-America honors. The Arlington griddier was one of six selected from Illinois.

At Blue Demon Relays

Track Records Fall

Five records were broken or tied, none by Maine South, but Maine South outscored 11 other schools in the fifth running of the Blue Demon Relays at the Maine East fieldhouse Saturday.

Tracksters from Fremd, Maine East, Maine West and Niles East set new meet records but no team could match Maine South's depth which netted first place for the Hawks.

Maine South scored 71½ points followed by Fremd with 60, Fremd with 48, Highland Park with 31, Maine West with 23½, Niles North with 20, Niles East, Niles West, Prospect and Arlington with seven, Hersey with four and Wheeling with two.

The first record broken of the day was made by Jeff Duff of Maine West. Duff leaped 21-5¼ in the long jump, breaking the old meet record by nearly an inch. The old record was 21-4¼ set by Jeff Genson of Maine East in 1969.

Leading nearly from the outset and setting a blistering pace all the way, Maine East's John Keane established a new record in the mile run with a 4:18.2. The old record was 4:19.3 held by Jack Gilio of Maine East who set the record in 1968.

The foursome of Jim Jarocki, Bill Jarocki, Dan Pittenger and Mike Pitchell set a new record in the two-mile relay with a 7:57.8. The old record was 8:03.6

held by Rick Randall, Bill Grimm, Rick Phalen and Jim Olson of Maine East. A strong finishing kick by Pitchell on the last lap overtook Maine East which finished second and also eclipsed the old record.

Steve Bruce of Fremd tied the meet record of 5.5 in the 50-yard dash while taking first place. In the 50-yard hurdles Bill Tepp of Niles East tied the meet record of 6.3.

Besides setting a record in the 50-yard dash, Bruce took first place in the pole vault with 13-3.

Bruce Potenza of Maine East went over the bar at 6-3 to nab first place in the high jump.

The host Demons took first place in the frosh-soph eight-lap relay with the foursome of John Flippo, Joe Cooper, Mike Bell and Doug Tucker with a 2:49.0 clocking.

Maine East also took first place in the freshman four-lap relay with Scott Peota, Joe Zimmerman, Scott Magnuson and Mike Ashner with a 1:20.7.

First place in the frosh-soph distance medley went to Maine East in 8:38.0 with Flippo, Jim Pifke, Bell and Pat Moyer.

Maine East won the last event of the meet, the mile relay, but Maine South could not be overtaken with its second place finish. Running for the Demons were Bob Kostelny, Doug Tucker, Les Joseph and Dale Hendricks.

Maine South won only two events but the Hawks, in 14 events, also had six seconds, five thirds and one fifth to put on a fine display of depth while breaking Maine East's four-year first-place streak.

'Not Bad For That No. 5 Team ...'

by PAUL LOGAN

An understatement by one of the Herald area's all-time great prep basketball players sums up the Arlington season:

"Hey, you know that's not too bad for that No. 5 team in the league."

The speaker — John Brodman. The situation — the Cardinals' happy locker room following an overtime win over Maine West for the Prospect Regional Tournament championship.

Arlington, a pre-season favorite to win the Mid-Suburban League title, finished fifth despite having the second best MSL record — 11-3.

"We had obviously hoped to win the conference," said George Zigman, the Cardinals' successful coach. "But we didn't. On the other hand, perhaps this very disappointment might have helped our journey play."

The 12th and 19th games proved to be real turning points in the Cardinals' season. The first was the second meeting with arch rival Hersey. They squandered a solid halftime lead and the loss "took us right out of the conference race," Zigman said.

Arlington's only meeting with Prospect was the other important game. Trailing by 14 points midway through the third quarter, the Cards caught fire and won in overtime, 85-82.

"I think it (the win) took us into the tournament in good shape," said Zigman. "It took us in with a very positive attitude . . . it pulled us together."

The rest is Arlington history . . . an opening tournament win over Conant (67-51), a lopsided victory over St. Viator (84-61), a thrilling overtime championship decision over Maine West (80-76), a dazzling last second triumph over North Chicago (70-69) and then a tough ending to a terrific tourney showing — a loss in the Fremd Sectional title game to New Trier East (79-66).

Zigman's team just missed achieving the three goals it had aimed for during the season — the MSL title, a trip to the Sweet Sixteen and 20 victories.

"We didn't reach one but came close to reaching the other two," he said following a very fine 19-6 effort. "In the end, we had a pretty good taste in our mouths."

One Card player that did the most toward bringing 19 sweet victories to his school was John Brodman. Any coach would have loved to have had him. Zigman was glad John was all his.

"I'm going to cry when I see him in graduation clothes," he said with a chuckle. "He was one of the finest players I've coached in 17 years."

"He does a lot of things for you. He performs well under pressure. He's a fine outside shooter, scorer and passer. When the going was tough, he was the toughest."

"Herald area's top scorer with 24.3 for 25 games.

"Scored 1,107 points in his career, fourth best on the all-time Herald area list.

"Ranks second in single season scoring with 600 points, the highest any Arlington athlete has ever scored.

"One of the best free throw shooters (81.1 average) and outside shooting guards (46.0) in the area.

"Twice on the MSL all-conference team and deserving as any for all-state honors.

Brodman will probably be remembered most because of his pressure-packed poke from 20 feet out just before the buzzer in the opening game of the Fremd Sectional. His timely loss gave Arlington a 70-69 victory over North Chicago — the last win of the season and the most meaningful one.

"I thought we played our best ball at the end of the year and in the tournament as a team," said Zigman with the accent on the last word. Those who follow Ed Arlington during that eight-game winning streak, which ended in the sectional finals, would attest to that fact. Each game the players were helping each other out.

Zigman had this to say about his four other starters:

Mike Mandele — "I thought Mike had an excellent year. He was all-conference for the second year in a row. He had to be one of the better rebounders (No. 3). He was one of the top defensive ball players we had. He had good consistency in scoring nearly 16 a game (13.8). He was truly a fine boy to coach and work with."

Bill Kieck — "I thought Bill came alive and was very instrumental in our tournament success. He had his best games of the year in the tournament."

Mike Cleveland — "He was a pleasant surprise to me. I needed a fifth starter and so I jockeyed the kids around early and he showed me he wanted it. He gave us quickness, and, in the last half of the year, he always took the toughest kid and did a respectable job for me."

Ken Peters — "Here's a young man again who came along in the second half of the season to become the kind of boy we needed to run our ball club. He not only did our running, he helped us defensively and was one of our quicker kids. He also contributed to our offense."

The Cardinal starters were all in double figures — Brodman (24.3), Mandele (13.8), Peters (11.8), Cleveland (10.9) and Kieck (10.7).

Arlington's leading rebounders were Mandele with 285, Kieck with 142 and Cleveland with 137. Also contributing some mighty clutch rebounds in a substitute role was Tom "Harry" Harris. This strong reserve front liner pulled down 78.

Joining Harris in contributing vital substitute roles was Bill Grandt. Zigman was very pleased at the way these two young men performed and also the good attitudes displayed by the other reserves — Ron and Don Lewan, Ken Pickett, Charlie Stevens and Trevor Will.

Zigman will have three juniors returning — Peters, Cleveland and Grandt. Other players who will have a shot at the starting lineup will be Terry Ormsbee (6-2), Tim Will (6-2), Rick Sundquist (6-6), Bill Welton (6-2), Jim Hopkins (5-10), Ken (6-5) and Dan Donahue (6-7¼). Bob Bunn (5-10), Jim Stull (5-10), John Ramsey (6-4) and Paul Kolze (6-1).

"Next year we're going to have more depth than before," said Zigman. "And we may have the quickest group of kids since I've been here. There might be a question of size."

If Arlington's tall kids keep growing there shouldn't be much of a size problem either. He Cardinals should be tough again next year. Just how tough will depend on the talented but inexperienced underclassmen.

Titles Elusive For 19-6 Hersey

by KEITH REINHARD

Chalk it up to experience. It's the philosophical way out perhaps. But how else can one evaluate a season that measures up to a success by all statistical standards and yet finds the team which recorded it, far from feeling content.

The team in this case is Hersey's basketball group. They won more games this past winter than probably 90 per cent of the prep cage outfits in the whole state and yet their mentor, Roger Steingraber, for one, will probably always remember the campaign in terms of the defeats that unfolded.

There were only five setbacks absorbed by the Huskies all winter. There were nearly four times as many triumphs. But the losses couldn't have picked any more discouraging junctures to unfold when they did and a team on the brink of a number of championship fortunes wound up with one.

It was partly a case of peaking too quickly. Midway through the 1970-71 season, Hersey was virtually an unstoppable force.

But, with the stretch in sight, a single incident apparently triggered a change in direction. A simple negative situation compounded itself and the Huskies were never really the same.

The final third of the season found them struggling to achieve the victories that came with such certainty earlier. Steingraber recalled, "After our win at Fremd I thought we were as good as any team in the state. And we played a good game against Wheeling the following week too but they were up for that one and we got caught at the end by a questionable buzzer."

"We seemed to go down hill from that point on," he continued. "We won four in a row afterwards but Glenbard had us down at halftime. Conant gave us a real hard time on our own court and wins at Prospect and Elk Grove didn't come all that easy. Sensing the letdown the kids might have pressed harder but we couldn't approach the poise we had possessed earlier."

Up until the Wheeling contest, that poise had only escaped the Huskies twice. They were difficult setbacks however. The first, at Maine South, came on the heels of a magnificent win over Arlington the previous night.

"They were just plain flat at Maine South," noted the coach. "Arlington had been rated the top team from the end of the previous season on and the kids threw their hearts and souls into their game with the Cardinals. We beat Arlington but there was nothing left for the next night."

That loss cost Hersey their unbeaten slate, a record Steingraber had hoped to carry unblemished down to the Danville Holiday Tournament.

At Danville the Huskies quickly dropped their second decision of the season, to Morgan Park 75-63. The Mustangs were hot at the time, having reeled off a dozen straight victories at the offset of the season, and they beat Steingraber's outfit with a torrid shooting display.

Still, Steingraber was unconvinced at the time that his group couldn't have beaten Morgan Park on another day. The discouraging factor was that Hersey had felt capable of winning the 16-team tournament. With the opening round loss, they had to settle for the consolation bracket, advancing to the championship on that side for the second straight year.

The Huskies were still gaining momentum at the time though. They topped a strong East St. Louis Lincoln quintet for that consolation crown and returned to Arlington Heights to extend a win streak to nine games before Wheeling snuffed it out.

During the month of January they played their finest ball. On one weekend they turned back both Arlington (for the second time) and Wheeling, their chief rivals for the MSL north division title and both triumphs were achieved amazingly enough on the enemy's home floor.

February was a different story however. Wheeling started it and Prospect finished it, the Knights whisking the league championship away from them Feb. 26 despite a lesser record, after the scheduling alignment had the Huskies making their second trip to Prospect in two weeks for the title tilt.

And finally Hersey's entire campaign came to a premature end in the semifinal round of regional action, Barrington coming from behind to eliminate them from the playoffs 57-53. That setback had a double sting to it after the Huskies had advanced to the sectionals the previous year and then been seeded number one in their 1971 regional.

"I felt this season was sort of a reversal over last year," the helmsman recalled. "We sort of slipped along most of last year and then came up with a nice strong finish. This year we were exceptionally strong most of the season and then started slipping along near the end."

"I can't be really disappointed with the kids," he went on. "Before the season I recorded them to equal or better last year's and of course they finished up comfortably ahead of that 17-9 mark."

"I also had my own challenge though — I never told the kids — to win 20 games. So I can never be completely pleased with our final 19-6 record."

Steingraber had to find some pleasure in other aspects of the 1970-71 Huskie campaign. Starting with only two returning Hersey lettermen — Bruce Frase and Andy Pancratz — the group was not even favored to win their own division crown but finished up with the top record in the MSL at 12-2.

And no other squad in the circuit — not even the Arlington or Wheeling outfits that went on to sectional competition — wound up with a better overall slate than the Huskies.

To Honor Hersey Champs

They'll salute the champs in one week!

A special community recognition program will honor the state championship Hersey High School wrestling team on Tuesday evening, March 30, at the Hersey cafeteria.

A dinner and special program on this "Salute the Champs Nite" will begin at 7:30 p.m. with the doors opening at 6:30 p.m.

The public is invited, and tickets are $5.00 for the dinner and program.

Ken Kraft, varsity wrestling coach at Northwestern University, and former Olympic wrestler Terry McCann will be on the program.

The men behind the program are interested in learning how many people plan to attend. Contact Randy Thomas today at 259-3742 for tickets or if an organization or individual wishes to help underwrite the program. They may make their checks payable to "Salute the Champs Nite," c/o Randy Thomas, 341 S. Stratford Rd., Arlington Heights, Ill., 60004.

Help salute the champs on Tuesday, March 30.

Pirates Nab Second At Naperville

Palatine's track team finished second in the Class B Division of the Naperville indoor Relays Saturday, scoring a strong 37 points to winner Riverside-Brookfield's 44.

Conant was ninth in the same division with six points.

It was the first time in four years that Palatine has not won its class at Naperville, even though they outscored Riverside 114 in individual events. The difference was that the Bulldogs outscored coach Joe Johnson's Pirates 40-24 in the relays, winning all four of them.

Palatine had 11 more points than the third place finisher, Glenbrook North. Willowbrook won the Class A with Naperville second. Each class included 12 teams.

The Pirates were second to R-B in both the mile and two-mile relays to prevent them from victory. In all, they collected one first, three seconds, a third, a fourth and two fifths.

Conant's points came on a second and a fifth-place finish.

Phil Lindberg was the only Herald area winner, taking first in the pole vault with a 12-6 effort. Another competitor had the same mark but Lindberg won on fewest misses.

In the two-mile relay, Riverside-Brookfield set a new meet record with 8:23.2 to easily win. Palatine was second, however, with a 8:30.1 time turned in by Phil Lambert, Charley Phillips, Brian Barnett and Fred Miller.

The Pirates were barely edged out in the two-mile relay with a 3:39.5 clocking to R-B's 3:38.6. Palatine quartet in this event was Ray Kirk, Larry Mennes, Phillips and Jim Stauner.

In the medley relay, Palatine was third with 4:11.6 by Mennes, J. Dubiago, Stauner and Miller. The winning time by Riverside was 4:08.3.

R-B made it a clean sweep of the relays — the same as Palatine had done last year — with 2:15.6 in the eight-lap. Palatine was fifth with Dubiago, Jan Fitzgerald, Mennes and Stauner recording a 2:09.5 time.

Brian Barnett picked up the Pirates' second place in the mile run with a 4:34.7 effort. Teammate Scott Williams was fifth in the same event with 4:43.8.

Jim Brandt accounted for the other points with fourth in the high jump with a 6-1 leap.

Conant's points came on Dan Mandell's second in the high hurdles and the medley relay unit's fifth. The Cougars' foursome of Dan Wendell, Terry Stenger, George Swegles and Steve Feutz checked in with 4:15.3.

Johnson commented, "I thought we did well. Our times were good for that track, which wasn't real fast. It has 12 laps to the mile and times are never real good on that kind of track."

"I was surprised that we gave Riverside-Brookfield such a close race in the mile relay."

"We should be right up there in the Wildcat Relays and Oak Park Relays."

Those two meets this weekend will close out the indoor schedule for both Palatine and Conant. The Wildcat Relays for varsity runners will start at 5 p.m. Friday and the Oak Park attraction gets underway at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Falcons Lose Track Meet

The Leyden schools proved too tough to handle last week for the Forest View indoor track team.

On Tuesday the varsity lost and the frosh-soph team won at West Leyden and the same thing happened on Thursday, this time at East Leyden. The final scores read like this: East Leyden varsity 79½ to 33½ for Forest View and the young Falcons 71 to 38 over the young trackmen from Leyden.

Dean Ballotti and Bill Bates paced the varsity attack with a pair of firsts each. Ballotti took the 50-yard high hurdles with 7.3 and the lows with a 6.9 clocking. Bates captured the 880-yard run with a 2:07.9 and the mile with a 4:48.3.

The only other first place came on the efforts of Rich Leach with a 5-4 leap in the high jump.

There were just two seconds for Forest View. Scott McGovney had a 10:19.3 in the two-mile run and Bruce Lighthall with a 7.8 in the 50-yard high hurdles.

Taking thirds for the Falcons were Steve Gross in the pole vault (10-8), Lighthall in the low hurdles (7.0) and Jim Wise in the two-mile run (10:23). Wise received special praise from head coach Bill Mohrmann because he is only a freshman.

The loss left the Falcon varsity with an 0-9 indoor record.

Jim Volanti was the tower of strength for the frosh-soph team recording 14½ of its points. Volanti, only a freshman, took first in both the high and low hurdles, a second in the high jump and ran on the winning mile relay team.

Sophomore Bob Sloan won the shot with a fine toss of 44-5 and John Kreutzer took both the two-mile and mile with his best times of the year — 10:50.7 and 5:06.

The frosh-soph team finished the regular dual meet indoor season with a 5-4 record, the first time ever that a Falcon lower level indoor track team had a winning record.

LaGrange Downs Young Palatine

Palatine's young indoor track team fell to a 73-36 defeat at LaGrange Thursday, managing just three first places and five seconds in 13 events.

The Pirates of coach Joe Johnson, made up of almost entirely sophomores and juniors, ran into a powerful squad in warming up for defense of their Class B title in the Naperville Relays (results appear elsewhere in this section).

Brian Barnett got one of the Pirates' blue ribbons by winning the two-mile run in 10:08.3. The other firsts were Jim Brandt's 6-2 in the high jump and Phil Lindberg's 11-6 in the pole vault.

Second places for Palatine went to Barry Schultz with 5.8 in the 50-yard dash, Jim Stauner with 54.9 in the 440-yard dash, Jan Fitzgerald with 7.5 in the low hurdles, Fred Miller with 4:37.6 in the mile run and Paul Strealer with 11-0 in the pole vault.

Palatine was also defeated in the lower level meets, losing the sophomore event 71-38 and the frosh affair 88-20.

Hoffman 59ers To Meet

Golf season is just around the corner. Lady linksters, whether pro or duffer, are invited to join the Hoffman 59ers league to get out of the house every Tuesday morning, enjoy the sun, companionship, and the exercise of nine holes of golf.

Both beginners and old hands may attend a general membership meeting of the league on Tuesday, April 20, at 9:30 a.m. in the home of Helen Love, 191 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates.

Anyone who cannot attend the meeting and would like to join may call Ginny Dilger at 885-1469.

Globetrotters In Chicago

The fabulous Harlem Globetrotters will bring their special brand of laughter, comedy routines and sleight-of-hand basketball magic to the International Amphitheatre in Chicago on Wednesday, April 7.

The program will start at 7:30 p.m. and will be the Trotters' only appearance in Chicago during the current campaign, their 45th year, which comes to a close on April 11.

Spotlighted in the game will be Meadowlark Lemon, comic supreme, and Freddie (Curly) Neal, the amazing dribbler. Table tennis champions Norikazu Fujii of Japan and Jack Bender of England, batonist Joyce Rice and the trampoline feats of the Mike Pickering family will comprise the entertainment bill.

Tickets are on sale at all Ticketron agencies in the Chicago area. Prices are $3, $4, $5, and $6, with all seats reserved.

Hersey Sports Awards Slated

Harv Schmidt, head basketball coach at the University of Illinois, will be guest speaker when Hersey High School holds its annual winter sports award banquet this Tuesday evening, March 23, in the school cafeteria.

The banquet is sponsored by the Hersey Huskies Booster Club.

Based on attendance at past banquets, about 950 people are expected to attend. The dinner and awards will pay tribute to coaches, athletes, trainers, managers and cheerleaders for the following achievements:

Wrestling — Conference, district and state champions.
Gymnastics — Conference and sectional champions and runner-up in the state meet.

Basketball — North Division winners and second place in the Mid-Suburban League.

Swimming — Establishing of a basis of future successful programs.

After dinner and the introduction of Schmidt, awards will be made to participants in all levels of the athletic program and to cheerleaders.

Pirates' Frost Heads For N.I.U.

Jeff Frost, an all-Herald area and all-Mid-Suburban League guard last fall for Palatine's varsity football team, is very close to signing a tender to attend Northern Illinois University on a full-grant football scholarship, according to Pirate head coach Arv Herstedt.

Frost is interested in majoring in Industrial Education. Herstedt said this has much to do with his high interest in enrolling at Northern since it has an excellent Industrial Arts department.

Several schools have been bidding for the services of Frost including Western Illinois, Southern Illinois, Indiana State, Tulane, Ball State and Utah Universities.

Northern will be playing the University of Wisconsin in future seasons as well as other major schools in its gradual transition to a "big-time" athletic program. This also influences Frost's decision, Herstedt said.

Three Double Winners For Fremd

Despite a strong showing by Fremd's indoor track team, in which they boasted three double winners and seven first places, the Vikings of coach Pat Brogan still fell to powerful Maine South, 65-44, in a dual at Maine Thursday.

Losing to Maine South is far from being a discredit, however. The Hawks have lost just once in nine meets, that lone setback being to awesome Evans-

Cards Whip 2 Track Foes

Arlington picked up its first indoor track victory of the season at Glenbard North Thursday, the Cards' total of 66 topping Glenbard's 47 and Lake Park's 24.

The Bruce Samore-coached Cards collected five first places and seven seconds in the triangular triumph.

Blue ribbons were claimed by Scott Teuber with 10:32 in the two-mile run, Mike Burke with 47-1½ in the shot put, Mike Splitt with 2:06.4 in the half mile, Tom Jarm with 4:43.3 in the mile run and the mile relay team of Mike Yorke, Mike D'Angelo, Joel Kuykendall and Splitt with a 3:43.2 time.

Getting second places were Scott Barnett in the two-mile (10:46.2); Dave Mills in the long jump (18-6½); Scott Mudge in the pole vault (12-0); the four-lap relay team of Denny Foreman, Tim Sands, D'Angelo and Frank Carter (1:21.1); Yorke in the 440 (55.9); Mike Graham in the 60-yard low hurdles (8.0); and Teuber in the mile (4:54.3).

Arlington's third places went to Dave Tremblay with 10:53.6 in the two-mile, Frank Corrado with 44-3 in the shot put, Mike Graham with 9.1 in the high hurdles, Greg Morand with 10-6 in the pole vault, Kuykendall with 57.4 in the 440, Mills with 5-6 in the high jump, and Bill Schmid with 5:00.5 in the mile.

The Cards' sophomores also won in a closer meet, with 59 points to 35 for Glenbard and 20 for Lake Park. In the freshmen contest it was Glenbard North 59, Arlington 46, Lake Park 30.

Agase Speaks At Prospect

Alex Agase of Northwestern University, college football coach of the year for 1970, will be the guest speaker Tuesday evening, March 23, at the Prospect High School winter sports banquet.

The four winters sports programs at all levels will be honored.

The program, put on by the Prospect High School Boosters Club, will begin at 6:45 p.m.

Pro Net Match In Northbrook

An attractive exhibition match between two regulars on the professional circuit will be the feature event of ground-breaking of the new Northbrook Tennis Club this Friday, March 26, at 11 a.m.

Frank Parker, one of the leading pros in the championship class, will go against another top player.

A light lunch will follow the match. The Northbrook Club is located at 2995 Dundee Rd., adjacent to Sportsman's Country Club.

RECORD ROUTE. Dan Pittenger of Fremd negotiates a turn en route to a record-setting performance in the two-mile relay at the Blue Demon Re-

Report Stresses Open Space Need

Too often overlooked in the clamor for a better environment is the need for open space.

The cry of urgency — understandably — has been for cleaner air and cleaner water, and a tidier landscape. These are priorities if our quality of life is to have any meaning.

But not enough priority has been given — or is being given — to the staking out of new green space for future generations. It's critically short in this region now, and the meaning of that on our lives in the years to come is beyond measure.

There is a basic human need to escape — at least for short periods — from urbanization, to have some pleasant visual break in the outline of our surroundings. Even the sight of a cemetery in a densely crowded city can provide the spark of relief.

In some of us, the need is much stronger, for we can't exist without a place to hit a golf ball or catch a fish or sit in the shade.

None of us can really imagine a world without some of that, and yet as our population, leisure time and mobility all increase, the day could come in some distant generation when access to open space may be allotted on a quota basis, and some of us could find ourselves on the outside, scratching the fences looking in.

Nonsense?

No, and in a way that was the warning given in the report on the two-year study by the Northeast Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC).

The commission made an intensive study of the open space volume and need in the six counties of the Chicago metropolitan area — Cook, Lake, DuPage, McHenry, Kane and Will.

Its conclusion: this region, with 13.5 acres of land for every 1,000 persons, ranks last among the nation's 10 largest metropolitan areas in the amount of open space staked out.

As a state, Illinois for years has ranked at or near the bottom of all the states in the amount of park land per citizen, and in fact has had only 10 per cent of its park land in this area of 84 per cent of the population.

The NIPC figures show a 1968 total of 121,950 acres of regional open space in the six-county area, with a projected need of 213,700 acres by 1975 and 341,900 by 1985. That would mean — in 25 years — almost tripling the total that now exists.

That's rather a large order for an area that doesn't have nearly its needs filled now.

The most critical area, of course, is in the city of Chicago. There, the current inventory shows 10,750 acres of open space, including private golf courses, and 75 per cent of it in intensive use. The projected 1995 need is 49,250 more acres, and there are only 8,000 acres of vacant land now. It's so critical in the city that NIPC must speak of using roof tops and building islands in Lake Michigan to fill the need.

In the remainder of Cook County, the situation is more hopeful, with 68,500 acres now open space, a projected need of 58,500 more acres by 1995, and still 162,000 acres vacant. And the prospects improve even more in the rural counties.

But the prospects are meaningless without some concerted action by local park districts, the counties, the state and federal government, which can help with financing.

As NIPC points out: "Once lost, large open spaces are exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, to reclaim. The region is paying a substantial price for its neglect of open space and greater penalties lie ahead if certain areas are not preserved as regional open space."

The penalties are the loss of that space, and much higher costs to acquire what is left.

For that reason, NIPC is urging land acquisition now, with only secondary concern for developing sites.

The Chicago Park District, once the nation's finest, provides little reason for hope, which means the demands outside the city will be even greater.

The Illinois Conservation department does offer some hope, with a new effort to acquire land, and in the critical need area of our metropolitan region. But it's still far behind.

The Cook County Forest Preserve District has the best reputation in the Chicago area, and for many residents the district's green band around the city is all the recreational area they've known.

Local park districts, with a few exceptions, are notably lax in filling open space needs, and do little beyond tending to gardens and gazebos installed years ago.

The solution is elementary, if expensive: each governmental unit, from local through state, must begin giving priority to planning now for its open space needs of the future. The problem cannot be continually passed from one administration to another and from one generation to another.

It's catching up to us too rapidly. Because of that, the NIPC report is a mandatory guideline.

Herald Creates Political Bandwagon

It's quite obvious that Vice President Agnew knows what he's talking about when he criticizes the news media for unfair and slanted reporting practices. To me it's quite obvious that the Herald is biased in the favor of the VIP candidates for the April village elections. The obvious and clumsy way the Herald goes about attempting to create a bandwagon for the VIP is actually funny. If this were not true, I'm sure they could find just as many trivial and unimportant items about the Republicans to report on page one.

You'll note I said Republicans, not the regulars-v.s.-the independent Republicans. This is true because those who call

A Schoolman With Courage, Guts

by TOM WELLMAN Education Editor

There's a certain sarcastic pleasure to be taken every year when school board election time rolls around.

Education Report

This year, it shall be no different. When your school board meets this week or next, you may first expect to see a number of candidates sitting in the audience.

They will be there to show that, at least several weeks prior to the election, that they are interested, involved and committed for better public education.

Today's school board candidate is an active image builder. It doesn't really matter anymore where you stand on an issue; what does matter is how effectively you communicate your position to the public.

Image-building — the image of involvement and maturity — requires, of course, a cosmetic ability to stay away from controversy. It's always been true that if you can't outshout your opponent you should identify as closely as you can with the public, which will then oblige by voting you into office.

Such sophistication, of course, leads to dullness — and a large touch of regret that James Hamill is retiring as a member of the Harper College board.

Hamill's announcement last Wednesday that he would not seek reelection did not come unexpectedly. He had been debating with himself for the past month about seeking another term.

It cannot be said that Hamill has been a dull board member. In recent months he has been loudly charging that a student and teacher "take-over" of the board is pending.

Hamill, who works as a patent attorney, and has served on the Dist. 54 board, is not, by any imagination-stretching, a mediator as is John Haas, another Harper board member. Hamill's managed to antagonize sharply some persons who have had only quiet philosophical differences with the man.

But Jim Hamill has had guts and courage, a quality which is not often prevalent on school boards. Courage is not always necessary, as the issues facing school men aren't always that controversial; too often, though, wishy-washiness marks schoolmen when a real issue arises.

Second, Hamill can be praised for the amount of time and energy he devoted to Harper. He has served on the board for six years, and in that period of time has worked hard to make the college a reality.

He's raised a good issue, too, which the Herald will discuss at length later. At the root of his question of educator-student control is an issue which is and will be deeply ingrained in the college's present and future history.

You six years as a board member, Mr. Hamill, and your year as board president, have not always been the calmest times. But they have been times when you've clearly and sometimes loudly shown your concern for Harper College. May your concern be reflected in future board members, whatever their philosophy.

Where Is Concern For Quality Of Life?

Park Issue Defeat Is Serious Loss To Village

Gentlemen:

The Village again demonstrated on March 6 that it was not interested in preserving its reputation as a progressive community within the metropolitan Chicago area. The defeat of the mental health bond was the first indication that we are failing to recognize our corporate responsibility to all citizens within the Village. This includes the young as well as the old who would have benefited from the recreation building and other park improvements.

As I was raised in Wisconsin, I was made aware of the value of parks and recreation facilities. All cities and towns regardless of size maintain not the minimum developed spaces which even Elk Grove Village does not meet but goes beyond in making available sufficient areas for meeting the growing needs of the community. It is apparent that those who are moving into the Village primarily from Chicago have missed an essential element in community life in not having the tree-filled parks and indoor facilities that were in my hometown (of less than 12,000 population).

When the emphasis is so strongly placed on each dollar spent, what could represent a better investment in property values than the proposed development by the Park District? For less than a $75 investment over 12 years, the appreciation in our property due to the presence of the all-seasons recreation building will be many times greater. Since no other neighboring community with comparably priced homes has such facilities, we have a real plus for potential residents of the Village. For those who remain in the Village as is true with so many families, the children have an opportunity to learn new physical skills and increase in awareness of the value of athletics within their own community.

We are now constantly reminded of the environmental problems we face as a country. Those problems can only be confronted with the cooperation of each individual within his community. Few people realize the benefit of planting more trees, shrubs, ground covers, vines or grass as an effective fighter against pollution. Most of us express concern about what to do without really having any direction. That concern could have been translated into constructive action by passing the park district bond. A member of the Park District recently supported the idea that we need to do considerably more landscaping to improve our Village environment. That recommendation is both good ecology and good investment in home values.

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

The media has left the public with the impression that the most critical issue of the day is the environmental crisis. Perhaps, defeat of the park district bond indicates that many of us are not really the least concerned, much less involved. The defeat of the bond is a serious loss to the Village irrespective of the availability of similar facilities elsewhere. When we begin to realize that the quality of our public life must keep pace with the quality of our private life, we should expect such proposals to receive the overwhelming support of the voters.

Neighborhood Plagued By 'Sick Sadist'

Residents of Ivy Hill:

Sixteen months ago we moved to Arlington Heights from Pennsylvania and our four children and one pet rabbit. Four months later our pet rabbit was killed during the night by someone in the neighborhood. It had been outdoors in a cage against our house and under a wooden stairway. This "sadist" cut the wire portion of the cage and dragged the rabbit out and in the process it's eye was half poked out, neck broken and blood all over. Needless to say, the children were heartbroken because it was their pet. Some children have dogs, cats, birds, hamsters, gerbils, etc. Our children had a rabbit as a pet and have also had hamsters, gerbils, birds, guinea pigs, etc.

Four months later, someone was seen trying to climb through a window in our garage but when he heard my son approaching, he disappeared. A few weeks after that incident, beer was stolen from our refrigerator in the garage. That act is excusable to a degree.

This past October a rabbit was given to us and we decided to take another chance and this time placed it outdoors away from the house so that we could keep a watch on it. Many neighborhood children cut through our property to go to Camelot park across from us and some of them stop to see the rabbit then go on their way. A few weeks ago, and exactly one year ago, someone decided to set fire to the rabbit during the night. We think lighter fluid was sprayed on him and a match thrown through the cage at the rabbit. (A wooden match was found on the ground near the cage). It's one ear was severely burned and the Vet said it may fall off — it's left eye was badly burned and he may go blind — and half of his back was burned. We'd like to point out at this time that, if the cage had been under the stairway where our first rabbit was kept and, if the cage caught fire, so would have the stairway and, of course, our house.

We are appalled at the fact that anyone dared be so cruel to a defenseless animal, and dared to trespass and destroy personal property. We'd like to pose a question "WHAT IS TO STOP THIS SAD-

IST FROM ATTACKING OR KILLING ONE OF THE MANY, MANY CHILDREN IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD? We feel this person is sick and needs help NOW. We'd like to prevent something drastic from happening NOW before it's too late and ask you kindly to keep a watchful eye on your children and know where they are at all times. We are sure most of you are doing that very thing right now.

Incidentally, we have reported all incidents to the Police Dept. and they can't do a thing unless we can come up with the name of this very sick person. Please don't be afraid to report anything unusual to the Police Dept. because that is the only way we can get things solved. It's a shame that in this day and age we have to fear for our lives, our children's lives, and damage to our property including pets, because a sick sadist roams our streets at night.

REMEMBER — The life you save may be your own or YOUR child's.

Mr. & Mrs. R. H. Hutchins
Arlington Heights

Election Coverage Is Criticized

I'm very disappointed in the Herald. You seem unaware that a political campaign is going on in Buffalo Grove, or at least that there are two parties in contention.

When the candidates of the Buffalo Grove Alliance spent Saturday, March 10 inspecting serious flooding areas in the village and talking to residents to determine the scope of the problem and set directions for a solution once they are elected, this very positive action was ignored by the paper. But it was front page news when the current village president, Donald Thompson, issued a "platform statement" reciting some highly laudable goals — which he should have started working toward four years ago.

The failure of the Thompson regime is evident in his platform. The need for a zoning overhaul and a sensible long range plan was as urgent four years ago as it is today. Yet during four years in office Thompson has taken no effective action to accomplish what should have been his goal all along.

Anybody can write a high-sounding platform. But it is action that counts. And the BGA candidates are taking action even before they are in office. I feel their activities should be reported by the Herald in at least as much detail as Thompson's "platform statements."

Local Representation Supported

On April 10 Des Plaines voters will have another opportunity to gain representation on the Oakton Community College Board of Trustees. Mr. Eugene Loska will be the only candidate from Des Plaines in that election.

It has been most distressing to watch the formulation of a Junior College which Des Plaines students will attend, and be denied a voice in policy, salaries, course offerings, and hiring of personnel.

In the early days of our country we fought against taxation without representation — and now we allow this situation to exist by virtue of voter apathy.

Mr. Loska should have all the support and publicity possible in order to shake Des Plaines voters out of their ruts. I urge all voters of Des Plaines to vote on April 10, for Mr. Loska.

Jeannine Brown

Mother Nature's Watchdog

by MARY B. GOOD

When you want to know about oakum, baffle or riprap, call on Jeannine Brown of Palatine.

Mrs. Brown is the first woman ever to become a full-fledged director of the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District.

It's a big job for a woman or anyone else. Also a payless job. And a thankless one. But Mrs. Brown is a pollution fighter who works on a host of projects all day, every day to help save the environment.

While most people sit around wondering what to do about pollution but do nothing, Mrs. Brown wages all-out warfare. Her strategy runs rings around such efforts as using low phosphate detergent and sorting garbage into recyclables.

MRS. BROWN is sort of a "conservation busybody," so they say, who, as a director of this pollution control agency, serves as a watchdog over the area's ecological problems.

Soil and Water Conservation directors help people get help for their land, free for the asking. Sometimes not seeking help can affect their lives and life savings.

For instance, it can make the difference between living in a worry-free home or one that presents foundation settling, a basement that is always wet because of a high water table, a septic field that doesn't work or a flooded garage because the home was built on low land. Witness the Winston Park subdivision, proverbially "Palatine's flooded basement," because part of it was constructed on the flood plain of Salt Creek.

THE DISTRICT GIVES free aid to the citizen who accepts flooding on his property brought on by new developments because he does not want to "make trouble."

Public-spirited directors like Jeannine Brown can save literally millions of taxpayer dollars on remedial action by seeing that the public is informed, and exerting pressure to prevent damages wrought by refusals to comply with district recommendations.

It is going to take millions of dollars to alleviate flooding conditions in the northwest areas affected. Fifteen local agencies including the Metropolitan Sanitary District will sponsor the Salt Creek Watershed Project, some furnishing funds, some putting up land or other resources for flood control. Palatine, Inverness, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg all will benefit. The watershed is the directors' No. 1 project and one of the main reasons why Mrs. Brown sought to join the board.

THE SOIL CONSERVATION Service (SCS) is a hunk of state government responsible for conservation work, much like the school districts are responsible for education or the park districts for recreation.

Directors like Mrs. Brown assign priorities for resource development tasks, which are carried out by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service field men — men like district conservationist Lee H. Bridgman.

As the complexion of the district changes from rural to urban, responsibilities of directors reach gigantic proportions. They spend less time directing conservation efforts with farmers interested in protecting waterfowl and fish, strip-cropping, terracing or tile draining, and more time protecting against hazardous urbanization. Landowners who apply to the district may be asking for help in interpreting their soil before they start building their own home, they may be asking for septic field location, or they may have poor drainage around their building. Other district programs include group projects, waste disposal, highway planning, recreation and beautification.

PEOPLE LIKE Mrs. Brown get on the soil service board because they know local problems. Her credentials include half a dozen years of conservation work, a year's research in the campaign against the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District to stop spraying pesticides, two years as the public relations girl for the praying mantis, a year's apprenticeship as an associate SCS director and a lifetime as a nature lover. In addition, the brown-eyed wife of Palatine village trustee Clayton Brown is the immediate past president and one of the founders of the Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) ecology group.

When asked what a woman can offer to the field of conservation, the active mother of four replied:

"What, you've never heard of Mother Nature?"

MRS. CLAYTON Brown of Palatine surveys her domain. She shows how construction of a baffle at the water line helps check erosion.

Small Children Chief Victims

Your little boy has just swallowed a mouthful of bleach. Should you make him vomit or not?

Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, 397-1800, and Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, 696-2210, are the area's 24-hour a day official Poison Treatment and Information Centers.

In addition, Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, CL 9-1000, and St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, 437-5500, are fully equipped to handle poison emergencies and got over 500 cases last year.

More children under five years old fall victim to accidental poisoning than any other age group. Last year these four hospitals treated about 989 children under five from poisons that included ammonia, ink, fertilizer, hair tonic, lighter fluid, moth balls, diaper pail deodorant, finger paints, spoiled corn, furniture polish, dishwashing detergent and others.

OVER HALF OF Holy Family's and a fifth of Lutheran General's poisoning load were from common aspirin.

"The lamentable thing is that poisoning is one type of childhood 'illness' that is 98 per cent preventable," said Harold Kurtz, chief of public relations at Lutheran General.

According to "The ABC's of Child Safety" birth to one year old is the wiggleroll, put-it-in-the-mouth age. (Never use lead paint on toys, cribs, etc.)

The following year is the toddling adventurer phase, time to beware of ant cups, insecticides, under-the-sink cleaning compounds.

Age two to three is the hurry-hurry stage. Children climb up and down stairs and up to mom's cosmetic table, into the medicine chest and atop workshop shelves.

BY AGE FOUR the child is developing skills — like how to open aspirin bottles.

Parents forget that young children will swallow almost anything, no matter how awful or strong it tastes. Every child explores the world by tasting. The ABC's booklet suggests mothers let their children discover the harmless tastes of mustard or vinegar. Though warned, he'll experiment and soon learn to heed mother's advice and be wary in the world of tasting.

MARCH 21 TO 27 is National Poison Prevention Week, a time when parents might consider looking at their home with the eyes of a child.

Holy Family Hospital will have a display beginning today of the various kinds of items youngsters swallow.

The hospitals offered several poison first aid tips to parents:

1. Keep chemicals out of reach.
2. Keep an eye on the children.
3. Keep things in original containers. (Putting something like paint remover in a pop bottle or food container is downright thoughtless.)

4. Get rid of leftover medicine and wash the container before disposing.

5. Instruct children not to eat berries or seeds or other plant life they find outdoors.

6. In case of a poisoning, have a neighbor call ahead to the hospital and alert the emergency unit, reporting the type of poisoning, while mother and child (with empty poison container) are on their way.

Dr. Cyrena Berger, a Buffalo Grove pediatrician, confirmed that it's wise to have on hand a bottle of syrup of ipecac to induce vomiting, if directed by the family physician or poison control center. (She emphasized that vomiting must never be induced for corrosive, fume type liquids.)

Legislative Calendar

More House hearings on abortion are due within two weeks on HB853, sponsored by freshman Rep. Bruce Douglas, (D-Chicago). Rep. B. B. Wolfe's abortion bill (HB43), the first such proposed legislation of the current session, was defeated in the Illinois House Judiciary Committee last Tuesday.

30 camp, I am finding it harder to live by my philosophy.

Part of this can be blamed on people my own age or older. One prominent example is Jane Fonda. Now a lot of people think Jane is cute, hip and young — mostly young. But Jane is actually older than I am. Sadly for me, however, in a fairly judged wrinkle-off contest Jane would come out the younger. Therefore, whether or not Jane feels 80, she comes off 25. Whether or not I feel 25, I come off... well, older.

ANOTHER PERSON of prominence that confuses my outlook on aging is Ricky, er, Rick (because he has matured) Nelson. Rick is sufficiently older than I am for me to have looked up to him during his radio days. Like Jane Fonda, Rick Nelson is considered cute, hip and young. But when I compare him with my husband who is also younger than Rick, and who hasn't exactly lost his hair, gone to fat or suffered an impaired memory, "cute and hip" aren't adequate descriptive terms. (Sorry about that, dear.)

It is in these comparisons that pinpointing my age becomes a resented task. It also becomes more difficult to know if I want to nail it down and face it.

All along I have found that I must admit to my age to have a basis for relating to others. Maybe this is bad. I have begun to consider this undesirable only recently as I meet more and more young mothers who obviously consider me experienced. Until this began to happen, it had never dawned on me that part of my asking others for advice was really my way of saying to them, "You are so wise and experienced (and therefore old)!"

I DEFINITELY believe that youth is worth pursuing. It's just that I haven't yet resolved how to pursue it. My father insists on a candle for every year on his birthday cake, and then he proves he's really not all that old when he blows them out all at once. But the more flagrant defiance of age carried off by people like Jane and Rick often tempts me. However, when it comes right down to it I don't have the toughness to starve myself thin, to religiously perform hundreds of reverse wide-circle arm exercises daily and jeopardize my identity with my friends and neighbors.

I suppose all I can do is try to hold out for a few more years by merely thinking young. Would you believe that each one of my children was four years premature?

Fashion

by Genie

The bib-overalled farmer who left for the fields every morning sporting an ensemble of denim was never considered to be setting any fashion trend. Little did he know his work uniform would someday be a fashion fad.

Denim, once confined to rough work clothes, has moved up the style ladder to become a leading fashion fabric.

While blue jeans are the uniform of the day, particularly for the young, denim is being made into every conceivable item. Denim laced boots for women are difficult to keep in stock.

Bib overalls in dark blue are the nearest thing to the denims of the "work-horse era." They have become a requested and highly coveted piece of clothing, especially when used. This winter they dotted the ski slopes, worn by both males and females.

LARGE DEPARTMENT stores have individual small boutiques tucked away in their sportswear departments in order to concentrate on this one fabric. Couture designers have turned to denim for many of their expensive creations. Yet modern denim is far removed from the blue jean version. It is also presently available in a variety of colors and patterns too.

Among this spring's suits for men are some tailored of denim in shades that include tan, beige, white and gray as well as the original blues. Denim in suits has been softened to remove any stiffness. It tailors as well as any other fabric.

Since suede has come into its own, brushed cotton denim has been high on the list of favorites. While nothing can substitute for the richness of suede, brushed denim does manage to capture some of its qualities.

IN ADDITION to plain denim, jeans this spring will be marketed in plain or patterned blends of polyester cotton.

Jeans are only half the uniform. On top, the primary choice is a skinny knit sweater. That goes for men and women. The skinny knits are in either cotton or light weight wool and are ribbed in multi-hued combinations.

While denim is one fabric to keep a watch on, it is not the only one. In the same weight class, canvas for instance, will be giving denim a run for its money.

Birth Notes

'His & Hers' Arrivals

Instead of just one little boy in the Dennis Polewacz family of Rolling Meadows there are now two, and there's a little girl added for good measure. Mr. and Mrs. Polewacz of 2408 School Drive, became parents of twins — a boy and a girl — on March 12 in St. Alexius Hospital.

Peter Dennis, who weighed 5 pounds 7 ounces at birth, came home with his mother, but Deborah Anne remained in the hospital a few days longer because of her tiny birthweight — 4 pounds 12 ounces. The advantage to Mrs. Polewacz is that it gives her a chance to get acquainted with one newborn at a time.

Andrew Scott, 2, is the twins' big brother. They are all grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelson of Westchester and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McKinney of Chicago.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Kent Arthur Nelson Jr. was an 8 pound 1 ounce baby born March 18 to Mr. and Mrs. Kent Nelson, 2218 Goebbert Road, Arlington Heights. He is their first child. Kent's grandparents are the H. W. Bohstedts of Prospect Heights and the A. S. Nelsons of Arlington Heights.

Nicole Ann Roche is the third child in the John T. Roche family of Palatine. She joined Daniel, 4, and Danielle, 2, in the Roche home, 526 E. Baldwin Drive, on March 16. Nicole weighed 7 pounds 14 ounces. Her grandparents are the M. E. Landmeiers of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Josephine Roche of Niles.

Lara Denise Clauson weighed 6 pounds 11 ounces at birth March 16. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Douglas Clauson, 193 Timberhill Road, Buffalo Grove. Lara has a brother Eric Alan, 6, and a sister Lisa Ann, 4. Their grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. Kinezian and Mrs. Herbert Clauson, all of Chicago.

Next On The Agenda

BOOK REVIEW CLUB

The March meeting of Prospect Heights Book Review Club is Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. in the East Room of Old Orchard Country Club, Mount Prospect. Martha Hopkins returns for her third appearance this season to review a book of her own selection.

Guest reservations or cancellations, should be made with Mrs. Walter Borman, 253-2966.

MOUNT PROSPECT NEWCOMERS

Spring decorating ideas with flowers will be given to members of Mount Prospect Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club Wednesday at 8 p.m. Busse's Flowers and Gifts, Inc., will have a representative at the meeting to demonstrate new ideas with flower arrangements and will also show how to use antiques with them.

Mrs. John Jeffers, 439-9117, can be called for details.

ROLLING MEADOWS NURSES

Paul Lavallo, administrator of the Americana Nursing Center in Arlington Heights, will speak on "Rehabilitation and Convalescence of the Patient" at Wednesday evening's meeting of Rolling Meadows Nurses Club. Mrs. Raymond Neuckranz, 2107 N. Robin, is hostess for the 8:30 program.

Professional nurses residing in the community are welcome. Mrs. James Haslem, 392-0943, has further details.

The club will be awarding a $200 scholarship in May to an area high school senior entering the nursing profession. Applications are available from high school counselors or Mrs. Henry Vessell, 392-5894.

UNITED CLIPPED WINGS

A triad meeting of O'Hare, Chicago and Milwaukee chapters of United Air Lines Clipped Wings is planned for Thursday at Mathon's Restaurant, Waukegan. This is a yearly event for the three chapters. O'Hare members may call Mrs. Thomas Morgan Jr. at 255-0507 for reservations.

O'Hare chapter is looking ahead to its annual champagne reception at Countryside Center for the Handicapped in Barrington on Sunday, April 18. Mrs. Warren Schauer of Long Grove is chairman of the reception for parents and friends of those attending the center.

ST. HUBERT CCW

St. Hubert Council of Catholic Women in Hoffman Estates is holding a general meeting Thursday to familiarize members with the medical and legal aspects of abortion. The program begins at 8:45 p.m. in the church auditorium.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Rohr will show a film and slides besides leading the discussion.

ROLLING MEADOWS JUNIORS

This month's meeting of Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's Club was highlighted by a wig demonstration by Phil, of the Classic Wig and Beauty Salon.

In February, the club honored Mrs. Lawrence Kellerman, membership chairman, with a farewell gift because she is moving out of the state. She received a wrought iron fireplace set for her service to the Juniors.

Mrs. Kellerman also took part in an initiation ceremony that evening for Mrs. John Rock, President Mrs. Stanley Shearer and Mrs. Kellerman conducted the candlelight rites.

Taft Alumnae Lunch

Reservations for the annual spring luncheon of Taft Women's Alumnae Association are due by March 30. The event takes place Saturday, April 17, at Henric's O'Hare Inn in Des Plaines. A surprise fashion show will highlight the afternoon.

Mrs. Ernst Busse, 255-8588, may be called for further information before the deadline date.

2 Days Of Rummage

A two-day rummage sale is slated by St. Martha Guild of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, Schubert and Wood Streets, Palatine. The annual event takes place Thursday and Friday in the undercroft of the church. Thursday hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mrs. J. Neal is chairman.

Warning Signs

Heart Association reports the usual warning signs of heart attack include prolonged, oppressive pain or unusual discomfort in the center of chest, behind breastbone; pain radiating sometimes to shoulder, arm, neck or jaw; pain sometimes accompanied by sweating, nausea, vomiting and shortness of breath also may occur.

The warnings call for action as follows: Call the physician and describe the symptoms. If the doctor is not available at once, get the patient to a hospital emergency room quickly.

memo to advertisers

Top of the head guestimates are a chancy way to buy, sell, or even pay for advertising.

Cynthia Weik Is Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pleiss Jr.

Bridegroom Philip Henry Pleiss Jr. of Wilmette should get plenty of good care whenever he feels under the weather because he now has a full-time nurse in attendance. The nurse is his bride, the former Cynthia Ann Weik of Rolling Meadows, who is on the staff at St. Francis Hospital, Evanston.

Cynthia and Philip exchanged vows and rings Feb. 20 in St. Theresa Church, Palatine, at 11 a.m. and then were feted at a luncheon and afternoon of dancing at the Plum Grove Club.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Weik, 4417 Hoover St. Philip's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Philip H. Pleiss of Wilmette.

THE COUPLE are making their home in Evanston after a 12-day honeymoon in San Juan, Puerto Rico. The bridegroom is employed by Sears Roebuck & Co. in Highland Park.

Cynthia wore an ivory tulle wedding gown with a finely tucked bodice and long train. Ivory appliques edged the bodice, the cuffs of the long sleeves and the train. A Camelot cap of ivory tulle trimmed with the appliques held Cynthia's bouffant veil in place, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

A friend, Mrs. Peter Falasco of Evanston, was her matron of honor, gowning in a cordial colored pink dress with collar and cuffs of ivory applique lace. She carried a bouquet of carnations and roses in shades of pink.

THREE BRIDESMAIDS and a flower girl were all attired in identical gowns and carried the same type bouquets. Jill Pleiss, 4, sister of the groom, was the flower girl, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Melvin Thillens of Evanston, Elizabeth Ahlering of Middletown, R.I., and the groom's sister, Regina Pleiss.

Andrew Pleiss was his brother's best man, while guests were seated by Michael Weik, brother of the groom; Rick Quinones and Richard Lehto.

For the nuptials, Mrs. Weik wore an aqua lace gown with a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Pleiss chose a peach ensemble with a white orchid.

The bride took her nurse's training at St. Francis Hospital, and the groom attended Northwood Institute in Midland, Mich., before starting to work.

Sally-Jo McCratie

Mr. and Mrs. Edward O. McCratie of 1002 N. Dryden, Arlington Heights, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Sally-Jo Anne to Gregory K. Lundin, son of the Kenneth L. Lundins of 902 S. Hillside, Mount Prospect.

The wedding is planned for April 24. Both are students, Miss McCratie a senior at Northern Illinois University and her fiancé a senior at Iowa State University. She attended Arlington High School, and Gregory attended Forest View High.

Candace Somenzi

At a family party Christmas Day in Dallas, Texas, the engagement of Candace Somenzi to Richard C. Schuettnier of Palatine was announced by Mr. and Mrs. Bruno R. Somenzi of Highland Park. The wedding is set for Nov. 27.

Mr. Schuettnier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carl Schuettnier of 450 Daniels, Palatine, is a student at the University of Illinois in Champaign, as is Miss Somenzi. She is affiliated with Delta Gamma Sorority and will be graduated in June. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta Fraternity and will receive a degree in August.

Gregory Harris Takes A Bride

White with touches of purple formed the color scheme for the Christmastime wedding of Karen Ann Kasik of Riverside and Gregory A. Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Harris, 626 W. Sigwalt St., Arlington Heights. The couple exchanged vows and rings in Warren Park Presbyterian Church, Cicero, and were feted at a reception at Richard's Lilac Lodge, Hillside.

Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip R. Kasik.

She and Greg are living in Arlington Heights at 205 W. Miner St. The groom teaches social studies at the local Rand Junior High School, and his bride is completing her senior year at the University of Illinois Circle Campus.

Greg is a graduate of Arlington High School and Elmhurst College.

Mrs. Knauer An Activist On Consumer Complaints

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — When irate women howled about shoddy pantyhose some months back, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs bought a pair — her first — and investigated.

The printing on the package didn't give directions on donning the hose. Mrs. Virginia H. Knauer learned by trial and error that one puts pantyhose on both legs at one time — doing an unorthodox ballet during the error part of her investigation.

In the wearing she learned the complaints were valid. Mrs. Knauer added her voice softly to the howls needing the pantyhose industry in speeches. Soon, manufacturers of pantyhose were calling on her.

Eventually the hosiery giants measured 10,000 pairs of contemporary female legs and came up with more accurate specifications for sizing, putting that information on packages.

"WE GET FEWER complaints about pantyhose these days," Mrs. Knauer said in an interview. "I suppose women are buying more carefully, reading the new sizing information on packages."

Complaints reach the nation's expert on consumer affairs by phone and letter — 400 phone calls and 7,000 letters a month. There has been a sevenfold increase in complaints since she stepped into her federal position nearly two years ago.

The calls are handled by Maurice Erkila. He has a gift for defusing people when they're "thoroughly outraged," according to Mrs. Knauer. Some of the callers want Ralph Nader's number.

When complaints cluster all of a sudden, as they did some months ago about a defect in a new school bus, Mrs. Knauer doesn't wait to needle manufacturers in a speech, her indirect way of getting action.

"I CALLED THE PRESIDENT of General Motors," she said. "They spotted checked, found the complaint was valid and recalled 4,200 busses."

Mrs. Knauer, formerly director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Consumer Protection, believes consumer education is the answer to a better deal in the marketplace. For the schools her department is distributing "Suggested Guidelines for Consumer Education, Grades 9-12." She hopes this blueprint will lead every school system to include consumer education within a few years.

The department also is producing pamphlets for adults, cautioning about contracts, door to door salesmen, and the consumerwise modus operandi when buying a car. Other pamphlets are in production and all come in English and Spanish editions.

What's New

To Make Living Easier

by United Press International

The manufacturer calls the latest advance in electric shaver technology a major breakthrough. It's a new head design which the manufacturer says produces shaves that are up to 44 per cent closer and 50 per cent faster than ever before. It's done via super microgroove rotary heads with 90 instead of 60 slots in the cutting surface and with improved angle of the lamellae — the tiny precision-formed spokes that comprise the head screen.

Bold asymmetrical designs with flowing shapes and large areas of splashy color bring a new dimension to classic Scandinavian styling in Egetaepper's 1971 collection of Danish rya rugs for floors and walls. This firm, which started the shag fashion in American floorcoverings, is widening its design horizons in a brilliant new collection of deep-piled rugs. The manufacturer says the new collection includes ecologically-inspired natural motifs to clash-colored upbeat patterns and is unrivaled in its beauty and versatility.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: For the time being, we are living in a one-room apartment and sleeping on a sofa bed. It seems comfortable enough but wonder if it is possible to develop back trouble by not using a proper mattress and box spring combination. Would you happen to know?—Mrs. Bill S.

This is a question that has to be approached gingerly because it's really a field for orthopedic experts. However, it's no secret that many are advised to use bed boards between mattress and spring — that the firmer the support, the better one's health.

One couple in a similar situation bought two lightweight folding bed boards which slip in and out relatively easily. When they go away for any length of time, they take the boards with them. They fit easily into the trunk of their car. It may be one answer for your own problem.

Dear Dorothy: High time I contributed something to your fine column. When I wash woodwork and walls, I carry a clean, dry pencil eraser. I've found it wonderful for taking off the black lines caused by chair scratches and other marks. It's also good for shoe or mop scratches on baseboards. Then I wipe the surface with a soapy sponge and dry. Much easier on the paint than hard scrubbing.—Mary T.

Dear Dorothy: My husband got grease on his polyester shirt at dinner. I covered it with cornstarch and let it dry overnight. Brushed off the next morning and most of the grease was gone. Then poured a little heavy duty liquid laundry detergent on it, rubbed a few times, then into the washer. Not a trace left.—Georgia Doyle.

Recreation Plan Proposed For 200-Acre Site

by JERRY THOMAS

A 27 hole golf course, and extensive recreational facilities have been proposed for a 200-acre site in Schaumburg Township adjoining Hanover Park.

The proposal, however, did not come from the owner of the property, Metropolitan Sanitary District, but Village Atty William Davies.

The attorney received village board approval Thursday of the plans for the recreational development he proposes for the district's recent acquisition adjacent to the present Hanover Park Sanitary District's Treatment Plant off Barrington Road.

Although MSD purchased the land for a sludge farm project and expansion of its present facility, attorney Davies showed an artist's rendition of the golf course, tennis courts and football and baseball fields.

Describing it as "Davies and Humphreys' pipe dream," Davies said it was his and the Hanover Park District president's Harold Humphreys plan.

Admitting the MSD district owns the land he argued the village objects to the use of it as a sludge farm and hopes that the district can be influenced to develop it as a recreation area.

He added that federal and governmental agencies could be approached for financing of the project and the MSD would benefit from good publicity as much as the village would from the recreational area.

Originally the village fought the acquisition, and after the sale authorized Davies, organizers of objecting groups and the park district to negotiate with the MSD.

Pointing out they bought the acreage because they needed it to dispose of sludge and expand the present facility close to $3 million, and told the attorney to come back with a concrete offer from a developer.

MSD added that it would consider a cooperative recreational use while the land was used to dispose of the solids, from the plant that is being expanded.

There was talk of a golf course but the MSD would not be tied down to any promise except one to work with the villagers.

Mrs. Karen Goro, chairman of the Hanover's Involved People Group recently banded together to fight the MSD plans for sludge farming, wasn't too pleased with Davies' plans.

She asked how sludge could be applied to turf and still be used as a golf course. The odor was also discussed as she talked about the ammonia-like smell of fertilizers.

Davies said that's why his plans showed 27 holes; while sludge was being applied on some areas the others would be open for play.

He said the MSD district should be receptive to the plan since they could point to the recreational development as "something beautiful, useful to the community and still working for the district."

"But sludge still stinks," objected a resident. "Would you rather have a stinky golf course or a stinky corn field?" asked Davies.

Although he holds approval from the trustees Davies will continue to attempt to attract a developer for the site.

The board noted that it would prefer industrial or commercial development of the acreage, but if that fails would work for Davies' plan.

DAVID HANS, symphonic band director at James B. Conant High School in Hoffman Estates re-hersees students for the first formal concert scheduled in the school Wednesday. Under his direction Schaumburg and Hanover Park will offer a varied musical program beginning at 8 p.m.

Ballot Order For Dist. 54 Election Set

The ballot positions of Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 candidates in the April 10 election was settled Friday when all petitions were submitted by the 4 p.m. deadline.

The possibility of a fifth candidate being listed did not materialize. School administrators said a woman who refused to identify herself requested and received a petition Wednesday night, saying it was for someone else. The petition was not returned.

The candidates will be listed in the order of their filing petitions. Dr. Bernard J. Powell will appear first. Following him in this order will be Adam J. Jelen Jr., Sherwood Lee Spatz and Mrs. Connie Schoeld.

Powell filed early in the campaign, before some other candidates had received their petitions. An eye specialist, he lives at 220 S. Roselle Rd. and has offices at 105 S. Roselle Rd. Jelen, of 329 Baxter Ln., Hoffman Estates, filed midway through the legal filing period. Spatz, of 7875 Ramsgate Circle South, Hanover Park, and Mrs. Schoeld, of 674 Parkview Ln., Hoffman Estates, filed Friday.

ANY OF THE four candidates still could legally remove their names from the ballot. Marvin Lapicola, district business manager, said the deadline to drop a name from the ballot is tomorrow night.

The candidates have been invited to meet with current board members at 8 p.m. tomorrow in district offices to become familiarized with district budgetary procedures and policies. The "candidates' night" with the board is an annual custom.

The four candidates will compete for two terms of three years each on the board. None are incumbents. The two elected candidates will fill seats now held by outgoing board members Mrs. Betty Landon and Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen.

Hirings Of Teachers To Be Reduced

Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 definitely will reduce teacher hirings for next year.

The board of education, meeting Thursday night, approved hiring 19 general classroom teachers to start in September and seven more for January. The 26 total is much lower than approved staff increases in the past, which have ranged from 40 to 70 for general classroom teaching alone, said Ronald Ruble, personnel superintendent.

The lesser hirings will result in an average class size increase of one child, said Ruble, but he added current class sizes are lower than they had been expected to be. Classes now average 25 or 26 pupils, said Ruble, and next year the average should be about 27.

The teachers approved for January hirings will handle any mid-year growth in the district, said Wayne Schaible, district superintendent. He added he would not be requesting any more staff additions later in the year.

Ruble explained the decrease in new teaching positions does not result from any budget cuts, but instead is a reflection of slower growth than the district had anticipated.

For September of 1969, the district received 1,500 more children than it had the previous year. Population projections indicated a similar increase for the following year, but only 876 new children entered schools, Ruble said. Projections for next September indicate only 900 additional children will attend district schools. Because the projection of new children is lower, the number of new teachers also was reduced, Ruble said.

Concerning class sizes, Ruble said the district tries to keep within a 27 to 30 pupil range.

Second Baby Born At Home This Month Six-Pound Eight-Ounce Boy Born In Schaumburg Home

For the second time in less than a month, Schaumburg is recording the birth of a child in a home.

Mrs. Bruce Ortman early Friday morning gave birth to a son in her home at 1621 W. Weathersfield Way, Schaumburg.

In a similar situation, Mrs. Stanley Reback, 517 E. Weatherfield Way, Schaumburg, delivered a daughter at home Feb. 18. Deanna Lynn was Mrs. Reback's seventh child.

Mr. and Mrs. Ortman have two other children, one of which also was delivered at home, two weeks early. Their third child and second son did not yet have a name Friday afternoon.

The six pound eight ounce baby boy was 20 inches long when he was born about two weeks ahead of schedule. Schaumburg Fire Department's ambulance arrived minutes after the birth, and took mother and child to Northwest Community Hospital. Both were doing fine Friday, said hospital officials, and Mrs. Ortman said she expected to take the baby home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ortman had planned a natural childbirth, but did not plan it for any place other than the hospital.

"I had an appointment with the doctor yesterday," Mrs. Ortman said Friday. She kept her appointment, and the doctor felt the pains she was experiencing were "false labor." But shortly after midnight, the labor became stronger. Before she could get to the hospital, her baby was born.

Because she had gone through a home birth once before, said Mrs. Ortman, she was a little more prepared for it than other women might have been. She and her husband were concerned about possible complications because of opposite Rh factors, but there were none.

And the couple was really ready for any contingency. Mrs. Ortman had packed her suitcase Thursday, and had the nursery for the new baby all in order well ahead of time.

The couple moved to Schaumburg in October, coming from Wichita, Kan.

Formal Concert Slated By Conant High School Band

The Symphonic and Concert band members of James B. Conant High School in Hoffman Estates will present this season's first formal concert in the school Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Symphonic band director David Hans said 131 band members will participate in the program with selections for every musical taste.

The Symphonic band will wear the newly purchased tuxedos for the first time at the performance. Proceeds from the concert will be used to defray expenses.

Tickets for the performance are $1 for adults and 40 cents for students and will be available in the school on the night of the performance.

Harold Jansen is director of the concert band. Hans and Jansen said music will be contemporary, folk and include orchestral arrangements. Folk tunes will be done in a contemporary style, Hans added.

Hans added that in the recent state solo and ensemble contest 26 superior and 44 excellent ratings were awarded to the schools contestants. The players will appear during the concert and play selections that won them the awards.

'Bald Soprano' Set April 2, 3 At High School

The absurdity of everyday events will be portrayed by Schaumburg High School students at 8 p.m. April 2 and 3 when they speak the lines of a long one-act play.

"The Bald Soprano," written by Eugene Ionesco, focuses on the activities of Mr. and Mrs. Smith as they spend an evening at home, and are visited by Mr. and Mrs. Martin and the local fire chief.

"Nothing happens, but this does not prevent a great deal from being said," comments Miss Joanne Fueshmann, teacher and play director. Written for the Theater of the Absurd, the play points to the emptiness and absurdity of the life of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, "and perhaps of us all," said Miss Fueshmann.

The Smiths are played by Bill Eggebeer, a junior, and Carole Thorsen, a sophomore. Taking the roles of Mr. and Mrs. Martin are Bruce Dopke, sophomore, and Darlene Marasa, junior. Nannette Oakleaf, a junior, acts as the

Assisting Miss Fueshmann in behind-the-scenes work on the comedy are Hilda Donk, a junior, assistant director; David Masey, stage manager, and Mrs. Lauren Dox, an English teacher, technical director.

Admission to the play, to be performed in the school cafeteria, will cost 50 cents for children, $1 for students and $1.50 for adults.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader called on Congress Sunday to examine what he called the Treasury Department's "unlawful" proposal to give businessmen a tax break in order to boost the economy.

In a letter to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Nader said the proposal came about because "powerful private interests have undertaken a raid on the U.S. Treasury" that would cost the government $3 billion in revenue a year.

Earth Day — designated to call attention to the state of the world's environment — was observed Sunday in New York and San Francisco. Plans for Earth Day demonstrations in other cities fizzled.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged President Nixon Sunday to impose partial wage and price controls to "rescue" the economy.

"This is a rescue situation," the Republican senior senator said. "This is a situation in which for a number of years we ran enormous deficits, sweeping the Vietnam War under the rug on the theory that, as President Lyndon B. Johnson put it, we could have guns and butter. Well, you can't."

More than 500 Jews were arrested in downtown Washington Sunday when they staged a massive sit-in near the Soviet Embassy as a protest to the treatment of Russian Jews.

The World

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Sunday the long-awaited federation of Egypt, Syria, Libya and possibly Sudan will be announced next Sunday, barring unexpected developments.

The paper said the merger would probably take the form of a federation or, if certain "obstacles were not surmounted," the form of a confederation.

In either case, the newspaper said, the four countries will unify their foreign, defense, financial and information policies. Each will keep its own political organizations and domestic arrangements, however.

French voters elected 76,000 local government officials in the second-round balloting Sunday in national elections.

Authorities reported a light turnout among the 30 million registered voters, interest being confined to areas where Communists and left-wing candidates polled their efforts to defeat Gaullist candidates.

The Weather

The first day of spring Sunday brought fair weather to most of the nation today.

The southwest warmed rapidly under clear skies after a night of record cold. Warm southerly winds up the Mississippi Valley lifted the temperatures into the 50s through the southern parts of the Middle West.

Precipitation wise, a few snow flurries linger from Pennsylvania to Northern New England. A low pressure system near Lake Michigan spread light snow through parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Between the Lines

Present Board Better 'Listen'

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

An orderly election in Hanover Park would be like winter without snow; it just doesn't happen.

Every two years the election looks like the stormiest ever, but the one that follows always outdoes the previous one. This spring's election seems to be generating more political confusion than ever before.

Hanover Park voters are never satisfied with the performance of the incumbent administration. Two years ago they elected a whole new regime, the People's Own Party. While in office, it too split.

This year, two of the POP trustees, running on the Hanover's Own Party ticket are being challenged by eight other candidates, as is independent Trustee Gordon Jensen.

We've interviewed all but two of the 11 candidates seeking trustee posts and the paramount reason the nonincumbents are running is "the recent, childish antics of the present board."

After a very promising 18 months in office that doubled the size of the village, fattening the treasury and building community spirit, the POP board broke into factions, with the biggest break between the president and his trustees.

BOARD ACTION in the past six

months has been negligible, while problems in the village have been magnified. Instead of dealing with the village's problems, the board delays actions with bickering, petty feuding and politicking.

There seems to be no communications between members of the village board or between village employees and trustees who are responsible for each village department's operation.

The result is situations like Vavrus starting apartments without following proper procedure, streets not being snowplowed and police raises being delayed.

The board, instead of sitting down and discussing solutions and preventive measures, seems to be looking for scapegoats. First they decided the mayor's administrative assistant had to go, then the building inspector.

Now they're doing all they can to censure and discredit Mayor Richard Baker. Certain trustees are trying to take away his presidential powers by excluding him from negotiations with developers, telling the Metropolitan Sanitary District to ignore communications sent from him, and pointedly excluding him from open board committee meetings, as well as calling special board sessions without notifying him.

Some of the mayor's past actions have been questionable, but the trustees' present tactics are just as questionable.

SUCH ACTIONS are wrong, so wrong that eight other Hanover Park residents think they'd do a better job as trustee than the incumbents.

Although each candidate proposes to go about being a trustee in a different way, they all stress the need for cooperation, cohesiveness and communications among village officials.

Current members of the board better start listening.

IT LOOKS like a rocket, but it's the water tower being constructed at Woodfield Mall. The Schaumburg shopping center is expected to open this fall.

Controversy Over Permits For 3-H Builders

Village Faces Possible Suit

Under an apparent threat of a law suit, the Hanover Park Trustees Thursday heard 3-H builders present plans for a 33-acre site on Barrington road to be developed as a "sixplex" development of 450 units.

Hanover Park Village attorney William Davies, said that a previous decision to deny building permits to former owners of the land, zoned for multiple, left the village open to suit from the builder who now owns the property.

3-H put the village "on notice;" that if problems occur in obtaining permits in this proposal, the village will be sued for not granting permits when the zoning exists, Davies said.

DAVIES ADVISED the board to look at the plans submitted by 3-H attorney Stanley Grosshandler, and send the proposal to the plan commission.

Grosshandler outlined the development as he accepted an 8 p.m. April 8 plan commission hearing date.

The "sixplex" buildings will hold four, 3 bedroom and two, 2 bedroom units each with parking for two cars in each unit. Facades and entrances are on three sides with 50 per cent open space and 15 sides per acre proposed.

Davies said this density, although higher than the village's present 12 unit per acre ordinance, is lower than the density that applies under the annexation ordinances accepting the land to Hanover Park.

GROSSHANDLER pointed to the development as a new concept in building better than townhouses or condominiums. The concept is not as desirable as single family homes, but is the new trend in building and life styles, he added.

He projected 150 children would come from the units and made no offer to donate to the school district, over a residents' objections that the Anne Fox School they must attend is crowded now.

Village Pres. Richard Baker advised the resident and others who began questioning Grosshandler to attend the plan commission hearing where they can bring their questions.

Village Trustee David Bugh said he didn't even want to look at the plans until other promises made by the builder in past developments are honored.

DAVIES TRIED to send the proposal into committee. Bugh objected saying that 3-H was always hurrying when it wanted something, but dragged its heels when the village made requests.

In other actions the board:

—Created a formal Beautification Committee.

—Approved the hiring of a Minneapolis Honeywell repair service to change over some controls in the water department and contracted for a yearly maintenance program with the company. Initial work will cost $3,670 and the yearly rate is $1,180.

—Decided to investigate neighboring communities sewage treatment plant operations with an idea to share personnel since the Illinois Commerce Commission now requires the village plant be operated by a class 3 card holding operator and the village does not have one.

—Accepted a bid from Elmhurst Chrysler Plymouth for three police patrol cars for $7,206.81, less the trade-in price, if the three old squads are turned in.

—APPROVED THE president's appointment of Alfonso J. Dinkel as a member of the plan commission but deferred appointment of a permanent chairman.

—Concurred with the presidents appointment of Al Perrozi as chairman of the Community Service Committee replacing Jim Trawn.

Trustee Gordon Jensen was assigned the task of looking into the hiring of a full time mechanic to work on public works and police department vehicles.

Grant Store Evacuated After Bomb Threat Note Discovered

Fire trucks, ambulances and police officers were dispatched to the W. T. Grant Store, Golf-Rose Plaza, Hoffman Estates, and the store was evacuated when a bomb threat note was found in a stockroom Thursday.

The note, which turned out to be false, was printed in ink on the back of a quarter-page Grant advertising leaflet. It read:

"To whom it may concern: Little do you know there is a bomb placed in this store. It is hidden well and if the employees are lucky, no one will ever find it before it goes off. Grants No loss except we'll lose pollution."

Village police evacuated about 20 customers and a dozen employees from the store at 10:19 a.m., when the note was found. Deputy Fire Chief Ed Kalasa led firemen and police as they searched the entire store, including stockrooms and around counters, and found nothing. The search took about 90 minutes.

Police are now trying to trace the note, and Chief John O'Connell said he has several leads. Because so many people handled the note, fingerprints on it are meaningless, said O'Connell. Chief O'Connell declined to comment on possible suspects, saying "At this point, rather than jeopardize anything we might come up with, I wouldn't want to comment."

O'Connell did say it is believed the note was left either during the previous night, or after the store opened at 9:30 a.m.

A person convicted of leaving the note could face up to a year in prison and up to a $2,500 fine, said the chief.

Neither the fire department or the police department have any personnel trained in disarming bombs. Chief O'Connell said if a bomb had been found, he would have requested the U.S. Army at Fort Sheridan to dispatch a demolition expert.

Camp Fire Girls Slate Luncheon

The Kani Ta Horizon Club of Camp Fire Girls, with members from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Elk Grove Village will sponsor a mother and daughter luncheon with style show Saturday, March 27, 1 p.m., at Schaumburg High School.

The fashion show will feature clothes handcrafted by mothers of the Camp Fire Girls and the girls themselves.

The members will use the profits to help pay expenses to "Aware 71," a national conference for youth being held in Washington, D.C., Minneapolis, Minn., Claremont, Calif., Portland, Oregon, and Denton, Tex.

These meetings are being held by Horizon Girls to identify the problems of the world.

The Horizon Girls have scheduled luncheons in Elk Grove Village and Hanover Park for April and May.

3 File For Board Seats

Three High School Dist. 211 residents have filed as candidates for two board positions in the April 10 school board election.

All announced their candidacy before the final filing date Friday.

Paul Hughes, 410 MacArthur Ln. in Palatine, will lead the ballot. Robert Seger, 919 Canterbury in Schaumburg, will be second, and John Sowa, 151 Edgemont Ln. in Hoffman Estates, will be last on the ballot.

Lyle Johnson of Hoffman Estates and Harris Helgeson of Palatine, incumbent board members whose terms expire this spring, will not be seeking reelection.

Johnson has been on the Dist. 211 board four years, Helgeson 22 years. Both have served as school board president.

Poll Places Set For Fire Vote

Polling places will be located in four areas of Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District on Saturday, March 27 when residents come out to voice their feelings on a proposed $500,000 bond issue to finance construction of a third fire station.

Residents are asked to check precinct boundaries in order to be certain to vote at their correct polling place.

Precinct 1 will consist of all areas in the fire district south of Golf Road and its polling place will be at the Flagstaff Lane station.

Hassell Road fire station will serve as precinct 2 and will accommodate all voters living north of Hassell Road and west of Jones Road and Jones Road as extended north.

Precinct 3 consists of all residents living north of Golf Road and east of Jones Road and its polls will be at Hillcrest School.

The Governor's Club in Barrington Square will serve as polling place for residents of the district who live south of Hassell Road and west of Jones Road and Jones Road as extended.

All polling places will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the day of the special election.

Absentee ballots for the fire vote may be obtained daily at Flagstaff Lane fire station and may be issued to residents who expect to be out of Cook County on the day of the referendum or those who are unable, because of physical incapacity or religious beliefs, to come to polling places.

Those who are temporarily residing outside of the fire district are also entitled to vote by absentee ballot.

In cases where absentee ballots are issued because of ill health or religious practices, a statement from the voters physician or clergyman is required.

Lt. Donald Selke has been appointed deputy secretary of the election for the purpose of handling absentee ballots.

Speakers' Bureau Use Is Urged

Lyle Johnson, chairman of Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District's citizens committee, this week urged all local and civic and private organizations to take advantage of a speakers bureau designed to provide complete information on the March 27 fire referendum.

Although letters were sent out to all organizations, Johnson noted that few have replied requesting speakers on the $500,000 bond issue special election.

Representatives of organizations seeking speakers are encouraged to contact Johnson at 984-6648 to arrange for speakers.

Johnson is heading a massive drive to educate local residents on the needs of the fire district and specifically the proposed bond issue which would finance construction of a third station to serve as headquarters for the district.

The facility is planned for construction in the western portion of the village where high density apartment construction is now in progress.

Board To Assign Schools, Busing Plan

The assignment of children to school buildings and listing of bus schedules for the 1971-72 academic year will begin April 12 for Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54.

Don Rudd, board of education member and chairman of the board building and sites committee, announced Thursday night the committee will meet April 12 to begin consideration of class utilization. Among decisions to be made, he said, is which children will be bused to school, and which schools they will go to. The meeting is to begin at 8 p.m. in Helen Keller Junior High School.

Ronald Ruble, district superintendent of personnel and transportation, indicated at the Thursday board meeting few changes in bus schedules are anticipated.

CONSTRUCTION progress is ahead of schedule on Everett Dirksen School, reported Marvin Lopicola, district business manager. Current progress indicates the building may be finished as early as the close of the current school year, and all but finishing work may be done by May 1.

An addition to Jane Addams Junior High School is being completed at a slower rate said Lopicola, but it should be finished in time for the opening of school next fall.

In discussion of other business matters, the board approved borrowing $800,000 in tax anticipation warrants to meet payrolls and expenses for the rest of the current year. Lopicola had reported at past board meetings the warrants would be necessary because of delays in receipt of tax monies. The county has taken over tax collection for the school districts this year, and was late in sending out bills, Lopicola has said. He estimates the borrowings will cost $8,000 to $9,000 in interest.

THE DISTRICT received identical bids of 2.5 per cent interest charges from Schaumburg State Bank and Roselle State Bank. The bid was awarded to the Roselle bank, the district's official depository.

The board approved a claim for $20,000 reimbursement from the federal government for purchase of library books and related materials. The claim is under a federal title program.

Dist. Supt. Wayne Schaible reported on the successful opening of Edwin Aldrin School March 15, and said plans for dedication of Aldrin, Armstrong and Collins schools are being made. The three schools were named after the Apollo 13 astronauts and Schaible said he is working through the Illinois School Building Commission to try to have the three astronauts present for the dedications. No date will be set until it is learned if the astronauts will attend, he said.

Valley Belles To Present 'Starshine'

The Valley Belles, a barbershop chorus comprised of women from Elgin, Schaumburg, Bartlett, Dundee, Huntley, Wheaton, Glen Ellyn and Hampshire and Elmhurst will present their 7th annual Belles A Ringing Show, Starshine, at 8 p.m. March 27 in Hemmens Auditorium, Elgin.

This year's show will provide entertainment for all generations as the 45 women barbershoppers sing their way through the signs of the seasons of the zodiac.

"Starshine" will be produced with Floyd Brown of WMAQ-TV and radio as emcee.

Featured on the program will be the top three medalist quartets who took the honors at the 1970 international competition in Providence, Rhode Island last October.

Special guests are the first place Harmony Queens, from the multi-chords, chapter from Moline, Ill.

ALSO APPEARING will be the Single-tones, from Forest Park, and from the Valley Belles chapter, the On-Chords. Additional entertainers will be another Valley Belles quartet, The El-Jills, and the Illinois Districts Men's quartet, the Soundtracks. A young trio from Dundee High School who call themselves the "C.S. Squared" will add a folk sound to the program.

The Valley Belles, organized in 1964, are a chapter of the international organization of Harmony Inc., which has chapters in the U.S. and Canada. They have competed in the last six international conventions and were awarded 2nd place in October in Providence.

The group is under the direction of Russell A. Foris of Elmhurst. The 1971 show chairmen are Mrs. Foris and Mrs. Richard Baumann. Each year a portion of the show's proceeds is donated to charity. This year the belles will donate to the Beverly Lake School for Retarded children in Dundee.

Following the program more entertainment will be offered at the Villa Olivia Country Club in Bartlett on Lake Street. Mrs. Leigh Treadwell is chairman. Show tickets and party tickets may be obtained from members, or from Mrs. Robert Keller, 1295 Park View Drive, Elgin.

Tickets will also be sold at Gaile's Barbershop in the Wing Manor shopping center in Elgin and at the auditorium in the new Civic Center on the night of the performance.

Pro-Tem Law Is Tabled

An ordinance proposed Thursday, that would have named the finance committee chairman a permanent president pro-tem in the village president's absence was tabled after the Hanover Park trustees disagreed on its necessity, and criticized the "politicking" it implied.

Trustee Gordon Jensen asked Village Atty. William Davies how he reached the decision to name trustee Barry Rogers who holds that chair as president pro-tem. Jensen also asked who requested the ordinance.

The ordinance called for Roger's appointment as president pro-tem. If Rogers was absent, too, the public safety chairman would be president pro-tem.

Jensen is senior trustee on the board. Davies said neighboring communities usually appoint the finance committee chairman as president in his absence because he knows the village funds. Davies thought Trustee David Bugh asked for the ordinance. Bugh disagreed, saying he did not think this was the time to adopt the ordinance and asked it be tabled.

Trustee James Scheuber said he asked for the ordinance, and trustee James Lewis said it was requested for the board's convenience "in case the president gets hurt, or is out of town."

Jensen argued a president pro-tem could be named in a meeting and charged that the ordinance was petty.

In the ensuing discussion it was explained the ordinance was contemplated after president Richard Baker missed three meetings. He was absent for personal reasons and was out of state for the last two, he said.

Jensen, in previous discussions, had deplored the board's attempts to exclude the president from negotiations with a builder.

He told the board they, too, had a responsibility to Baker as president, and said they should show him the consideration his office demands.

Junior High Art Work On Display

Nearly 50 pieces of art created by junior high school students in Elgin School District U46 are now on display during March at the Gail Borden Library, 200 N. Grove St., Elgin.

"One of the purposes of the display is to share with the community what students in our six junior high schools are doing in art," said Roger Moore, art teacher at Tefft Junior High School in Streamwood and co-chairman of the event with Marilyn Wehner, art teacher at Abbott Junior High School.

The sampling of student work represents a variety of media including relief print, contour drawing, linoleum block print, crayon etching, tempera, paper reliefs, tissue collage, wire sculpture and ink and pencil drawings.

A written commentary on the displays tells viewers that the aim of art activities is to prepare students for an understanding and appreciation of art forms.

"Art as a subject has certain aspects," Moore said.

The library exhibit area is open during regular library hours: 12 Noon - 9 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

NEC Affiliation Approved By Board

The Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education voted five to two in favor of continuing affiliation with the Northwest Educational Cooperative (NEC) Thursday night.

The board has been considering its membership in NEC for the past several months and delayed making a decision on staying in the cooperative until its last meeting before the deadline.

Members for the 1971-72 fiscal year must register by April 1.

Board members have expressed dissatisfaction with NEC, saying administrators of the cooperative take too much initiative. The employee staff has taken the role of initiating programs and seeking financial support from member school districts, said the board, rather than leaving the direction for programs up to the member districts.

The Dist. 54 board also has complained that it has not gotten a sufficient return for its money for its money spent on membership fees. The annual fee is $4,880. Complaints also have been made about NEC projects which board members have said are unnecessarily expensive for their benefits.

MRS. BONNIE Hannon, board member and district representative to NEC, spoke in favor of the continued membership and said there will be changes in the organization's constitution to make it a more responsive and effective service for school districts.

The organization was formed to assist and deal with mutual problems facing the 10 member school districts, and to explore means of coordinating services for mutual savings.

"NEC is already providing methods to meet some of these problems," she said, mentioning the cooperative's data processing center, teacher training program and developmental training center.

Mrs. Hannon also said the district could work for the changes it sought in NEC policies as a member, but by dropping affiliation could not hope to produce changes.

Wayne Schable, district superintendent, also urged membership be retained, and said he was certain cooperative procedures would be improved.

THE BOARD discussed a letter NEC received from Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, the only remaining district of the 10 members. Schable and Mrs. Hannon suggested Dist. 59 suggested NEC be changed from an organization with both administrators and school board members representing districts, to one with only administrators or only school board members. Schable and Mrs. Hannon said the letter had stirred controversy at the last NEC meeting, and could be a start in forming new by-laws.

The two Dist. 54 members who voted against continued membership were Mrs. Betty Landon and Don Rudd.

Four Dist. 54 members voted against approval of current NEC by-laws, defeating the motion. Voting in favor of the by-laws were Mrs. Hannon, Mrs. Diane Hart and Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen. The board agreed to discuss recommendations for procedure changes in NEC at a future meeting.

Drug Arrests In 2 Villages

Both Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates village police departments were involved in arrests for possession of drugs last week.

Schaumburg Patrolman William Bartkavich charged three youths with possession of marijuana after he stopped their car at 10:50 a.m. Wednesday on Algonquin Road at Arbor Drive. The driver, Alan C. Wagner, 17, of 1004 Greenwood Dr. Mount Prospect, was charged with possession of marijuana, carrying open liquor containers in a motor vehicle, possession of alcohol by a minor and improper display of license plates. The names of the other two youths, aged 15 and 16, were withheld because of their ages.

Bartkavich reported he searched the car, finding a quantity of material believed to be marijuana, 16 cans of beer, two cans of malt liquor and a quart of Scotch whiskey.

Wagner is to appear in Circuit Court April 7.

Hoffman Estates police provided holding facilities for a federal narcotics agent Thursday after he arrested Leonard Boczkowski, 25, of 941 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village. The agent, whose name was withheld because he works undercover, charged Boczkowski with possession and sale of a dangerous drug, two separate charges. He said Boczkowski had sold him a cube of LSD.

Cook Justice Unit Approves Youth Services Program

Approval of the proposed youth services program for Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights was granted at a hearing Friday before the Cook County Commission on Criminal Justice.

This means that the commission will recommend to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission that it provide a one-year grant of $118,702 to help set up the program in the three communities. An additional $40,000 is anticipated from local grants.

Included in the proposal are the establishment of a youth services center, counseling and treatment for troubled youth, special training programs for policemen and parents on drug abuse and delinquency and various other youth-related programs.

The proposal was submitted to the commission jointly by the Wheeling Youth Commission, TORCH Mental Health Clinic and HELP, Inc.

RICHARD WYNN, director of the TORCH Mental Health Clinic, and Richard Stanowski, HELP president, attended the hearing Friday to explain the proposal to the commission. Also speaking in favor of the proposal Friday was Emerson Thomas, executive director of the Palatine Township Youth Committee.

Both Wynn and Stanowski said they were pleased with the favorable recommendation.

"We've passed the first step," Wynn said. He said that the proposal will be examined by the ILEC before a final decision is made on whether to award the grant.

No date has been set on a hearing before the ILEC. Wynn said the ILEC may discuss the proposal at their next regular meeting in April.

Before the county commission approved the proposal, its members quizzed Wynn and Stanowski on various aspects of the project.

OF PARTICULAR interest to the commission was the question of how the youth services program would be financed in the second year of operation.

"We feel that if we can demonstrate the efficiency of our approach, the community will provide adequate financing to maintain the service," Wynn said.

He noted that most projects started in the area in 1967 with funds from Title III of the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act are now supported by local money.

"We have no sure guarantee that the community would pick up the cost or that the project will achieve the effect we think it will, preventing delinquency. But if no attempt is made, the problems will only get larger," Wynn said.

Commission members also asked whether the program would duplicate or overlap the programs provided by the Youth Services Bureau in Palatine.

THOMAS TOLD the commission that the program would not do this.

"There are many specialized services for counseling and treatment of youth that are not provided by our bureau. Their youth services program is a much more comprehensive program," Thomas said.

Thomas said that the Palatine bureau would cooperate with the Wheeling-area program if it is established, and could refer young people to the Wheeling center for diagnostic treatment not available in the Palatine program.

7 File For Board Posts

Seven candidates have filed for election in the High School Dist. 214 April 10 school board election.

The two incumbents, Leah D. Cummins, 1009 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village, and Richard Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect, filed on Feb. 24, the first day of filing. Mrs. Cummins will be the first candidate on the ballot, Bachhuber the second.

Jack L. Matthews, 1511 E. Sunset Terr., Arlington Heights, was the third to file on March 18.

Raymond L. Pettersen, Jr., 4307 Linden Ln., Rolling Meadows, filed for candidacy Friday at 2 p.m. He will be the fourth name on the ballot.

The last three, Robert C. Winkle, 680A

Versailles Cr., Elk Grove Village, Clyde H. Brooks, 65 Brantwood Ave., Elk Grove Village, and Don C. McGlothlin, 1047 S. Carol Ave., Wheeling, drew straws at 4 p.m. Friday to determine their position on the ballot.

Winkle will be fifth, Brooks sixth and McGlothlin last on the election ballot.

Both Brooks and McGlothlin were candidates in the Dist. 214 election last year.

Mrs. Cummins, the first to file, submitted 141 names on her petitions, McGlothlin, the last, had 52. Each candidate must have 50 valid signatures of registered voters in Dist. 214 to be qualified as candidates. Final acceptance of the petitions must be made by the Dist. 214 board secretary.

Discuss Heritage Park Plans

Plans for development of an area of Heritage Park were discussed Thursday at a meeting of the Wheeling Park District Board.

Board members approved purchase and installation of $2,500 worth of trees and shrubs to be used in developing the area of Heritage Park west of the toboggan hill.

The area is currently open land, but will be developed with benches and possibly a shelter when the trees and shrubs have been installed, district officials said.

IN OTHER action the board asked district employees to investigate the cost of improving the ice skating shelter building for use as a summer shelter.

The board talked about installing a fireplace and installing cinder block half walls to make the shelter into an open air pavilion like those in the forest preserves for summer use.

Board members also voted to write a letter to the Wheeling Village Board requesting a street light be installed on the west side of Wolf Road near the park district building.

The board will meet April 1 with village director of public works, Larry Oppenheimer, and with a representative of Harza Engineering Co. (the village consulting engineer on the flood program) to discuss development plans for Husky Park.

Discussion of the layout of the park, located behind Jack London Junior High School, will be a part of the regular park board meeting that night.

Citizens Group May Take School Program Survey

A survey may be taken by the Dist. 21 Community School Programming citizens' committee to determine what programs residents would like to have offered, according to committee member Mary Jo Reid.

Mrs. Reid discussed the proposed survey at a Thursday meeting of the seven citizens' committees working to develop various educational goals for Dist. 21.

Mrs. Reid said the committee feels a survey would be a valuable way of determining what programs residents want, and existing programs they feel are not necessary.

Mrs. Reid reported the committee has spent the majority of its time examining existing programs at Dist. 21 schools, Wheeling High School, and 7 other communities.

"It will take a great effort to gather this information," Mrs. Reid said. "We

Bomb Scare At Kilmer School

Joyce Kilmer School in Buffalo Grove was evacuated shortly before noon Friday, after police received a false report that a bomb was set to go off at the school.

are open for more help."

Mrs. Reid added the committee felt the decision by Dist. 21 to eliminate the positions of community-school programming coordinator and the practical arts program from the 1971-72 budget was "quite a blow" to the over-all community-school program.

Dist. 21 includes most of Wheeling, the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove and parts of northern Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights.

Village Officials, Seith To Meet

Wheeling village officials and the chairman of the Cook County Zoning board of appeals will discuss their differences of opinion tonight at a 7:30 p.m. meeting.

Alex R. Seith, chairman of the county zoning body, will meet with the Wheeling village board in a committee meeting before the regular village board meeting.

Wheeling officials have been waging a war against the county zoning board for years, first because the board held its deliberations in secret and more recently because the board will not announce in advance when it will make a decision in a specific zoning case at its regular meetings.

Seith, who became chairman of the county zoning board in August, 1969, offered to meet with the Wheeling officials to discuss village recommendations for changes in the county zoning board's procedures.

Recently village officials noted at a meeting with State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, that changes proposed in state law requiring submission of all documents a week before a public hearing would help the village in its opposition to rezoning cases before the county zoning board.

Chamber Cancels Candidates Night

The Wheeling Chamber of Commerce has cancelled its candidates' forum which had originally been scheduled for tomorrow night.

Candidates for village, park district, and school district elections were to have given speeches at the public forum, the only scheduled one before this year's elections.

Eugene Sackett, Chamber of Commerce recording secretary, said Friday that the Chamber had cancelled its forum because of public apathy and problems finding a moderator.

Sackett pointed out that only the park district election is officially contested. He said that he had heard rumors that if the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) village board candidates were allowed to speak as write-in candidates that other individuals would ask to speak as write-in candidates as well.

Sackett said the Chamber had decided that holding a forum would not have been worth "the headaches and the expense" with only one contested election.

"We felt we weren't really letting people down since we hadn't really advertised it," he said.

The Wheeling Women's Club which was to have co-sponsored the event was notified by the chamber of commerce that the forum was cancelled. The women's club has held the various candidate forums in past elections.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader called on Congress Sunday to examine what he called the Treasury Department's "unlawful" proposal to give businessmen a tax break in order to boost the economy.

In a letter to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Nader said the proposal came about because "powerful private interests have undertaken a raid on the U.S. Treasury" that would cost the government $3 billion in revenue a year.

Earth Day — designated to call attention to the state of the world's environment — was observed Sunday in New York and San Francisco. Plans for Earth Day demonstrations in other cities fizzled.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged President Nixon Sunday to impose partial wage and price controls to "rescue" the economy.

"This is a rescue situation," the Republican senior senator said. "This is a situation in which for a number of years we ran enormous deficits, sweeping the Vietnam War under the rug on the theory that, as President Lyndon B. Johnson put it, we could have guns and butter. Well, you can't."

More than 500 Jews were arrested in downtown Washington Sunday when they staged a massive sit-in near the Soviet Embassy as a protest to the treatment of Russian Jews.

The World

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Sunday the long-awaited federation of Egypt, Syria, Libya and possibly Sudan will be announced next Sunday, barring unexpected developments.

The paper said the merger would probably take the form of a federation or, if certain "obstacles were not surmounted," the form of a confederation.

In either case, the newspaper said, the four countries will unify their foreign, defense, financial and information policies. Each will keep its own political organizations and domestic arrangements, however.

French voters elected 76,000 local government officials in the second-round balloting Sunday in national elections.

Authorities reported a light turnout among the 30 million registered voters, interest being confined to areas where Communists and left-wing candidates polled their efforts to defeat Gaullist candidates.

The Weather

The first day of spring Sunday brought fair weather to most of the nation today.

The southwest warmed rapidly under clear skies after a night of record cold.

Warm southerly winds up the Mississippi Valley lifted the temperatures into the 50s through the southern parts of the Middle West.

Precipitation wise, a few snow flurries linger from Pennsylvania to Northern New England. A low pressure system near Lake Michigan spread light snow through parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Twp. Government Discussed

Residents Hear Con-Con Delegate

Township government can be whatever the residents of a township want it to be under the new Illinois Constitution, according to a delegate of last year's Constitutional Convention

Mrs. Anne Evans of Des Plaines told the Wheeling Township Republican Club Thursday night that the new Constitution, which takes effect July 1, allows residents of townships to determine the extent of services that they wish the township to offer

Among those services will be construction of hospitals, mental health facilities, youth services, parks, libraries, and township office buildings

Mrs. Evans, who served on the Con-Con Education Committee also said individual townships can be eliminated under the new Constitution, if voters in a township vote in favor of dissolving the township government.

"There is no reason, it seems to me, why township government cannot be continued if it needs to be continued, or eliminated if there is no need for it," Mrs. Evans said

She admitted the debate over township

government had taken on political ramifications but said observers must take a practical view of it

The "political ramifications" prompted the most heated discussion from an audience that included several Wheeling Township officials, including Supervisor, Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Assessor Marshall Theroux and former Con-Con delegate Virginia Macdonald

Mrs. Kolerus denied there was patronage in township government and said patronage does not include elected officials

Mrs. Evans said she didn't know how much patronage exists in township government, but added that the need for employees depends on the job to be done.

"If they have the money and the job needs to be done then they should hire the people they need," she said.

When asked if there was a need for township government services, Mrs. Evans replied, "It's like the question of metropolitan government — there are some things that can best be done on a wide-area basis, but others belong on a much more local level."

Mrs. Evans said she would neither praise or condemn township government as a whole because of the vast differences in performance and services.

Action Is Delayed On 12th St. Plan

The Wheeling Village Board delayed action last week on vacating a portion of 12th Street

The board decided to wait until plans were prepared for the new route of the street before declaring the existing street no longer a public road

The village is working on a plan to realign the street so it will be continuous from Dundee Rd. to Strong Street. A jog in the street now makes through traffic impossible

Music Teachers Slate Convention

Mrs. Suzanne Hynek, 1300 W. Anthony Rd., Wheeling is a member of the convention "task-force" for the 1971 convention of the Music Teachers National Association

The convention, being held today through Thursday at the Sherman House in Chicago is open to all public and private school music teachers

Information on the convention is available by calling Mrs. Hynek at 537-0356

Zoning Is Approved For Rental Service

Wheeling's village board recently approved rezoning to allow an equipment rental service to operate in the village

The business, a new use under village zoning ordinances, will be located at 701 N. Wolf Rd.

6 Groups Participate

Homeowner Units Start Annex Petition Campaign

Residents in six homeowner associations in portions of Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect have begun a door-to-door petition campaign as part of their efforts to be annexed to the Village of Mount Prospect.

All weekend homeowner association block captains asked their neighbors to sign a petition requesting the Cook County Circuit Court to set a date for a referendum on the annexation proposal in their area. The block captains will continue their campaign until they have visited every home in their assigned areas

Leaders of the annexation movement estimate there are 8,638 people living in the approximately 2,450 homes in the six associations. These are the Castle Heights, Rainbow Ridge, Woodview, Euclid Lake, Parkview and River Trails associations

The petitions must have the signatures of the majority of the landowners and of the electors to meet state statutes. According to Marie Caylor, a leader of the group, "We hope to have more than the required number of signatures by April 1"

A PROSPECT HEIGHTS attorney, Patrick Link, will file the petition. The court will then set a hearing date, which must be between 20 and 30 days after the filing date

The area proposed for annexation, is boot shaped, stretching from Old Willow Road on the north, to Foundry Road on the south, and from River Road on the east, to Westgate Lane on the west. The area borders the village along Westgate Lane and along a jagged line that includes the Dist. 26 Feehanville and River Trails Junior High schools, west of Wolf Road.

The area is also contiguous to the boundaries of the proposed City of Prospect Heights along Mandel Lane, and portions of Indigo Court and Wolf Road. The city includes the "old town" area of Prospect Heights, west of Wolf Road, and portions of unincorporated Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

The six "new town" associations will not be annexed to Mount Prospect unless the referendum in the unincorporated area passes and the village board approves the request. According to Mayor Robert Teichert, the village will make a study of the area to determine the economic feasibility of the annexation.

EARLIER TEICHERT said, "Single-family homes usually don't pay their own way. The question is how close are the costs to the revenue." He has also said this is an appropriate time for the village to annex a residential area because of recent annexations of industrial land south of Golf Road: "The two areas would create a balance in the village"

If the area is annexed the population of the village will rise to more than 43,500.

The new village residents' taxes will rise only $2, on the average, after annexation, according to a fact sheet now being distributed by the petitioners. The sheet was prepared by the group leading

Gas Station Zoning Tonight

Wheeling's Village Board will act tonight on a petition asking for rezoning to allow a gas station at the corner of Wolf Road and Strong Street.

Also on the board's agenda is awarding of the bids on a new village ambulance.

Rezoning to allow an apartment building at the southwest corner of Capri Terrace and Wolf Road will also be considered by the village board.

Approval of the final plat for the Lakeside Villas development in western Wheeling is also on the board's agenda.

At last Monday's meeting the board discussed a report from Village Atty. Paul Hamer recommending a revamping of village's subdivision ordinances for planned developments to allow for sale of townhouse units. The board directed the plan commission to hold public hearing on the ordinance change.

Current village ordinances describe planned developments as being rental rather than sales units.

Hamer told the board the plat of Lakeside Villas which has townhouses for sale could be approved anyway, however. Village planner Thompson Dyke recommended the board adopt a new preliminary plat for the development because of "substantial" changes made between the original preliminary plat and the final plat now on the board's agenda.

Chorus Tours Schools

The chorus from Jack London Junior High School, Wheeling, has made a tour of Dist. 21 schools

The chorus gave concerts at Eugene Field, Carl Sandburg and Booth Tarkington Schools. It is under the direction of Mrs. Joan King, eighth grade vocal music instructor at London apartment.

Recreation Plan Proposed For 200-Acre Site

by JERRY THOMAS

A 27 hole golf course, and extensive recreational facilities have been proposed for a 200-acre site in Schaumburg Township adjoining Hanover Park.

The proposal, however, did not come from the owner of the property, Metropolitan Sanitary District, but Village Atty William Davies.

The attorney received village board approval Thursday of the plans for the recreational development he proposes for the district's recent acquisition adjacent to the present Hanover Park Sanitary District's Treatment Plant off Barrington Road.

Although MSD purchased the land for a sludge farm project and expansion of its present facility, attorney Davies showed an artist's rendition of the golf course, tennis courts and football and baseball fields.

Describing it as "Davies and Humphreys pipedream" Davies said it was his and the Hanover Park Park District president's Harold Humphreys plan.

Admitting the MSD district owns the land he argued the village objects to the use of it as a sludge farm and hopes that the district can be influenced to develop it as a recreation area.

He added that federal and governmental agencies could be approached for financing of the project and the MSD would benefit from good publicity as much as the village would from the recreational area.

Originally the village fought the acquisition, and after the sale authorized Davies, organizers of objecting groups and the park district to negotiate with the MSD

Pointing out they bought the acreage because they needed it to dispose of sludge and expand the present facility close to $3 million, and told the attorney to come back with a concrete offer from a developer

MSD added that it would consider a cooperative recreational use while the land was used to dispose of the solids, from the plant that is being expanded

There was talk of a golf course but the MSD would not be tied down to any promise except one to work with the villagers.

Mrs. Karen Goro, chairman of the Hanover's Involved People Group recently banded together to fight the MSD plans for sludge farming, wasn't too pleased with Davies' plans

She asked how sludge could be applied to turf and still be used as a golf course. The odor was also discussed as she talked about the ammonia-like smell of fertilizers

Davies said that's why his plans showed 27 holes; while sludge was being applied on some areas the others would be open for play

He said the MSD district should be receptive to the plan since they could point to the recreational development as "something beautiful, useful to the community and still working for the district."

"But sludge still stinks," objected a resident. "Would you rather have a stinky golf course or a stinky corn field?" asked Davies

Although he holds approval from the trustees Davies will continue to attempt to attract a developer for the site.

The board noted that it would prefer industrial or commercial development of the acreage, but if that fails would work for Davies' plan.

Absentee Ballots Available Today

Absentee ballots are available for residents who will be out of town for the Mount Prospect Park District park board election April 6

Robert Jackson, president of the park district board of commissioners, will be the only person on the ballot for the one open post. Anyone wishing to challenge Jackson's bid for reelection must do so with write-in votes.

Absentee ballots can be obtained at the park district office, 600 See-Gwon Ave., from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Mailed requests for ballots must be received at the office no later than April 1 at 5 p.m. The deadline for applying in person is April 3 at noon. All absentee ballots must be turned into the office by 5 p.m. April 3 to be counted.

The park district serves a major portion of Mount Prospect and the eighth ward in Des Plaines

Australian Teachers Visit London School

John and Christene Barren, teachers from Australia, visited eighth grade classes at Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling.

The Barrens, who are visiting the United States on a honeymoon trip, found buildings and equipment "much finer than in Australia and students "more disciplined" and "brighter" than Australians

Students Honored In London Science Fair

A project submitted by Keith Berglund was judged "outstanding" in the fair. First place awards were taken by Berglund, Tom Will, Mike Dunn and Bob Quasius.

The four boys were eligible to exhibit their projects in the Dist. 21 science fair held Saturday at London.

Commuter Station To Be Built At Arlington Park

A new commuter station with 800 parking spaces will be built at the Arlington-Park race track, without the use of federal money, Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights mayor said Friday.

Three parties, the Chicago and North Western Rwy., the track and the village are currently working on the terms of cost-sharing for the new facility, he added.

Walsh stressed village participation would not cause any additional taxation to local residents.

The decision to use local and private money in the initial development is aimed to quickly alleviate pressures on Arlington Heights downtown station,
Walsh said.

"Most federal programs require regional plans which we don't have. It can take years before federal money becomes available. There are all sorts of complications," he added.

THE POSSIBILITY is not being eliminated of applying for federal funds in the future to expand the new station into a commuter center, Walsh said.

The total commuter center concept in other areas has been associated with multiple level parking, bus, taxi, and helicopter facilities adjoining the rail station.

Development of a commuter center could create a facility available to areas such as Schaumburg, Long Grove and Buffalo Grove because of easy access to the track area via Routes 53 and 14,

Walsh said.

Plans for the new station should be available from C & NW engineers in a few days, he added.

Construction of the new station and parking facility will begin once it is determined what share of the cost each of three parties involved is willing to accept, Walsh said.

Jet Pilot Talks

747 jumbo jets, spoke to students at the olson talked about engines and aircraft design.

'Gym Jam' Activity Being Planned Here

Wheeling Park District officials Thursday began plans for a "Gym Jam" sometime this spring.

The board members explained that the program would be a recreational evening for the entire community.

Purchase of a single ticket would allow a person to participate in a variety of activities, including swimming in the new Neptune's Pool, dancing, roller skating, volley ball, trampoline, saunas, and

Rec Director To Resign Post

Keith Vernon, Wheeling Park District recreation director has notified the park district board that he will not be able to work for the district next year.

Vernon's contract with the district, which he works for on a half-time basis, will expire May 1, but he may continue to work for the district this summer, park officials said.

Vernon, who is also coordinator of community school programs for School Dist. 21, will be teaching full-time during the next school year.

His job with the school district as coordinator was cut during a recent budget cutback by the school district board.

Park Board Pres. Robert Ross said
Friday that the board will discuss summer employment with Vernon at its next meeting.

Ross said efforts to find a new recreation director for the district would begin after the board election on April 6.

Carnival Atmosphere

Harper College Career Day Set

Trampoline stunts, a tooth booth and an electronic tic-tac-toe game will provide a carnival atmosphere for the Harper College Career Day Tuesday, March 23, at the college.

Businessmen and housewives, as well as high school and college students are invited to visit the day-long Career Carousel where the college's 29 career programs will be explained.

Area high schools have been invited to bring students to the program between 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Evening hours for students and residents who cannot come during the day are 7 to 10 p.m.

The trampoline stunts will be demonstrated by the physical education department. A booth built like a tooth will be the information center for the dental hygiene program, and the electronic tic-tac-toe will be located at the electronics career booth.

IN ADDITION, the law enforcement department will have a police squad car, motorcycle, and a state police van on display. A cardboard computer built by students in the data processing program will tell fortunes.

All 29 career programs will have information booths open where visitors can discuss the programs with students and faculty advisors.

Programs available at Harper include accounting, architecture, architectural technology, baking, business and industrial security, chemical technology, child services, clerical or administrative assistant, cooking, data processing, data processing, clerical, dental hygiene, electronics technology, fashion design and fire science.

Other career programs are food service management, journalism, law enforcement, legal secretary, marketing, mid-management, mechanical engineering technology, mechanical drafting, numerical control technology, nursing, secretarial science, supermarket management, supervisory and administrative management.

Two new career programs are interior design and real estate.

The Career Carousel is being organized by Robert Cormack, dean of career programs, and the Harper Career Coordinators' Council.

Adults who have an interest in continuing their education in a specialized field are being encouraged to attend the Career Carousel, according to Cormack. A national need for skilled technicians is prompting development of career programs at the community college level.

Harper College offers a two-year associate degree in most of the 29 career programs. A few programs offer a one-year certificate.

"High schools outside the Harper district (areas served by High School Dist.
211, 214 and 224) have expressed interest in our programs as well as those within the district," Cormack said. Currently, Harper is participating in a cooperative program with high schools in health occupations careers besides enrichment and regular courses for adults.

Harper is located at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine.

Three School Programs On Board Agenda

Three school programs — the action program and modular scheduling at Wheeling High School, and the self-contained classroom at Prospect High School — are on the agenda for discussion by the High School Dist. 214 School Board tonight.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Building, 799 W. Kensington
Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Two substitute teachers, Mrs. Ronald Luders, 14 University, Buffalo Grove, and Mrs. Donald Meisner, 1827 Rolling Ln., Arlington Heights, will speak to the board about substitute teacher salaries.

Substitutes presently receive $25 per day for the first 10 days they substitute in a school year and $30 per day after that. The substitute teachers are asking for an increase in the daily amount, which they say has not been changed for three years.

The board will also take final action to award the 1971-74 bus contract for the northern part of the district to Cook County Bus Co. Circuit Court Judge Edward Egan, in a declaratory judgment requested by the school board, named Cook County as the low bidder over Davidson's Bus Service.

Approval of $106,000 for purchase of movable furniture for Rolling Meadows
High School will also be considered.

Cook County Unit Grants Approval Of Youth Services

Approval of the proposed youth services program for Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights was granted at a hearing Friday before the Cook County Commission on Criminal Justice.

This means that the commission will recommend to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission that it provide a one-year grant of $118,702 to help set up the program in the three communities. An additional $40,000 is anticipated from local grants.

Included in the proposal are the establishment of a youth services center, counseling and treatment for troubled youth, special training programs for policemen and parents on drug abuse and delinquency and various other youth-related programs.

The proposal was submitted to the commission jointly by the Wheeling Youth Commission, TORCH Mental Health Clinic and HELP, Inc.

RICHARD WYNN, director of the TORCH Mental Health Clinic, and Richard Stanowski, HELP president, attended the hearing Friday to explain the proposal to the commission. Also speaking in favor of the proposal Friday was Emerson Thomas, executive director of the Palatine Township Youth Committee.

Both Wynn and Stanowski said they were pleased with the favorable recommendation.

"We've passed the first step," Wynn said. He said that the proposal will be examined by the ILEC before a final decision is made on whether to award the grant.

No date has been set on a hearing before the ILEC. Wynn said the ILEC may discuss the proposal at their next regular meeting in April.

Before the county commission approved the proposal, its members quizzed Wynn and Stanowski on various aspects of the project.

OF PARTICULAR interest to the commission was the question of how the youth services program would be financed in the second year of operation.

"We feel that if we can demonstrate the efficiency of our approach, the community will provide adequate financing to maintain the service," Wynn said.

He noted that most projects started in the area in 1967 with funds from Title III of the Federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act are now supported by local money.

"We have no sure guarantee that the community would pick up the cost or that the project will achieve the effect we think it will, preventing delinquency. But if no attempt is made, the problems will only get larger," Wynn said.

Commission members also asked whether the program would duplicate or overlap the programs provided by the Youth Services Bureau in Palatine.

THOMAS TOLD the commission that the program would not do this.

"There are many specialized services for counseling and treatment of youth that are not provided by our bureau. Their youth services program is a much more comprehensive program," Thomas said.

Thomas said that the Palatine bureau would cooperate with the Wheeling-area program if it is established, and could refer young people to the Wheeling center for diagnostic treatment not available in the Palatine program.

Park District OKs $150,000 Bond Issue

Buffalo Grove Park District has voted to issue $150,000 in general obligation bonds to acquire land for future park sites and improve existing facilities.

The action was taken at the park board meeting Thursday night, following a presentation by the firm of Benjamin and Lang. Benjamin and Lang will handle the sale of the bonds and act as the district's financial consultants.

The bonds will be paid off from tax revenues and will not result in a tax increase to district residents.

The $150,000 figure represents one-half of one per cent of the district's total assessed evaluation. Under state law, a park district may issue up to that limit without going to the voters for approval.

THE COMMISSIONERS also discussed the possibility of holding a referendum for the sale of an additional $600,000 in bonds, but did not take action.

The money from the bonds approved will be used specifically to obtain options on two parcels of land in areas of the park district where there are no parks, according to William Kiddle, park district president.

He said the district must get the options now to prevent the land from being built on. "Once houses are built, the land is gone forever," Kiddle said. Additional recreation and maintenance equipment will also be purchased.

Benjamin and Lang will receive a one per cent commission ($1,500) on the sale of the bonds.

Under the terms of the agreement, Benjamin and Lang will perform a number of services connected with the bond sale.

ACCORDING TO THE agreement, the firm will "prepare an official statement describing the community, population trends, historical financial data, and other pertinent information, so that at the proper time interested bidders may have complete financial information."

The firm will also make a study of the district's financial operations and "make suggestions which appear pertinent." Also Benjamin and Lang will "submit financial data to the national municipal financial rating services for assignment of bond ratings," and recommend "a program of investment of temporarily idle proceeds of the bond issue."

Citizens Group May Take School Program Survey

A survey may be taken by the Dist. 21 Community-School Programming citizens' committee to determine what programs residents would like to have offered, according to committee member Mary Jo Reid.

Mrs. Reid discussed the proposed survey at a Thursday meeting of the seven citizens' committees working to develop various educational goals for Dist. 21.

Mrs. Reid said the committee feels a survey would be a valuable way of determining what programs residents want, and existing programs they feel are not necessary.

Mrs. Reid reported the committee has spent the majority of its time examining existing programs at Dist. 21 schools, Wheeling High School, and 7 other communities.

"It will take a great effort to gather this information, Mrs. Reid said. "We are open for more help."

Mrs. Reid added the committee felt the decision by Dist. 21 to eliminate the positions of community-school programming coordinator and the practical arts program from the 1971-72 budget was "quite a blow" to the over-all community-school program.

Dist. 21 includes most of Wheeling, the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove and parts of northern Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights.

Fire Pact Efforts Renewed

The Buffalo Grove Fire Department has renewed its efforts to get the Long Grove Fire Department to agree to a mutual aid arrangement, which fire officials believe would result in reduced insurance premiums for village residents.

Village Fire Chief Wayne Winter said he has tried repeatedly to enter into the agreement with the Long Grove Department, but has been unsuccessful. Winter has sent a copy of the agreement to Long Grove, and on March 4 sent a letter to Edward Deeke, Long Grove Fire Chief.

Because the village does not have a municipal fire department, all areas in the village north of Checker Road are served by the Long Grove Fire Department. The rest of the village is protected by the Buffalo Grove Fire Department.

According to the Illinois Rating and Inspection Bureau, if the mutual aid agreement were signed, Buffalo Grove would receive an improved rating, meaning a savings on annual fire insurance premiums paid by residents.

In his letter to Deeke Winter said, "While I fully realize that you do not agree with the findings of the rating bureau, I was confident that you would sign the agreement with the intention of providing a better classification for the village of Buffalo Grove."

"Let me state again the agreement calls for us to respond into the portion of Buffalo Grove you provide protection to with one engine company for which there will be no charge whatsoever."

Concluding, Winter wrote, "the future planning of our department and of the village calls for an immediate answer from your department as to the status of the agreement. The Illinois Rating and Inspection Bureau is also waiting for an answer. They, as we, cannot understand the long delay to make such a simple agreement."

The agreement was sent to Long Grove in January.

7 File For Board Posts

Seven candidates have filed for election in the High School Dist. 214 April 10 school board election.

The two incumbents, Leah D. Cummins, 1009 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village, and Richard Bachhuber, 625 S. Edw. St., Mount Prospect, filed on Feb. 24, the first day of filing. Mrs. Cummins will be the first candidate on the ballot, Bachhuber the second.

Jack L. Matthews, 1511 E. Sunset Terr., Arlington Heights, was the third to file on March 18.

Raymond L. Pettersen, Jr., 4307 Linden Ln., Rolling Meadows, filed for candidacy Friday at 2 p.m. He will be the fourth name on the ballot.

The last three, Robert C. Winkle, 680A

Versailles Cr., Elk Grove Village, Clyde H. Brooks, 65 Brantwood Ave., Elk Grove Village, and Don C. McGlothlin, 1047 S. Carol Ave., Wheeling, drew straws at 4 p.m. Friday to determine their position on the ballot.

Winkle will be fifth, Brooks sixth and McGlothlin last on the election ballot.

Both Brooks and McGlothlin were candidates in the Dist. 214 election last year.

Mrs. Cummins, the first to file, submitted 141 names on her petitions, McGlothlin, the last, had 52. Each candidate must have 50 valid signatures of registered voters in Dist. 214 to be qualified as candidates. Final acceptance of the petitions must be made by the Dist. 214 board secretary.

Hospital Releases Man After Incident

Byron Crowell, 33, was released from St. Alexius Hospital last Friday after being treated for a broken wrist and jaw following an incident March 14 with Elk Grove Village police.

Crowell and his nephew, Allen Batton, 19, both of 871 Westbourne Ln., Buffalo Grove, were charged with resisting arrest and aggravated battery stemming from the incident in a service station in Elk Grove Village.

Mrs. Crowell, who was not involved in the scuffle with police as previously reported in the Herald, said she saw the incident inside the gas station and that both men did not resist arrest or strike the police officer as charged.

She charged police beat her husband in the police station later, a charge police deny.

Jaycee Is Honored

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees have named Bob Bogart as the Jaycee of the month for February.

The announcement was made by Jaycee Pres. Joe Pash at a banquet meeting recently. Bogart was singled out for his organizational work on the Jaycee basketball clinic.

Bomb Scare At Kilmer School

Joyce Kilmer School in Buffalo Grove was evacuated shortly before noon Friday, after police received a false report that a bomb was set to go off at the school.

Police and firemen searched the building for about one hour but could find no bomb. Classes then resumed.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader called on Congress Sunday to examine what he called the Treasury Department's "unlawful" proposal to give businessmen a tax break in order to boost the economy.

In a letter to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Nader said the proposal came about because "powerful private interests have undertaken a raid on the U.S. Treasury" that would cost the government $3 billion in revenue a year.

Earth Day — designated to call attention to the state of the world's environment — was observed Sunday in New York and San Francisco. Plans for Earth Day demonstrations in other cities fizzled.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged President Nixon Sunday to impose partial wage and price controls to "rescue" the economy.

"This is a rescue situation," the Republican senior senator said. "This is a situation in which for a number of years we ran enormous deficits, sweeping the Vietnam War under the rug on the theory that, as President Lyndon B. Johnson put it, we could have guns and butter. Well, you can't."

More than 500 Jews were arrested in downtown Washington Sunday when they staged a massive sit-in near the Soviet Embassy as a protest to the treatment of Russian Jews.

The World

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Sunday the long-awaited federation of Egypt, Syria, Libya and possibly Sudan will be announced next Sunday, barring unexpected developments.

The paper said the merger would probably take the form of a federation or, if certain "obstacles were not surmounted," the form of a confederation.

In either case, the newspaper said, the four countries will unify their foreign, defense, financial and information policies. Each will keep its own political organizations and domestic arrangements, however.

French voters elected 78,000 local government officials in the second-round balloting Sunday in national elections.

Authorities reported a light turnout among the 30 million registered voters, interest being confined to areas where Communists and left-wing candidates polled their efforts to defeat Gaullist candidates.

The Weather

The first day of spring Sunday brought fair weather to most of the nation today.

The southwest warmed rapidly under clear skies after a night of record cold.

Warm southerly winds up the Mississippi Valley lifted the temperatures into the 50s through the southern parts of the Middle West.

Precipitation wise, a few snow flurries linger from Pennsylvania to Northern New England. A low pressure system near Lake Michigan spread light snow through parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Twp. Government Discussed

Residents Hear Con-Con Delegate

Township government can be whatever the residents of a township want it to be under the new Illinois Constitution, according to a delegate of last year's Constitutional Convention.

Mrs. Anne Evans of Des Plaines told the Wheeling Township Republican Club Thursday night that the new Constitution, which takes effect July 1, allows residents of townships to determine the extent of services that they wish the township to offer.

Among those services will be construction of hospitals, mental health facilities, youth services, parks, libraries, and township office buildings.

Mrs. Evans, who served on the Con-Con Education Committee also said individual townships can be eliminated under the new Constitution, if voters in a township vote in favor of dissolving the township government.

"There is no reason, it seems to me, why township government cannot be continued if it needs to be continued, or eliminated if there is no need for it," Mrs. Evans said.

She admitted the debate over township government had taken on political ramifications but said observers must take a practical view of it.

The "political ramifications" prompted the most heated discussion from an audience that included several Wheeling Township officials, including Supervisor, Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Assessor Marshall Theroux and former Con-Con delegate Virginia Macdonald.

Mrs. Kolerus denied there was patronage in township government and said patronage does not include elected officials.

Mrs. Evans said she didn't know how much patronage exists in township government, but added that the need for employees depends on the job to be done.

"If they have the money and the job needs to be done then they should hire the people they need," she said.

When asked if there was a need for township government services, Mrs. Evans replied, "It's like the question of metropolitan government — there are some things that can best be done on a wide-area basis, but others belong on a much more local level."

Mrs. Evans said she would neither praise or condemn township government as a whole because of the vast differences in performance and services.

Action Is Delayed On 12th St. Plan

The Wheeling Village Board delayed action last week on vacating a portion of 12th Street.

The board decided to wait until plans were prepared for the new route of the street before declaring the existing street no longer a public road.

The village is working on a plan to realign the street so it will be continuous from Dundee Rd. to Strong Street. A jog in the street now makes through traffic impossible.

Music Teachers Slate Convention

Mrs. Suzanne Hynek, 1300 W. Anthony Rd., Wheeling is a member of the convention "task force" for the 1971 convention of the Music Teachers National Association.

The convention, being held today through Thursday at the Sherman House in Chicago is open to all public and private school music teachers.

Information on the convention is available by calling Mrs. Hynek at 337-0358.

Zoning Is Approved For Rental Service

Wheeling's village board recently approved rezoning to allow an equipment rental service to operate in the village.

The business, a new use under village zoning ordinances, will be located at 701 N. Wolf Rd.

6 Groups Participate

Homeowner Units Start Annex Petition Campaign

Residents in six homeowner associations in portions of Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect have begun a door-to-door petition campaign as part of their efforts to be annexed to the Village of Mount Prospect.

All weekend homeowner association block captains asked their neighbors to sign a petition requesting the Cook County Circuit Court to set a date for a referendum on the annexation proposal in their area. The block captains will continue their campaign until they have visited every home in their assigned areas.

Leaders of the annexation movement estimate there are 8,638 people living in the approximately 2,450 homes in the six associations. These are the Castle Heights, Rainbow Ridge, Woodview, Euclid Lake, Parkview and River Trails associations.

The petitions must have the signatures of the majority of the landowners and of the electors to meet state statutes. According to Marie Caylor, a leader of the group, "We hope to have more than the required number of signatures by April 1."

A PROSPECT HEIGHTS attorney, Patrick Link, will file the petition. The court will then set a hearing date, which must be between 20 and 30 days after the filing date.

The area proposed for annexation, is boat shaped, stretching from Old Willow Road on the north, to Foundry Road on the south, and from River Road on the east, to Westgate Lane on the west. The area borders the village along Westgate Lane and along a jagged line that includes the Dist. 26 Feenhanville and River Trails Junior High schools, west of Wolf Road.

The area is also contiguous to the boundaries of the proposed City of Prospect Heights along Mandel Lane, and portions of Indigo Court and Wolf Road. The city includes the "old town" area of Prospect Heights, west of Wolf Road, and portions of unincorporated Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

The six "new town" associations will not be annexed to Mount Prospect unless the referendum in the unincorporated area passes and the village board approves the request. According to Mayor Robert Teichert, the village will make a study of the area to determine the economic feasibility of the annexation.

EARLIER TEICHERT said, "Single-family homes usually don't pay their own way. The question is how close are the costs to the revenue." He has also said this is an appropriate time for the village to annex a residential area because of recent annexations of industrial land south of Golf Road: "The two areas would create a balance in the village."

If the area is annexed the population of the village will rise to more than 43,500.

The new village residents' taxes will rise only $2, on the average, after annexation, according to a fact sheet now being distributed by the petitioners. The sheet was prepared by the group leading

Gas Station Zoning Tonight

Wheeling's Village Board will act tonight on a petition asking for rezoning to allow a gas station at the corner of Wolf Road and Strong Street.

Also on the board's agenda is awarding of the bids on a new village ambulance. Rezoning to allow an apartment building at the southwest corner of Capri Terrace and Wolf Road will also be considered by the village board.

Approval of the final plat for the Lake-side Villas development in western Wheeling is also on the board's agenda.

At last Monday's meeting the board discussed a report from Village Atty. Paul Hamer recommending a revamping of village's subdivision ordinances for planned developments to allow for sale of townhouse units. The board directed the plan commission to hold public hearing on the ordinance change.

Current village ordinances describe planned developments as being rental rather than sales units.

Hamer told the board the plat of Lake-side Villas which has townhouses for sale could be approved anyway, however. Village planner Thompson Dyke recommended the board adopt a new preliminary plat for the development because of "substantial" changes made between the original preliminary plat and the final plat now on the board's agenda.

Recreation Plan Proposed For 200-Acre Site

by JERRY THOMAS

A 27 hole golf course, and extensive recreational facilities have been proposed for a 200-acre site in Schaumburg Township adjoining Hanover Park.

The proposal, however, did not come from the owner of the property, Metropolitan Sanitary District, but Village Atty. William Davies.

The attorney received village board approval Thursday of the plans for the recreational development he proposes for the district's recent acquisition adjacent to the present Hanover Park Sanitary District's Treatment Plant off Barrington Road.

Although MSD purchased the land for a sludge farm project and expansion of its present facility, attorney Davies showed an artist's rendition of the golf course, tennis courts and football and baseball fields.

Describing it as "Davies and Humphreys' pipedream" Davies said it was his and the Hanover Park District president's Harold Humphreys plan.

Admitting the MSD district owns the land he argued the village objects to the use of it as a sludge farm and hopes that the district can be influenced to develop it as a recreation area.

He added that federal and governmental agencies could be approached for financing of the project and the MSD would benefit from good publicity as much as the village would from the recreational area.

Originally the village fought the acquisition, and after the sale authorized Davies, organizers of objecting groups and the park district to negotiate with the MSD.

Pointing out they bought the acreage because they needed it to dispose of sludge and expand the present facility close to $3 million, and told the attorney to come back with a concrete offer from a developer.

MSD added that it would consider a cooperative recreational use while the land was used to dispose of the solids, from the plant that is being expanded.

There was talk of a golf course but the MSD would not be tied down to any promise except one to work with the villagers.

Mrs. Karen Goro, chairman of the Hanover's Involved People Group recently banded together to fight the MSD plans for sludge farming, wasn't too pleased with Davies' plans.

She asked how sludge could be applied to turf and still be used as a golf course. The odor was also discussed as she talked about the ammonia-like smell of fertilizers.

Davies said that's why his plans showed 27 holes; while sludge was being applied on some areas the others would be open for play.

He said the MSD district should be receptive to the plan since they could point to the recreational development as "something beautiful, useful to the community and still working for the district."

"But sludge still stinks," objected a resident. "Would you rather have a stinky golf course or a stinky corn field?" asked Davies.

Although he holds approval from the trustees Davies will continue to attempt to attract a developer for the site.

The board noted that it would prefer industrial or commercial development of the acreage, but if that fails would work for Davies' plan.

Absentee Ballots Available Today

Absentee ballots are available for residents who will be out of town for the Mount Prospect Park District park board election April 6.

Robert Jackson, president of the park district board of commissioners, will be the only person on the ballot for the one open post. Anyone wishing to challenge Jackson's bid for reelection must do so with write-in votes.

Absentee ballots can be obtained at the park district office, 600 See-Gwon Ave., from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Mailed requests for ballots must be received at the office no later than April 1 at 5 p.m. The deadline for applying in person is April 3 at noon. All absentee ballots must be turned into the office by 5 p.m. April 3 to be counted.

The park district serves a major portion of Mount Prospect and the eighth ward in Des Plaines.

Australian Teachers Visit London School

John and Christene Barren, teachers from Australia, visited eighth grade classes at Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling.

The Barrens, who are visiting the United States on a honeymoon trip, found buildings and equipment "much finer than in Australia and students 'more disciplined' and 'brighter' than Australians."

Students Honored In London Science Fair

Four students at Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling took top awards in the London science fair last week.

A project submitted by Keith Berghund was judged "outstanding" in the fair. First place awards were taken by Berghund, Tom Will, Mike Dunn and Bob Quasius.

The four boys were eligible to exhibit their projects in the Dist. 21 science fair held Saturday at London.

Residents Grill Candidates On Decisive Issues

by TOM ROBB

Nearly 75 Palatine residents had their first crack at all village board candidates Thursday and after several hours of probing, brought out what could be the decisive issues in the April 20 election.

It was the first Candidate's Night of the 1971 campaign and was sponsored by the Willow Wood Homeowners Association.

Residents grilled the seven contenders on everything from the credibility of village government to their policies on low and moderate income housing.

Candidates on hand to field the questions were Merwin Soper, Dennis Collins and Donald Phares, the GOP slate; Clay Brown, Tom Kearns and Fred Zajonc, the VIP slate, and Donald Metivier, an independent.

They were asked questions which gave some indication of what issues are of current concern to Palatine residents.

AMONG OTHER THINGS, people wanted to know about the village board's responsiveness to residents' needs and problems, why existing problems are not cleared up before new projects are undertaken, if stricter zoning laws will be forthcoming to protect the continuity of design in neighborhoods, and what will be done to solve recurrent flooding problems.

The candidates tried to answer these questions in part by presenting their platforms.

First up was Metivier, who said, "We have to redefine Palatine and set new priorities to meet problems which will arise in the next ten years when Palatine's population will double."

He also called for closer cooperation between the village board and other governing bodies in Palatine like the school and park boards.

In this way, Metivier said the village could be prepared to handle current, as well as potential problems.

A DEMOCRAT, Metivier also charged that there was "no significant difference" between the GOP and VIP slates, since both are Republicans.

Soper, however, said there was a considerable difference, and that the GOP candidates are gearing their campaign to be responsive to village residents.

He presented results from a survey "of hundreds of Palatine homeowners" which showed that 79 per cent of the people feel the present village board is not responsive to its constituents.

He said the GOP candidates, if elected, will continue to seek help and advice from the people "to find out what is on their minds."

Speaking for the VIP slate, Clay Brown stressed the importance of "community involvement and dedication" in running for elected office.

He said he and his running mates have been deeply involved in village affairs for years.

BROWN ALSO listed major village board accomplishments during the last four years.

He said the board has taken important strides in the area of flood control, improving water pressure, updating village equipment and programs, providing more commuter parking, transportation, and protection of the village environment.

Throughout the evening, however, VIP candidates were largely on the defensive, for Willow Wood was among several subdivisions which vehemently opposed the board's affirmative vote on the Sellergren high-rise complex at Hicks and Baldwin Roads.

Looking to future developments, one resident asked three of the candidates for their opinions on low and moderate income housing.

METIVIER SAID he favored it if it were "properly planned." Soper said he favored it economically, but opposed it socially since "transplanting people from one type of community into another is proven not to work." Brown said federal action will make it a reality "whether you like it or not," but that low income housing is "an impossibility in Palatine" due to the price of land and building. He said moderate income housing will come in and suggested undeveloped land be set aside for that purpose.

In closing, the candidates said they will be willing to attend other forums between now and April 20. These dates will be announced shortly.

Proposed Road Budget Is Unchanged

Palatine Township's 1971-72 proposed road budget and appropriation ordinance requests no increases over the last year's budget.

In fact, the estimated expenditures for the next fiscal year are almost exactly the same as the expenditures approved for the current budget year, ending March 31.

Total estimated expenditures for 1971-72 is set at $245,200. The 1970-71 budget was $245,526.19, including the previous year's surplus. This year's surplus is not expected to be as much, due to the great use of salt on icy township roads this winter, according to Highway Commissioner Hans Bergman.

Road expenditures proposed for the 1971-72 fiscal year are road construction, $35,000; road maintenance, $116,000; bridge maintenance, $1,000; oiling of roads, $30,000; purchase of machinery,

$25,000; repairs of machinery, $5,000; weed removal, $3,000; building maintenance, $5,000; administration, $16,200; contingency provisions, $4,000; and removal of trees along right-of-ways,

$5,000. All are the same as approved 1970-71.

Township residents can examine the proposed budget and appropriation ordinance at the Town Hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, during office hours.

A public hearing on the budget will also be held on March 30 at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall.

A FINAL HEARING and action on the proposed ordinance will be taken at the town meeting on April 13 at 8 p.m. at Cardinal School in Rolling Meadows.

While the township highway department is setting the budget at $245,200, it will not get this entire amount. Some of the appropriation must be shared with the municipalities in the township by law. About half of the taxes collected for highway maintenance must be deeded to the municipal highway departments.

Next year's rate will be 10 cents per $100 of assessed property valuation, the same as this year's. Township highway attorney Francis Kelly said the budget is the same because there is no noticeable increase in assessed valuation over the past year in the township.

Colfax Street Hearing Tonight

A public hearing on the proposed special assessment project to upgrade Colfax Street will highlight tonight's village board meeting at 8 p.m. in the Village Hall, 54 S. Brockway.

The board will present details on a plan for $1.3 million worth of work on Colfax between Smith Street and Quentin Road.

The proposal calls for widening the street from two to four lanes, installing new street lights, water and sewer facilities along the 4,578 foot long stretch of roadway.

Village engineers have estimated that between 38 and 50 per cent of the project will be financed by a special assessment.

Kenneth Stonesifer, attorney for the Board of Local Improvements, an advisory group composed of trustees, said about 71 persons will be assessed.

Signatures Mount

Crane To Discuss Obscene Movies

Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, will with a group of Palatine women soon to discuss what can be done about outdoor theaters showing allegedly obscene movies.

Mrs. Nancy Haines, a spokesman for the women, said the meeting may take place sometime next week.

Until then her group will continue to solicit signatures for its petition opposing allegedly obscene movies at the 53 Outdoor Theater, at Rte. 12 and Hicks Road.

Mrs. Haines wrote a letter to Rep. Crane several weeks ago. Recently, Crane answered her letter and agreed to meet with the women.

She said Crane told her the only way

the women can prevent the movies they oppose from being shown at drive-in theaters is to get mass support behind their movement. He recommended that they get as many signatures as possible on their petition before the meeting.

He did not set a definite date on which to meet with the women.

This week, Mrs. Haines and the women will be circulating their petition throughout Palatine and the surrounding area to get extra signatures. To date, the women have obtained 2,000 signatures.

Women in the campaign oppose the movies being shown at the 53 Outdoor because the theater's screen may be viewed from nearby roads. Minors who could not be admitted to the theater to see the films, many X-rated, could view the movies anyway from cars parked on these roads.

Rep. Philip Crane

3 File For Board Seats

Three High School Dist. 211 residents have filed as candidates for two board positions in the April 10 school board election.

All announced their candidacy before the final filing date Friday.

Paul Hughes, 410 MacArthur Ln. in Palatine, will lead the ballot. Robert Seger, 919 Canterbury in Schaumburg will be second, and John Sowa, 151 Edgemont Ln. in Hoffman Estates, will be last on the ballot.

Lyle Johnson of Hoffman Estates and Harris Helgeson of Palatine, incumbent board members whose terms expire this spring, will not be seeking reelection.

Johnson has been on the Dist. 211 board four years, Helgeson 22 years. Both have served as school board president.

Area Camp Fire Girls To Distribute Cakes

Palatine Camp Fire Girls will be distributing birthday mini-cakes around the village this week.

Baked by all the Camp Fire Girl-related groups in Palatine, the cakes will be presented to various local officials, clubs, PTA's, schools and other organizations.

The cakes are being distributed locally to show the group's appreciation for support given to them over the past year. Cake distribution began yesterday and will run through Saturday.

Cook County Unit Grants Approval Of Youth Services

Approval of the proposed youth services program for Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights was granted at a hearing Friday before the Cook County Commission on Criminal Justice.

This means that the commission will recommend to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission that it provide a one-year grant of $118,702 to help set up the program in the three communities. An additional $40,000 is anticipated from local grants.

Included in the proposal are the establishment of a youth services center, counseling and treatment for troubled youth, special training programs for policemen and parents on drug abuse and delinquency and various other youth-related programs.

The proposal was submitted to the commission jointly by the Wheeling Youth Commission, TORCH Mental Health Clinic and HELP, Inc.

RICHARD WYNN, director of the TORCH Mental Health Clinic, and Richard Stanowski, HELP president, attended the hearing Friday to explain the proposal to the commission. Also speaking in favor of the proposal Friday was Emerson Thomas, executive director of the Palatine Township Youth Committee.

Both Wynn and Stanowski said they were pleased with the favorable recommendation.

"We've passed the first step," Wynn said. He said that the proposal will be examined by the ILEC before a final decision is made on whether to award the grant.

No date has been set on a hearing before the ILEC. Wynn said the ILEC may discuss the proposal at their next regular meeting in April.

Before the county commission approved the proposal, its members quizzed Wynn and Stanowski on various aspects of the project.

OF PARTICULAR interest to the commission was the question of how the youth services program would be financed in the second year of operation.

"We feel that if we can demonstrate the efficiency of our approach, the community will provide adequate financing to maintain the service," Wynn said.

He noted that most projects started in the area in 1967 with funds from Title III of the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act are now supported by local money.

"We have no sure guarantee that the community would pick up the cost or that the project will achieve the effect we think it will, preventing delinquency. But if no attempt is made, the problems will only get larger," Wynn said.

Commission members also asked whether the program would duplicate or overlap the programs provided by the Youth Services Bureau in Palatine.

THOMAS TOLD the commission that there are many specialized services for counseling and treatment of youth that are not provided by our bureau. Their youth services program is a much more comprehensive program," Thomas said.

Thomas said that the Palatine bureau would cooperate with the Wheeling-area program if it is established, and could refer young people to the Wheeling center for diagnostic treatment not available in the Palatine program.

Six Vie For 4 Board Posts

Filing for candidacy in the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 election ended Friday with six residents seeking four positions on the school board.

Two incumbents, J. Leslie Ehringer and Howard Meadors, are seeking reelection to full three-year terms on the school board. A third incumbent, Leland "Bud" Gibbs, is the only candidate for the two-year unexpired term to which he was appointed by the current school board last year.

Newcomers seeking election to the full terms are Everett L. Charlier, 26 S. Greenwood, Palatine; Richard H. Morin, 1720 E. La Rd., Palatine; and Henry L. Hefty, 1116 E. Pratt Dr., Palatine.

Board member Mrs. Patricia Oakley, whose term will be over next month, chose not to seek reelection to the board in order to devote more time to a teaching career. She expects to receive a bachelor's degree in education in June and would like to teach high school mathematics in the area.

Meadors, 437 N. Inverway, Palatine, will be seeking his sixth term to the Dist. 15 board in the April 10 election. Currently secretary of the board, Meadors is a partner of Edwin Shield Hewitt and Associates of Libertyville, a firm of actuaries and consultants on employee benefits programs.

Ehringer, 2 Stuart-On-Oxford, Rolling Meadows, is seeking his third term to the board. He has been a Dist. 15 board member since 1964 when he was appointed to fill a vacancy. A Winston Park resident for many years, Ehringer is a manager of interline sales for United Air Lines.

Gibbs, 4248 Wilson Ave., Rolling Meadows, was first elected to the board in 1967. He was defeated in his bid for reelection in 1970 but was appointed to fill a vacancy later that year. Gibbs works as a sales manager for H. S. Crocker Co.

Currently serving his 13th year with Arlington Heights Dist. 25, Charlier is making his first bid for a school board position. He works as director of programming of closed circuit television instruction at South Junior High School.

Morin, another newcomer, has regularly attended Dist. 15 board meetings for several years. He has been involved on the boards of several PTA groups in the area as well as the Blue Island PTA before moving to Palatine. He is employed by the Cook County Division of Forest Preserves.

Hefty, a training director for Sara-Lee, has been active in education for several years through his training position and as an instructor of adult evening courses in business management at Lyons Township High School. He and his wife have two children in Dist. 15 schools.

All six candidates, as well as candidates to Districts 211, 214 and Harper Junior College, will participate in a Candidates Night at 8 p.m. March 29 at Plum Grove School. Election issues and candidates views on them will be discussed.

Adult Advisor For PTYO Is Appointed

Chicago booking agent Tom Dase was appointed adult advisor in charge of programming by the Palatine Township Youth Organization (PTYO).

Dase, who has been booking rock bands for PTYO dances, was appointed at a recent meeting of the teen group.

Dase has been attending PTYO meetings regularly since last October. He has helped the group with the dances, and with other projects.

Dase is half owner of Calagari, Ltd., a booking agency near Chicago's Old Town section.

PTYO is an organization of 250 area young people who are trying to build a teen center called "The Joint" on the old Levee Ranch on Smith Road in north Palatine. Recent PTYO dances have raised $4,000 toward remodeling the ranch site into "The Joint."

Viking Booster Club Pot Luck Supper Set

A pot luck supper will be sponsored by the Fremd Viking Booster Club Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

To be held in the Fremd High School cafeteria, the purpose of the affair is to award the school's basketball, wrestling and gymnastics teams for their efforts in the previous months.

Entertainment will be provided by the Fremd cheerleaders, the pom pom girls and the pep squad. Rolls and coffee will be supplied by the Booster Club.

All parents of Fremd athletes are invited to attend and bring their own meals.

SINCE LAST summer, "The Partridges" have been pretending to sing their favorite songs and have become quite proficient as a "lip sinc" band. Engaging in a practice session are "Partridges" Greg Gillis, rear, Mark Gillis, Gregg Hoffman and Jeff Ray, who is also the group's manager.

Four Boys Develop 'Lip Sinc' Art

When "The Partridges" from Palatine's Virginia Lake neighborhood perform, they sound just like the Partridge Family.

This is because the boys in the band "lip sinc" records by the popular TV musical group.

Consisting of four boys, ages eight through 10 years old, "The Partridges" formed last summer when they were looking for something to do. During the winter, the boys have developed their art, pretending to be singing various "bubble gum" and Beatles rock records, practicing in one of their homes.

Now, they are thinking of becoming a real rock band.

Members of the group are Mark and Greg Gillis, 509 Providence Rd., Jeff Ray, 506 Providence Rd., and Gregg Hoffman, 540 Providence Rd. While not exactly the same as John, Paul, George and Ringo, the boy's group plays almost as many instruments, in a manner of speaking.

Greg Gillis, Ray and Gregg Hoffman pretend to play real guitars while Mark Gillis plays the drums. Ray also pretends to play real guitars while Mark Gillis plays the drums. Ray also pretends to play the organ while Gregg Hoffman plays the tambourine.

And occasionally, somebody plays a bugle.

While the name of the boy's group is "The Partridges," Mark Gillis denies that the band was actually named after the Partridge Family.

"We all helped think up this name," he said.

Ray also serves as "The Partridges" manager. He said his job is going "all right" and consists of "keeping the group together and doing all the right things."

Ray said he also composed a song which the group sings "Whenever We Feel Like It."

Mrs. Carol Gillis, the mother of two of "The Partridges," said the boys have basically performed together since November. She expressed amazement that the group has lasted as long as it has.

"Usually, boys move from fad to fad," she said. "However, the band has lasted longer than anything else the boys have ever initiated."

While "The Partridges" are not skilled musicians yet, the boys hope to eventually become a real band. They have already presented five shows.

Mrs. Gillis reports that a recent show presented by "The Partridges" had an admission price of two cents per child, but only one child attended it. This was because the other child asked to attend the show had to eat lunch at the time, she said.

Currently, the group is talking about getting costumes to perform in, but in the meantime, they wear leopard-spotted vests.

Right now, according to Mrs. Gillis, the band is just "good clean fun" for the boys on winter days.

The sheet points out that a resident in the unincorporated area that now has a real estate bill of $826 will pay a municipal tax of $78.18 plus a vehicle sticker fee of $10 per car after annexation. However, he will save $96.27 because he will no longer have to pay a separate real estate tax for fire protection nor a separate garbage service fee. These charges are included in the municipal tax.

"Further savings," according to the fact sheet, include a reduction in the residents' insurance costs and federal income taxes. Fire insurance costs will be lowered because the village fire department has a better insurance rating. The federal income tax will be reduced because the municipal tax is deductible.

"THE 'NEW TOWN' residents began the move toward annexation after a study was made by the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations, which represents the six associations and the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Wolf Mandel Association. The latter two groups are included in the proposed city boundaries.

The study was made to determine what form of government was best suited for the unincorporated area. At a PHIA meeting "old town" residents voted to take steps toward incorporation. But in preliminary balloting, residents in the six "new town" associations voted for annexation to Mount Prospect. Wolf-Mandel took no poll.

For introduction into the garden in the Wards garden catalog.

Apple scab, a problem for a local resident, is one of the most destructive and universal diseases of apples. It is caused by a fungus and can destroy a whole apple crop under certain conditions.

Early in the spring spores are produced in the leaves lying on the ground, which discharge into the air, infecting twigs, buds, and later blossoms, leaves and young fruit. A valuable control method is to remove the fallen leaves from the ground or to plow them under. If the twigs show scale, they should be removed when the trees are pruned before the sap starts running in spring (or late winter is better).

APPLE TREE growers may want to stick with varieties that are resistant to scab. Very resistant are Grimes Golden, Ingram and York Imperial. Moderately resistant are Baldwin, Golden Delicious, Jonathan, Maiden Blush, Mann, Oldenburg, Ortley, Red Astrachan, Wagener, and Yellow Transparent. Give the tree a good pruning job to allow good circulation of air and add organic fertilizer.

Thanks to Mary B. Good, PEP vice president, for helping residents who are concerned with aphids and apple scab.

The WSCS of Palatine's First Methodist Church is helping to prevent pollution by collecting disposable clear, amber, or green bottles. Bottles must have all the metal removed and be sorted as to color. Last month they collected 890 pounds of bottles that would otherwise be littering the community. Mrs. Barbara Samore, Mrs. Jean Martin, and Mrs. Helen Gibson hauled the bottles in three station wagons to Ball Glass Co. in Mundelein and received $8.90. Anyone interested in arranging a similar ecology project can contact Mrs. Barbara Samore, 358-3567, for information.

Pat Ahern

I'm no garden authority, so it was natural to turn to the Pollution and Environmental Problems Group (PEP) for the following non-chemical means to control aphids, a small insect, and scab, a plant disease, in contrast to the chemical control measures suggested by the Morton Arboretum

Soil rich in humus proves its value in the control of aphids (commonly called plant lice). These tiny creatures detest plants grown in an organically fed soil. Enrich your soil with a feeding of Milorganite, bone meal, blood meal, fish emulsion, or do-it-yourself-compost humus, well-rotted, sifted and worked into the soil around the plant.

To assist residents in buying Milorganite, the Jaycees will take fertilizer orders from April 2-13 and make delivery on April 17. A 50 lb. bag sells for $3.50. At the same time orders will also be taken for 25 lb. box of non-phosphate soap for $6.00. Call 358-7068 after April 2 to place orders. Proceeds are used for community projects.

MRS. MARY B. GOOD, vice president of PEP, suggests spraying trees in late winter with a dormant oil solution so that the eggs will be killed. Or you can inter-plant with onions, or nasturtiums. Both are natural "bug chasers," around the fruit trees. Try ripping out weeds and suckers at the base of trees where aphids harbor. Aphids can also be washed off plants with a stream of water from an ordinary sprayer. When gardeners allow plants to become thirsty, they encourage the multiplication of aphids. Be sure to treat any aphid-ridden plants as if they were nutritionally deficient — water and organic fertilizer will cause the aphids to disappear. High on the list of natural controllers is the ladybug who eats many times her weight in aphids.

They are available by the pint or quart

6 Groups Participate

Homeowner Units Start Annex Petition Campaign

Residents in six homeowner associations in portions of Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect have begun a door-to-door petition campaign as part of their efforts to be annexed to the Village of Mount Prospect.

All weekend homeowner association block captains asked their neighbors to sign a petition requesting the Cook County Circuit Court to set a date for a referendum on the annexation proposal in their area. The block captains will continue their campaign until they have visited every home in their assigned areas.

Leaders of the annexation movement estimate there are 8,638 people living in the approximately 2,450 homes in the six associations. These are the Castle Heights, Rainbow Ridge, Woodview, Euclid Lake, Parkway and River Trails associations.

The petitions must have the signatures of the majority of the landowners and of the electors to meet state statutes. According to Marie Caylor, a leader of the group, "We hope to have more than the required number of signatures by April 1."

A PROSPECT HEIGHTS atty. Patrick Link, will file the petition. The court will then set a hearing date, which must be between 20 and 30 days after the filing date.

The area proposed for annexation, is boot shaped, stretching from Old Willow Road on the north, to Foundry Road on the south, and from River Road on the east, to Westgate Lane on the west. The area borders the village along Westgate Lane and along a jagged line that includes the Dist. 26 Fehelmanville and River Trails Junior High schools, west of Wolf Road.

The area is also contiguous to the boundaries of the proposed City of Prospect Heights along Mandel Lane, and portions of Indigo Court and Wolf Road. The city includes the "old town" area of Prospect Heights, west of Wolf Road, and portions of unincorporated Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

The six "new town" associations will not be annexed to Mount Prospect unless the referendum in the unincorporated area passes and the village board approves the request. According to Mayor Robert Teichert, the village will make a study of the area to determine the economic feasibility of the annexation.

EARLIER TEICHERT said, "Single-family homes usually don't pay their own way. The question is how close are the costs to the revenue." He has also said this is an appropriate time for the village to annex a residential area because of recent annexations of industrial land south of Golf Road: "The two areas would create a balance in the village."

If the area is annexed the population of the village will rise to more than 43,500.

The new village residents' taxes will rise only $2, on the average, after annexation, according to a fact sheet now being distributed by the petitioners. The sheet was prepared by the group leading

Commuter Station To Be Built At Arlington Park

A new commuter station with 800 parking spaces will be built at the Arlington Park race track, without the use of federal money, Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights mayor said Friday.

Three parties, the Chicago and North Western Rwy., the track and the village are currently working on the terms of cost-sharing for the new facility, he added.

Walsh stressed village participation would not cause any additional taxation to local residents.

The decision to use local and private money in the initial development is aimed to quickly alleviate pressures on Arlington Heights downtown station, Walsh said.

"Most federal programs require regional plans which we don't have. It can take years before federal money becomes available. There are all sorts of complications," he added.

THE POSSIBILITY is not being eliminated of applying for federal funds in the future to expand the new station into a commuter center, Walsh said.

The total commuter center concept in other areas has been associated with multiple level parking, bus, taxi, and helicopter facilities adjoining the rail station.

Development of a commuter center could create a facility available to areas such as Schaumburg, Long Grove and Buffalo Grove because of easy access to the track area via Routes 53 and 14, Walsh said.

Plans for the new station should be available from C & NW engineers in a few days, he added.

Construction of the new station and parking facility will begin once it is determined what share of the cost each of three parties involved is willing to accept, Walsh said.

Metivier To Tell His Income Facts

Donald N. Metivier, independent candidate for Palatine Village Trustee, announced last week he would make available "to all those wanting to know" his annual income and other pertinent financial information.

He also promised after the April 20th village election a complete list of persons contributing to his campaign would be available.

Metivier, speaking before the Willow Wood Homeowners' Association at the Palatine Savings and Loan, offered to make the information available to anyone sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to his home.

"For too long we citizens have been kept in the dark with regard to the financial dealings of our political servants," Metivier said. "My candidacy is an honest attempt to bring a new kind of responsive government to the village. If this goal can be achieved only at the cost of my personal privacy, it is a cost that I will gladly bear."

Apartment Occupancy Set

The first apartments in the $20 million Countryside Apartment Complex just west of Palatine will be ready for occupancy this fall, says L. F. Draper, Palatine developer.

Located on unincorporated 110-acre site due north of the U.S. 14 and Baldwin Road intersection, Draper said the development will contain 1,040 units in 26, two-story buildings.

Draper and co-developer L. J. Sheridan and Co. of Chicago are also planning a 14-acre shopping center as part of the project. A spokesman for Draper's Palatine office said no details are available on the shopping center, however.

Draper said the grounds will be heavily landscaped. Only 19 per cent of the land stretching north to Deer Grove Forest preserve will be covered by apartment buildings.

IT IS ALSO estimated that the development will contain a density of about 12 units per acre which is 66 per cent of the allowable density under Cook County zoning regulations.

Although the first 240 units will be ready for occupancy this fall, Draper said previously that the entire project will not be completed for about four years.

In order to service the dwellings with water and sewer facilities, Draper has worked out several arrangements with the village, including a pre-annexation agreement.

In June of 1969, Draper and the village board signed a pre-annexation agreement. It states that Draper will annex his property to Palatine once the village boundary lines are contiguous with his property lines now about one mile apart.

Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun said that such agreements are valid by law for five years, but at the end of four years, Draper has agreed to initiate annexation proceedings on his own if the two boundaries are not contiguous.

BRAUN ALSO said the village has agreed to run water and sewer lines from the area of the Smith Street water tank to Draper's development via Colfax Street and Baldwin Road. The village is installing the facilities, but Draper is paying for them.

Asked why the village agreed to extend village utilities to Draper's land and not to the controversial highrises planned for an unincorporated 66-acre site at Baldwin and Hicks by Sellergren, Inc. developers, Braun gave two reasons.

He said the board hoped further annexations along Northwest Highway might be spurred by the westward extension of village water and sewer facilities.

Another reason for agreeing to extend village facilities to Draper's land is that the Countryside YMCA will soon be building their facility on a 10-acre portion of Draper's land which he donated to the "Y" last April.

Carnival Atmosphere

Harper College Career Day Set

Trampoline stunts, a tooth booth and an electronic tic-tac-toe game will provide a carnival atmosphere for the Harper College Career Day Tuesday, March 23, at the college.

Businessmen and housewives as well as high school and college students are invited to visit the day-long Career Carousol where the college's 29 career programs will be explained.

Area high schools have been invited to bring students to the program between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Evening hours for students and residents who cannot come during the day are 7 to 10 p.m.

The trampoline stunts will be demonstrated by the physical education department. A booth built like a tooth will be the information center for the dental hygiene program; and the electronic tic-tac-toe will be located at the electronics career booth.

IN ADDITION, the law enforcement department will have a police squad car, motorcycle, and a state police van on display. A cardboard computer built by students in the data processing program will tell fortunes.

All 29 career programs will have information booths open where visitors can discuss the programs with students and faculty advisers.

Programs available at Harper include accounting, architectural technology, baking, business and industrial security, chemical technology, child services, clerical or administrative assistant, cooking, data processing, data processing clerical, dental hygiene, electronics, technology, fashion design and fire science.

Other career programs are food service management, journalism, law enforcement, legal secretary, marketing management, mechanical engineering technology, mechanical drafting, numerical control technology, nursing, secretarial science, supermarket management, supervisory and administrative management.

Two new career programs are interior design and real estate.

The Career Carousol is being organized by Robert Cormack, dean of career programs, and the Harper Career Coordinators' Council.

Adults who have an interest in continuing their education in a specialized field are being encouraged to attend the Career Carousol, according to Cormack. A national need for skilled technicians is prompting development of career programs at the community college level.

Harper College offers a two-year associate degree in most of the 29 career programs. A few programs offer a one-year certificate.

"High schools outside the Harper district (areas served by High School Dist. 211, 214 and 224) have expressed interest in our programs as well as those within the district," Cormack said. Currently, Harper is participating in a cooperative program with high schools in health occupations careers besides enrichment and regular courses for adults.

Harper is located at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine.

Three School Programs On Board Agenda

Three school programs — the action program and modular scheduling at Wheeling High School, and the self-contained classroom at Prospect High School — are on the agenda for discussion by the High School Dist. 214 School Board tonight.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Building, 799 W. Kensington Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Two substitute teachers, Mrs. Ronald Ludders, 34 University, Buffalo Grove, and Mrs. Donald Meisner, 1827 Rolling Ln., Arlington Heights, will speak to the board about substitute teacher salaries.

Substitutes presently receive $25 per day for the first 10 days they substitute in a school year and $30 per day after that. The substitute teachers are asking for an increase in the daily amount, which they say has not been changed for three years.

The board will also take final action to award the 1971-74 bus contract for the northern part of the district to Cook County Bus Co. Circuit Court Judge Edward Egan, in a declaratory judgment requested by the school board, named Cook County as the low bidder over Davidsmeyer Bus Service.

Approval of $106,000 for purchase of movable furniture for Rolling Meadows High School will also be considered.

16 Of City's 20 Policemen Vote To Join Association

A majority of Rolling Meadows patrolmen have joined the Cook County Police Association (CCPA), a collective bargaining agency.

According to Patrolman Bruce Murphy, president of the city chapter of CCPA, 16 of the city's 20 patrolmen voted to join the association, which will represent the patrolmen on economic and job conditions. Murphy made no comment on advantages of joining the CCPA.

The patrolmen and the CCPA have been negotiating "for several weeks and the executive board voted to accept the officers as members a few days ago," said CCPA President John Flood Friday. "We will ask Rolling Meadows city council for the right to represent on economic and job conditions," Flood said.

Sergeants, lieutenants and captains, which Flood called management personnel, are not usually represented by the CCPA, but he said the patrolmen could vote to accept them into the association.

FLOOD SAID Rolling Meadows city council is not required to accept the CCPA as the policemen's bargaining agent. "We have notified the mayor that we are members," said Murphy and said the patrolmen were awaiting a reply.

Murphy said the four patrolmen who are not members of the CCPA "didn't want to join." The Rolling Meadows police department now has 20 patrolmen, three sergeants, a captain and chief.

The city council is expected to create several positions of corporal at Tuesday's council meeting. Four patrolmen will be elevated from the patrolman ranks to the corporal positions.

The CCPA now represents patrolmen from Palatine, Des Plaines, Barrington and Wheeling, according to Flood.

After several months of talk, the Palatine Village Board voted last December to recognize the CCPA as the sole representative for village patrolmen in collective negotiations.

The association represents the patrolmen in salary negotiations, non-discriminatory practices and other issues at the bargaining table. A framework for negotiation and communications between the CCPA and the village were also set up.

FLOOD SAID the CCPA represents 1,000 policemen in over 18 municipalities.

Mayor Roland Meyer said he had no comment on the situation at this time and as did William Ahrens, chairman of the license, police and health committee. Meyer acknowledged receipt of a letter from the association asking for a meeting. Meyer also said he had met with the patrolmen a week ago but not concerning the CCPA situation.

Police Chief Lewis Case is on vacation and could not be reached for comment.

Sled Hill To Take Fall In Spring

The north side of Rolling Meadows will be less one sled hill come spring.

After months of debate between Rolling Meadows Park District officials and angry homeowners, the park board voted Thursday to remove the ungraded sled hill in Kimball Hill Park as soon as weather permits.

Over 20 homeowners along Cardinal Drive whose property lies near or adjacent to the almost 30-foot high sled hill appeared before the board Thursday to protest the hill's location. They objected to the hazardous playing conditions and vandalism brought on by the hill, its unsightliness and possible drainage problems.

Board hill action was deferred from the February meeting until last Thursday to give each of the five park commissioners time to inspect the hill and determine what could be done to meet the needs of the whole community.

Board Pres. William Billings suggested four alternatives for action: Keep the hill in its present location, reduce the size of the hill, remove the hill to another location, or eliminate the hill entirely from all park district land.

"The Kimball Hill Park location was chosen for the site of the hill as a result of an attitude and interest survey of the community," Billings told the homeowners. "Since it was put there as a directive of the community, maybe it would be best to have all people on the north side who are affected by the hill contact us before we reach a decision."

Billings proposed the board mail postcards to the 2,000 north side residents asking for their opinion on the hill. He said the board could then reach a decision more representative of the majority of residents based on the postcard response.

However, homeowners at the meeting objected to Billings' suggestion, saying such a postcard survey would only delay a decision that had already been delayed since October.

"I have had broken windows, clouds of dirt thrown at my house, and kids walking and running through my yard because of that hill," Carl Berglund, 2604 Cardinal Dr., told the board. "Something should be done about this now."

"We've been stalled since October on this hill," Robert Suerth, 2602 Cardinal Dr., said. "You can delay this another few weeks if you like, but we're not going to go away."

After more than one hour of discussion, board member Ray Neuckranz introduced a motion "to remove the sled hill in Kimball Park as it presently appears." He did not specify in his motion what was to be done with the dirt or where the hill was to be removed to.

Neuckranz and commissioner Ronald Reese voted to remove the hill. Board member Edward Peszek voted against the motion, saying he felt the hill should remain but be reduced in size so a sled hill facility would remain available to residents north of Kurchoff Road.

After delaying his decision for almost one minute, Billings also voted to remove the hill. The final board decision was met with a round of applause from the audience of homeowners.

Park district director Dean Hallerud warned homeowners that nothing could be done to the sled hill for at least 30 days until the weather becomes warmer. Crews from the Bongli Construction Co. will remove the dirt in accordance with an agreement made with the park district last year.

Dirt for both the Kimball Hill and Salk Park sled hills was provided free to the park district from Bongli as spillage from the Salt Creek Improvement Project work Bongli did in Rolling Meadows over the summer. Bongli also agreed to grade the two hills and haul away any excess dirt for the park district.

Presentation Of DSA Set Tuesday

The Rolling Meadows Jaycees 1970 Distinguished Service Award will be presented at Tuesday's city council meeting.

The award will be presented to one of six candidates cited as outstanding civic leaders. The six candidates are George Gross, Frederick Jacobson, Roland Meyer, Raymond Petterson, Carmen Vinezano and Merrill Wuerch.

A panel of civic leaders will make the final selection. Jaycee Pres. James Gould said emphasis will be placed on achievements, leadership, and service to the community during the calendar year 1970.

RISE NEAR the Tri-State Tollway building for the St. John the Baptist in Des Plaines is the $500,000 church Greek Orthodox Church.

Health Board May Ask For Funds Hike

The Rolling Meadows Mental Health Board may ask the city council for an increase in funds for the next fiscal year.

"We are going to see if we can raise it," said Nicholas Schmitt, member of the board. The city council levied about $3,000 last year for mental health services.

The money was distributed between the Clearbrook Center and the Northwest Mental Health Center where city officials said about 90 per cent of the Rolling Meadows mental health patients received treatment in 1969.

Schmitt said the February mental health referendum, which was defeated by a three to one vote, was a needed piece of legislation but the referendum was conducted improperly. "There was no reason they had to try to sneak in the back door," Schmitt said. "They seemed afraid of the product they were going to sell, and it was defeated."

He said mayors and presidents of area municipalities should sit down and see what kind of service their residents are getting and "then if it takes a year to decide what to do, then it takes a year." He suggested a combined effort among municipalities and the business community to sponsor improved mental health services.

Special Meeting Set Tonight By 4-H'ers

Parents, and their children who attend elementary schools in Rolling Meadows, are invited to attend a special meeting of the North Cook County 4-H Club tonight at 7:30 in the Salk School cafeteria.

The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint parents with 4-H Club programs and discuss the founding of a new 4-H Clubs in Rolling Meadows.

Representatives from the 4-H organization will present at the meeting to answer any questions parents may have about the clubs. A film, "Happiness is 4-H" starring Charlie Brown, will also be presented at the meeting.

Crane To Discuss Obscene Movies

Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, will with a group of Palatine women soon to discuss what can be done about outdoor theaters showing allegedly obscene movies.

Mrs. Nancy Haines, a spokesman for the women, said the meeting may take place sometime next week.

Until then her group will continue to solicit signatures for its petition opposing allegedly obscene movies at the 53 Outdoor Theater, at Rte. 12 and Hicks Road. Mrs. Haines wrote a letter to Rep. Crane several weeks ago. Recently, Crane answered her letter and agreed to meet with the women.

She said Crane told her the only way

the women can prevent the movies they oppose from being shown at drive-in theaters is to get mass support behind their movement. He recommended that they get as many signatures as possible on their petition before the meeting.

He did not set a definite date on which to meet with the women.

This week, Mrs. Haines and the women will be circulating their petition throughout Palatine and the surrounding area to get extra signatures. To date, the women have obtained 2,000 signatures.

Women in the campaign oppose the movies being shown at the 53 Outdoor because the theater's screen may be viewed from nearby roads. Minors who could not be admitted to the theater to see the films, many X-rated, could view the movies anyway from cars parked on these roads.

Rep. Philip Crane

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader called on Congress Sunday to examine what he called the Treasury Department's "unlawful" proposal to give businessmen a tax break in order to boost the economy.

In a letter to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Nader said the proposal came about because "powerful private interests have undertaken a raid on the U.S. Treasury" that would cost the government $3 billion in revenue a year.

Earth Day — designated to call attention to the state of the world's environment — was observed Sunday in New York and San Francisco. Plans for Earth Day demonstrations in other cities fized.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged President Nixon Sunday to impose partial wage and price controls to "rescue" the economy.

"This is a rescue situation," the Republican senior senator said. "This is a situation in which for a number of years we ran enormous deficits, sweeping the Vietnam War under the rug on the theory that, as President Lyndon B. Johnson put it, we could have guns and butter. Well, you can't."

More than 500 Jews were arrested in downtown Washington Sunday when they staged a massive sit-in near the Soviet Embassy as a protest to the treatment of Russian Jews.

The World

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Sunday the long-awaited federation of Egypt, Syria, Libya and possibly Sudan will be announced next Sunday, barring unexpected developments.

The paper said the merger would probably take the form of a federation or, if certain "obstacles were not surmounted," the form of a confederation.

In either case, the newspaper said, the four countries will unify their foreign, defense, financial and information policies. Each will keep its own political organizations and domestic arrangements, however.

French voters elected 76,000 local government officials in the second-round balloting Sunday in national elections.

Authorities reported a light turnout among the 30 million registered voters, interest being confined to areas where Communists and left-wing candidates polled their efforts to defeat Gaullist candidates.

The Weather

The first day of spring Sunday brought fair weather to most of the nation today.

The southwest warmed rapidly under clear skies after a night of record cold. Warm southerly winds up the Mississippi Valley lifted the temperatures into the 50s through the southern parts of the Middle West.

Precipitation wise, a few snow flurries linger from Pennsylvania to Northern New England. A low pressure system near Lake Michigan spread light snow through parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Temperatures from around the nation:

The Countryside YMCA announces a new "first," a Men's Golf League which will play at Thunderbird Country Club Golf Course, 1010 E. Northwest Hwy., Barrington, on Monday evenings from 5:30 until dark, starting in late April.

Jim Tully, club pro, will help the YMCA set up the league rules for the 1971 season at a formation meeting on Monday evening, March 22, in the Thunderbird Golf Course Clubhouse from 7-9 p.m. Anyone interested in this league should attend this meeting.

BRING LOTS of pennies to the Card Party sponsored by the Jonas Salk PTA on Tuesday, March 23, at 8 p.m. The pennies are for the White Elephant sale, which will be conducted during the card party.

Table prizes will be donated by all colors and in bloom. Generations of local florists.

Refreshments will be served and donations are only $1.

During the business meeting, there will be the election of officers. A speaker from the Volunteer Service Bureau will explain the volunteer program in the school and community.

FOREST VIEW High School has just elected its all-school officers for the 1971-72 school year. They are Jay Hedges, president; James Conley, vice president; Vicki Firsi, secretary; and Paula Meleone, treasurer.

Jay and Paula are Mount Prospect residents and James and Vicki are from Rolling Meadows.

According to James Conley, there should only be a few total changes because there are so many good things being worked on, such as Saturday night movies and activity day. He said the means to achieve progress is through definite action. He wants rapid work on his ideas like busing to home athletic meets, improving the smoking area, and movies for entertainment.

"I also want to get the athletes and long-hairs to talk to each other," said James. This year, for instance, a lot of emphasis was placed on non-athletic things and taking away from the achievements of the athletes. What he wants is due credit given to everyone equally.

Vicki Firsi, newly elected secretary, has been a junior representative on the assembly all year and values the experience she has gained. She feels that a strong and dedicated assembly will be especially vital next year in preparation for the National Student Council Convention to be held at Forest View in the summer of 1972.

As she stated in her campaign speech, Vicki believes that in a school the size of Forest View, students have to work even harder to fight apathy and negativism.

Rolling Meadows can well be proud of these two fine young people who will have a strong voice in the school government at Forest View next year.

BE SURE to mark March 23, at 8 p.m. The Rolling Meadows Jaycees will be presenting the Distinguished Service Award to the 1970 winner!

A CAREER Carousol sponsored by career program counselors for high school students and adults to learn about achieving certificates or degrees in 29 career-vocational fields will be held at the Harper College Center Lounge March 23, from 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. There will be a carnival setting and refreshments will be served without charge.

SINCE LAST summer, "The Partridges" have been pretending to sing their favorite songs and have become quite proficient as a "lip sinc" band. Engaging in a practice session are "Partridges" Greg Gillis, rear, Mark Gillis, Gregg Hoffman and Jeff Ray, who is also the group's manager.

Four Boys Develop 'Lip Sinc' Art

by JIM HODL

When "The Partridges" from Palatine's Virginia Lake neighborhood perform, they sound just like the Partridge Family.

This is because the boys in the band "lip sinc" records by the popular TV musical group.

Consisting of four boys, ages eight through 10 years old, "The Partridges" formed last summer when they were looking for something to do. During the winter, the boys have developed their art, pretending to be singing various "bubble gum" and Beatles rock records, practicing in one of their homes.

Now, they are thinking of becoming a real rock band.

Members of the group are Mark and Greg Gillis, 509 Providence Rd., Jeff Ray, 506 Providence Rd., and Gregg Hoffman, 540 Providence Rd. While not exactly the same as John, Paul, George and Ringo, the boys' group plays almost as many instruments, in a manner of speaking.

Greg Gillis, Ray and Gregg Hoffman pretend to play real guitars while Mark Gillis plays the drums. Ray also pretends to play real guitars while Mark Gillis plays the drums. Ray also pretends to play the organ while Gregg Hoffman plays the tambourine.

And occasionally, somebody plays a bugle.

While the name of the boy's group is "The Partridges," Mark Gillis denies that the band was actually named after the Partridge Family.

"We all helped think up this name," he said.

Ray also serves as "The Partridges" manager. He said his job is going "all right" and consists of "keeping the group together and doing all the right things."

Ray said he also composed a song which the group sings "Whenever We Feel Like It."

Mrs. Carol Gillis, the mother of two of "The Partridges," said the boys have basically performed together since November. She expressed amazement that the group has lasted as long as it has.

"Usually, boys move from dad to dad," she said. "However, the band has lasted longer than anything else the boys have ever initiated."

While "The Partridges" are not skilled musicians yet, the boys hope to eventually become a real band. They have already presented five shows.

Mrs. Gillis reports that a recent show presented by "The Partridges" had an admission price of two cents per child, but only one child attended. This was because the other child asked to attend the show had to eat lunch at the time, she said.

Currently, the group is talking about getting costumes to perform in, but in the meantime, they wear leopard-spotted vests.

Right now, according to Mrs. Gillis, the band is just "good clean fun" for the boys on winter days.

Cook County Unit Grants Approval Of Youth Services

Approval of the proposed youth services program for Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights was granted at a hearing Friday before the Cook County Commission on Criminal Justice.

This means that the commission will recommend to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission that it provide a one-year grant of $118,702 to help set up the program in the three communities. An additional $40,000 is anticipated from local grants.

Included in the proposal are the establishment of a youth services center, counseling and treatment for troubled youth, special training programs for policemen and parents on drug abuse and delinquency and various other youth-related programs.

The proposal was submitted to the commission jointly by the Wheeling Youth Commission, TORCH Mental Health Clinic and HELP, Inc.

RICHARD WYNN, director of the TORCH Mental Health Clinic, and Richard Stanowski, HELP president, attended the hearing Friday to explain the proposal to the commission. Also speaking in favor of the proposal Friday was Emerson Thomas, executive director of the Palatine Township Youth Committee.

Both Wynn and Stanowski said they were pleased with the favorable recommendation.

"We've passed the first step," Wynn said. He said that the proposal will be examined by the ILEC before a final decision is made on whether to award the grant.

No date has been set on the ILEC may for the ILEC.

discuss the proposal at their next regular meeting in April.

Before the county commission approved the proposal, its members quizzed Wynn and Stanowski on various aspects of the project.

OF PARTICULAR interest to the commission was the question of how the youth services program would be financed in the second year of operation.

"We feel that if we can demonstrate the efficiency of our approach, the community will provide adequate financing to maintain the service," Wynn said.

He noted that most projects started in the area in 1967 with funds from Title III of the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act are now supported by local money.

"We have no sure guarantee that the community would pick up the cost or that the project will achieve the effect we think it will, preventing delinquency. But if no attempt is made, the problems will only get larger," Wynn said.

Commission members also asked whether the program would duplicate or overlap the programs provided by the Youth Services Bureau in Palatine.

THOMAS TOLD the commission that the program would not do this.

"There are many specialized services for counseling and treatment of youth that are not provided by our bureau. Their youth services program is a much more comprehensive program," Thomas said.

Thomas said that the Palatine bureau would cooperate with the Wheeling-area program if it is established, and could refer young people to the Wheeling center for diagnostic treatment not available in the Palatine program.

Six Vie For 4 Board Posts

Filing for candidacy in the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 election ended Friday with six residents seeking four positions on the school board.

Two incumbents, J. Leslie Ehringer and Howard Meadors, are seeking reelection to full three-year terms on the school board. A third incumbent, Leland "Bud" Gibbs, is the only candidate for the two-year unexpired term to which he was appointed by the current school board last year.

Newcomers seeking election to the full terms are Everett L. Charlier, 26 S. Greenwood, Palatine; Richard H. Morin, 1720 Ela Rd., Palatine; and Henry L. Hefty, 1116 E. Pratt Dr., Palatine.

Board member Mrs. Patricia Oakley, whose term will be over next month, chose not to seek reelection to the board in order to devote more time to a teaching career. She expects to receive a bachelor's degree in education in June and would like to teach high school mathematics in the area.

Meadors, 437 N. Inverway, Palatine, will be seeking his sixth term to the Dist. 15 board in the April 10 election. Currently secretary of the board, Meadors is a partner of Edwin Shield Hewitt and Associates of Libertyville, a firm of actuaries and consultants on employee benefits programs.

Ehringer, 2 Stuart-On-Oxford, Rolling Meadows, is seeking his third term to the board. He has been a Dist. 15 board member since 1964 when he was appointed to fill a vacancy. A Winston Park resident for many years, Ehringer is a manager of interline sales for United Air Lines.

Gibbs, 4248 Wilson Ave., Rolling Meadows, was first elected to the board in 1967. He was defeated in his bid for reelection in 1970 but was appointed to fill a vacancy later that year. Gibbs works as a sales manager for H. S. Crocker Co.

Currently serving his 13th year with Arlington Heights Dist. 25, Charlier is making his first bid for a school board position. He works as director of programming of closed circuit television instruction at South Junior High School.

Morin, another newcomer, has regularly attended Dist. 15 board meetings for several years. He has been involved on the boards of several PTA groups in the area as well as the Blue Island PTA before moving to Palatine. He is employed by the Cook County Division of Forest Preserves.

Hefty, a training director for Sara-Lee, has been active in education for several years through his training position and as an instructor of adult evening courses in business management at Lyons Township High School. He and his wife have two children in Dist. 15 schools.

All six candidates, as well as candidates to Districts 211, 214 and Harper Junior College, will participate in a Candidates Night at 8 p.m. March 29 at Plum Grove School. Election issues and candidates views on them will be discussed.

Homeowner Units Start Annex Petition Campaign

Residents in six homeowner associations in portions of Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect have begun a door-to-door petition campaign as part of their efforts to be annexed to the Village of Mount Prospect.

All weekend homeowner association block captains asked their neighbors to sign a petition requesting the Cook County Circuit Court to set a date for a referendum on the annexation proposal in their area. The block captains will continue their campaign until they have visited every home in their assigned areas.

Leaders of the annexation movement estimate there are 8,638 people living in the approximately 2,450 homes in the six associations. These are the Castle Heights, Rainbow Ridge, Woodview, Euclid Lake, Parkview and River Trails associations.

The petitions must have the signatures of the majority of the landowners and of the electors to meet state statutes. According to Marie Caylor, a leader of the group, "We hope to have more than the required number of signatures by April 1."

A PROSPECT HEIGHTS atty. Patrick Lunk, will file the petition. The court will then set a hearing date, which must be between 20 and 30 days after the filing date.

The area proposed for annexation, is boot shaped, stretching from Old Willow Road on the north, to Foundry Road on the south, and from River Road on the east, to Westgate Lane on the west. The area borders the village along Westgate Lane and along a jagged line that includes the Dist. 26 Feehanville and River Trails Junior High schools, west of Wolf Road.

The area is also contiguous to the boundaries of the proposed City of Prospect Heights along Mandel Lane, and portions of Indigo Court and Wolf Road. The city includes the "old town" area of Prospect Heights, west of Wolf Road, and portions of unincorporated Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

The six "new town" associations will not be annexed to Mount Prospect unless the referendum in the unincorporated area passes and the village board approves the request. According to Mayor Robert Teichert, the village will make a study of the area to determine the economic feasibility of the annexation.

EARLIER TEICHERT said, "Single-family homes usually don't pay their own way. The question is how close are the costs to the revenue." He has also said this is an appropriate time for the village to annex a residential area because of recent annexations of industrial land south of Golf Road: "The two areas would create a balance in the village."

If the area is annexed the population of the village will rise to more than 43,500.

The new village residents' taxes will rise only $2, on the average, after annexation, according to a fact sheet now being distributed by the petitioners. The sheet was prepared by the group leading the annexation movement.

The sheet points out that a resident in the unincorporated area that has a real estate bill of $326 will pay a municipal tax of $78.18 plus a vehicle sticker fee of $10 per car after annexation. However, he will save $96.27 because he will no longer have to pay a separate real estate tax for fire protection nor a separate garbage service fee. These charges are included in the municipal tax.

"Further savings," according to the fact sheet, include a reduction in the residents' insurance costs and federal income taxes. Fire insurance costs will be lowered because the village fire department has a better insurance rating. The federal income tax will be reduced because the municipal tax is deductible.

"THE 'NEW TOWN' residents began the move toward annexation after a study was made by the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations, which represents the six associations and the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Wolf Mandel Association. The latter two groups are included in the proposed city boundaries.

The study was made to determine what form of government was best suited for the unincorporated area. At a PHIA meeting "old town" residents voted to take steps toward incorporation. But in preliminary balloting, residents in the six "new town" associations voted for annexation to Mount Prospect. Wolf Mandel took no poll.

Ross-Sullivan PTA Meets Tomorrow

Parent-child relations will be discussed at the Tuesday meeting tomorrow of the Ross-Sullivan PTA.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Anne Sullivan School gym, located at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Prospect Heights.

Mrs. Warren Potter, a member of the advisory board of the Illinois Association for maternal and child health, will be the guest speaker at the meeting.

PORTIONS OF Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect. Petitions requesting annexation are Mount Prospect may be annexed to the Village of now being circulated in the area.

Candidates' Forum Begins

Beginning today, the Herald will be the forum for a debate among the five candidates seeking election to the Mount Prospect Village Board April 20.

The candidates have answered 10 questions sent to them by the Herald. Their responses will appear in daily issues of the paper today through April 2.

The five candidates for village trustee are George Anderson, Richard Hendricks, Richard Monroe, Lloyd Norris and Kenneth Scholten. Norris, an incumbent board member, and Hendricks are seeking election as independent candidates. Anderson, Monroe and Scholten are running under the banner of the United Village Party. Three of the five candidates will be elected.

First question: What specific issues, advantages as well as disadvantages, must be considered by the village board in the annexation of "new town" Prospect Heights? ("New town" is the eastern and southern part of the community.)

ANDERSON
In responding to this question, one must recognize that our community was founded and developed upon annexation after annexation. As to this specific consideration, I believe this annexation could be a real benefit to the community as a whole for these reasons.

In addition to real estates taxes, the municipality derives revenues from motor fuel taxes, state income tax rebates and vehicle license fees.

Personally, I believe our community will either progress or regress. It cannot stand still. I further believe we have the opportunity to grow and develop a positive way. I don't feel we would be extending our necks in annexing this area.

In addition to the revenues that will be derived, this annexation will also force a "land lock" situation involving the Northern Illinois Gas Co. property, which can be developed as an excellent light industrial park, thus further broadening the tax base for the citizens of Mount Prospect.

As a professional engineer, I am mindful that there are also some risks involved. However, past experiences have shown that with proper planning, immediate and potential problems can be eliminated. In conclusion, obviously, short term considerations are important; however, one must plan for the future and the long-term betterment of those around us.

HENDRICKS
As of this date, the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) in Prospect Heights has filed a request with the circuit court to incorporate as a city the area known as "old town." They have left out the area known as "new town" Prospect Heights. Various civic associations in the "new town" area have polled their residents and the results were to request annexation to Mount Prospect. I, as a village trustee, would favor to annex this area on the north, and my door would always be open to discuss annexation with the representatives of the "new town" area.

I would approve a survey made of this area prior to annexation, but afterward the burden of whatever improvements have to be made, plus the purchase of any utility company or companies, would be with the residents being annexed. I feel it would be advantageous for Mount Prospect to annex this area so that we can control the future zoning in the "new town" area.

MONROE
Present day Mount Prospect is made up of separate neighborhoods who because of common interests annexed to the corporate village. Each homeowner has paid for his own improvements without hardship to the remaining residents.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader called on Congress Sunday to examine what he called the Treasury Department's "unlawful" proposal to give businessmen a tax break in order to boost the economy.

In a letter to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Nader said the proposal came about because "powerful private interests have undertaken a raid on the U.S. Treasury" that would cost the government $3 billion in revenue a year.

Earth Day — designated to call attention to the state of the world's environment — was observed Sunday in New York and San Francisco. Plans for Earth Day demonstrations in other cities fizzle.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged President Nixon Sunday to impose partial wage and price controls to "rescue" the economy.

"This is a rescue situation," the Republican senior senator said. "This is a situation in which for a number of years we ran enormous deficits, sweeping the Vietnam War under the rug on the theory that, as President Lyndon B. Johnson put it, we could have guns and butter. Well, you can't."

More than 500 Jews were arrested in downtown Washington Sunday when they staged a massive sit-in near the Soviet Embassy as a protest to the treatment of Russian Jews.

The World

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Sunday the long-awaited federation of Egypt, Syria, Libya and possibly Sudan will be announced next Sunday, barring unexpected developments.

The paper said the merger would probably take the form of a federation or, in certain "obstacles were not surmounted," the form of a confederation.

In either case, the newspaper said, the four countries will unify their foreign, defense, financial and information policies. Each will keep its own political organizations and domestic arrangements, however.

French voters elected 76,000 local government officials in the second-round balloting Sunday in national elections.

Authorities reported a light turnout among the 30 million registered voters, interest being confined to areas where Communists and left-wing candidates polled their efforts to defeat Gaullist candidates.

The Weather

The first day of spring Sunday brought fair weather to most of the nation today.

The southwest warmed rapidly under clear skies after a night of record cold.

Warm southerly winds up the Mississippi Valley lifted the temperatures into the 50s through the southern parts of the Middle West.

Precipitation wise, a few snow flurries linger from Pennsylvania to Northern New England. A low pressure system near Lake Michigan spread light snow through parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Temperatures from around the nation:

Seven Mount Prospect boys helped celebrate Carnival Week at the Powder Horn Ski area in Michigan's upper peninsula. They are members of Explorer Post 287, led by Marvin Metge. While there, the boys stayed in an old church which doubled as a ski lodge. They returned from their third annual ski trip without a single broken bone.

Skiers on the trip were Brad and Bruce Metge, Jeff Strey, Richard Schultz, Bob Ackmann, Mike Ritschdorff, and Scott Donahue. Also trying out his ski legs for the first time was five-year old Matt

Metge, who helped his parents chaperone the trip.

THINKING ABOUT current issues in the light of Christian theology is the aim of a Lenten study at St. John's Episcopal Church. Members of the study groups have discussed pollution of our environment. In later sessions they will apply the Christian doctrine to such other issues as population control, war and peace, and marriage and divorce.

A GROUP of Prospect Heights ladies recently held a farewell luncheon at the Hobson House in Long Grove for Mrs. Harold Sigwart, 207 N. Elmhurst, Prospect Heights. The Sigwarts were long-time residents of the community and active at the Prospect Heights Community Church. They are now living in Hardy, Ark.

ANCHORS, LIFE jackets, rope, oars, paddles, yacht pennants, compasses and charts are needed by a new Sea Scout Ship being organized in Mount Prospect. Under the leadership of Jack Dawson, the high school boys will meet two Thursday nights each month at the Community Presbyterian Church. Dawson would be happy to hear from prospective members and their fathers (to help out with ship activities) or anyone willing to donate nautical gear for training aids. His number is 255-8897.

U.S. AIR FORCE Sgt. Norman L. Kaiser, son of Doris L. Winter, 905 S. Owen, has arrived for duty at Luke Air Force Base, Ariz. Sergeant Kaiser, an aircraft mechanic, is assigned to a unit of the Tactical Air Command. Previously he served at Bien Hoa, Vietnam.

TRADITIONALLY PTAs raise money for PTA and school projects. Fairview School teachers recently turned the tables on their PTA when they held a mini-bake sale. Each teacher baked and contributed several items. So successful was the sale that potential buyers arriving a few minutes after it began found only a few crumbs left. On behalf of the teachers, Patricia Kudla has presented the PTA with a check for $90.

CHICKEN POX seems to be the "in" thing for grade schoolers to catch this month. One youngster recovering from it thoughtfully ran his fingers over his chicken bedspread. "It feels like it has chicken pox, too," he observed.

Absentee Ballots Available Today

Absentee ballots are available for residents who will be out of town for the Mount Prospect Park District park board election April 6.

Robert Jackson, president of the park district board of commissioners, will be the only person on the ballot for the one open post. Anyone wishing to challenge Jackson's bid for reelection must do so with write-in votes.

Absentee ballots can be obtained at the park district office, 600 See-Gwyn Ave., from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Mailed requests for ballots must be received at the office no later than April 1 at 5 p.m. The deadline for applying in person is April 3 at noon. All absentee ballots must be turned into the office by 5 p.m. April 3 to be counted.

The park district serves a major portion of Mount Prospect and the eighth ward in Des Plaines.

Candidates' Forum Begins

No single residential neighborhood is self-sustaining; commercial and industrial properties offset the tax load.

The so-called "new town" areas have full improvements and could become logical annexations when common interests are demonstrated. Orderly growth must assure the continuation of such public benefits as water, police and fire protection to our present residents.

NORRIS

The real estate and other tax income to the village from the "new town" area of Prospect Heights should cover the cost of additional policemen and firemen; police and fire equipment; cost of adequate water supply; cost of maintaining sewers and streets, etc., before any consideration is given annexation. There should be no annexation of areas which will increase the cost to present residents of Mount Prospect.

SCHOLTEN

The first and major disadvantages of annexation of the "new town" area is cost to the community. As we all know, annexation of any single-family residential area is a losing proposition. Their real estate taxes don't even cover the cost of the services provided. However, consideration must be given to the residents in the area adjacent to the property, due to the water problem there.

The board could not close its eyes to the needs of our citizens when reacting to the "new town" area. Another advantage to the annexation would be the landlocking of the Northern Illinois Gas Co. property. With this in the village, it could be controlled when developed and at our standards. A strong point for the area itself is the condition in which it has been developed. It meets many, if not all, of the standards of our village. Lastly, I do not want to see annexation just for the sake of becoming a large village, but must carefully weigh the advantages and disadvantages before annexing property

Vote Signup Ends Today

Today is the last day Mount Prospect residents may register to vote in the village elections April 20. Residents, who have not registered, may do so at the township clerk's office.

Residents who live north of Central Road are in Wheeling Township. Residents south of Central Road live in Elk Grove Township. Voter registration will be accepted only at the township clerk's offices, not at the village hall.

Elk Grove Township residents may register at the clerk's office in the town hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights. The clerk's office will be open today from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Mount Prospect residents who live in Wheeling Township may register to vote at township offices, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. The clerk's office will be open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. today.

Voters will go to the polls April 20 to elect three village trustees and two directors to the public library board. Village trustees will be elected to serve four-year terms and library directors to six-year terms.

FIVE CANDIDATES are seeking election to the village board. They are Richard Hendricks, of 1537 Emmerson Ln.; Richard Monroe, of 1901 Bonita Dr.; George Anderson, of 1005 Isabella St.; Kenneth Scholten, of 1720 Estates Dr.; and Lloyd Norris, of 200 S. L-Oka Ave.

Norris, an incumbent board member, and Hendricks will seek election as independent candidates. Monroe, Anderson and Scholten will run under the banner of the United Village Party.

Norris is the only one of three incumbent trustees who will seek election April 20. The terms of Robert Soderman and John Kilroy will expire May 1.

Candidates in the library board election are Mary Ellen Brady, of 1202 W. Milburn Ave.; and Robert Nordli, of 317 S. We-GO Tr.

The terms of incumbent library directors Marion Clark and Mary Berg expire this year.

Tools Stolen

Power garden tools, valued at about $300, were reportedly stolen Thursday morning from the Edward Oravec residence, 16 W. Hiawatha, Mount Prospect.

Oravec told police the tools were in his garage at the time of the theft. He told police he found the electric garage door open, but there were no signs of forcible entry.

Schools Join Local Coop

Of the three elementary school districts serving Mount Prospect, only one, School Dist. 59 of Elk Grove Township, has refused to renew its membership in the Northwest Education Cooperative for the 1971-72 school year.

High School Dist. 214, which serves Mount Prospect and all other communities in Elk Grove and Wheeling Townships, has entered the NEC organization for another year as well.

Elk Grove Dist. 59 is the only district in the 10 district cooperative which has not yet voted on NEC. Last week River Trails Dist. 26 voted unanimously to join NEC for another year. Recently Mount Prospect Dist. 57 and High School Dist. 214 also voted to join again.

The districts were asked to renew their membership by April 1 in the co-operative formed in 1969. For the 1970-71 school year it cost each district $1,000 plus 39 cents per student to belong. The 1971-72 budget has not yet been approved, but estimates are that membership has not yet been approved, but estimates are that membership will cost $1,000 plus 41 cents per student. Much depends on Dist. 59 membership because the operational costs of NEC are divided among the member districts.

Dist. 59 sent a letter to the other member districts recently saying that unless substantial changes are made in NEC, it would withdraw from the organization. Dist. 59 board members have claimed in the past they have received few benefits from its participation in NEC which cost the district $5,000 this year.

THE DIST. 59 board has recommended that the NEC executive board, composed of school board members, become a decision-making board. The board also recommended that the ideas for programs be from within the district instead of through outside sources. Currently NEC employs outside administrators to run the day-to-day organization of the cooperative.

The Dist. 26 school board took no action on the letter. However, board member Jack Halverson said that except for questioning whether the NEC was "top heavy with administrators, the letter is pure politics."

Dist. 57 board member Patricia Kimball said she considered the letter "a threat." She said, "It is unfortunate that they elected to choose that method of making their views known and I don't agree with all their fears about the NEC." She said she thought it was unfortunate that the Dist. 59 board elected to choose a letter to making their views known instead of going through the NEC governing and executive boards, composed of representatives of member districts.

The Dist. 57 board voted 5-2 to approve membership in NEC. Board member Leo Floros, voted no because "I haven't seen any benefits and I am afraid of NEC. I think it is one step removed from elected officials and it can get bigger and bigger. We can get a monster on our hands."

FLOROS SAID he would approve it if it "could show a substantial amount of good." He said he can't blame Dist. 59 for asking some of the questions it asked in the letter. "I think the many hours high priced administrative personnel spends on NEC could be better spent on their own business." District superintendents serve as ex-officio members of NEC's executive board.

Jack Ronchetto also voted against NEC membership. "I simply wanted to throw up a red flag because I think it is important to continue to re-examine the program," he said. My major fear is that it is pretty far removed from an individual board and an individual board member."

The cost of membership in NEC pays largely for operational costs. According to Dist. 57 superintendent J. C. Busenhardt, NEC membership cost the district approximately $1,350 for the 1970-71 school year. Major programs sponsored by the co-operative are voluntary and each district must pay a separate fee to participate.

Westbrook PTA President Named

Mrs. Richard Tank has been elected the new president of the Westbrook School PTA for the coming year.

She and other officers were elected at a meeting of the PTA, held last week at the school in Mount Prospect.

James Frankowski is the first vice president. Second vice president is Richard Skoog. Members elected Mrs. John Gerber secretary and Mrs. Bruce Brothers, treasurer.

Also at last week's meeting a two-act play "Open House for Shakespeare," was performed by members of the school's sixth grade reading class. The play was directed by Paula Carroll.

From The Library

by LAURE ROSSI

Today the students from Prospect High School will be having their college night at Hersey High School, along with Wheeling High School. College night at Arlington Elk Grove, and Forest View is the following night. Books, pamphlets, and catalogues at the Mount Prospect library can be a great help for the college-bound student, especially at this decision-making time of the year. Across from the fireplace in the library are about 300 college catalogues, alphabetically arranged.

At the end of the catalogues is a group of pamphlets covering the subjects of testing, federal and fellowships, foreign study, correspondence study, college costs, adult education, women's colleges, entrance exams, nursing schools, and careers. All of the career information at the library is important to help in choosing a school since many times schools are chosen for strengths in particular fields. There's a vocational section next to the Young Adult non-fiction section in the main room. Because the demand for so many jobs has radically changed even within the last four years, a thorough examination of jobs presently in demand is an important thing to make.

THE YOUNG ADULT section also has books on how to prepare for entrance exams in specialized areas. Also in this section is Einstein's 1970-71 College Entrance Guide. It comprehensively goes into the mechanics of getting into college, and includes techniques to improve reading skills. 600 colleges for students with C averages, the chances of admission to over 750 accredited colleges, and how to improve exam scores. "Barron's How to Prepare for the PSAT" is another obvious help, found in the YA section. The College Blue Book found in the reference section contains many volumes covering many aspects of colleges. "American Junior Colleges" will tell you all you need to know to narrow down your choice of a junior college. "Lovejoy's College Guide" lists 3368 American colleges and universities with pertinent information about each, arranged by state. I looked up my alma mater in this book, knowing it's always good to judge the reliability of a book when you read something in it you already know.

It gave me the distance of the school from Chicago, the environment, enrollment, mean test scores, number of volumes in the library, faculty-student ratio, cost, availability of scholarships and campus jobs, possible degrees, and summer opportunities. I felt it summed up the climate of the school as well as could be expected in the space used.

Norman F. Elliott gave this year's edition of "Patterson's American Education" to the library as a gift. The reference book classifies and makes available information on public schools and colleges, as well as superintendents and addresses.

Another way the library can be used is for perspective college students to fulfill some of the reading suggested by most colleges. These reading lists are often available in the secondary schools as well as from the colleges that suggest the titles. Much of it must be done on an outside of school basis, as it would be too much to cover it all during the average English program offered in the high school.

On display in the entrance of the library for the rest of this month is a fascinating exhibit put there by the Campfire Girls. You can see it during the 9 to 9 weekday, 9 to 5 Saturday, and 2 to 5 Sunday library hours.

Negotiations To Begin For School

Negotiators for both the Dist. 57 School Board and the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA) are optimistic that bargaining "will run smoothly" tonight.

"I think the personality problems have been ironed out of our systems and things should go smoothly from here on out," said David Metzler, MPEA negotiations chairman.

The board's negotiating team and its professional negotiator, Richard Zwieback, will meet with the MPEA team and Illinois Education Association (IEA) adviser Ted Sanders behind closed doors at 7:30 p.m. at Lincoln Junior High School. This is the first negotiations meeting Sanders will attend. He was called in to assist the MPEA, teacher bargaining team after the last negotiations meeting Feb. 22. Zwieback was hired by the board in December.

AN AGENDA FOR the meeting has finally been agreed upon. Metzler received an agenda he approved Thursday. Zwieback had approved an agenda a week ago.

The first item on the agenda provides that all additional issues that the board will want to negotiate for the 1971-72 teacher contract be presented in writing. The second item calls for questions on the MPEA proposal.

Salary increases, additional personnel and more teacher benefits are among the MPEA proposals for the teachers' contract that was formally presented at the last meeting.

Problems with setting an agenda occurred after the last negotiations meeting when an agenda for tonight's meeting was not set. The negotiations procedure agreement between the board and the MPEA says that an agenda must be agreed upon by both parties at a previous meeting before a session can be held. Metzler had received one agenda but did not approve it because it was not written the way he wanted it.

"WE WILL PRESENT a very limited list of request items that we will want to discuss quite extensively," said Leo Floros, a member of the board's negotiating team. Floros said that one of the items will be a no-strike clause.

Floros said the board may ask the MPEA team "where the money is going to come from for their salary proposals and what's the rationale behind some of their requests."

Metzler said the MPEA team would probably have a lot of questions to ask about the board's "no-strike" proposal.

Zwieback said he does not intend to get into "the money package" but that he is "optimistic we finally will get down to actual negotiations."

SANDERS HAD NO comment on the negotiations in Dist. 57. He said he will meet with the MPEA team before the meeting tonight. "I don't want to comment now so as not to impair any possibility of negotiations," Sanders said.

Members of the board's negotiation team are Floros, Peter Dudrow and Alex Caspar. Members of the MPEA team, besides Metzler, are Robert Fasick, MPEA president, Mike Jetel and Dale Heilman, president-elect. Metzler said that teacher representatives from each school in the district would also be present at the meeting. Dist. 57 serves north and central Mount Prospect.

Forum For Candidates Begins Today In The Herald

Beginning today, the Herald will be the forum for a paper debate among the five candidates seeking election to the Mount Prospect Village Board April 20.

First question: What specific issues, advantages as well as disadvantages, must be considered by the village board in the annexation of "new town" Prospect Heights? ("New town" is the eastern and southern part of the community.)

In addition to real estates taxes, the municipality derives revenues from motor fuel taxes, state income tax rebates and vehicle license fees.

As a professional engineer, I am mindful that there are also some risks involved. However, past experiences have shown that with proper planning, immediate and potential problems can be eliminated.

Prospect Heights has filed a request with the circuit court to incorporate as a city the area known as "old town." They have left out the area known as "new town" Prospect Heights.

Present day Mount Prospect is made up of separate neighborhoods who because of common interests annexed to the corporate village. Each homeowner has paid for his own improvements without hardship to the remaining residents.

Homeowner Units Start Annex Petition Campaign

Residents in six homeowner associations in portions of Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect have begun a door-to-door petition campaign as part of their efforts to be annexed to the Village of Mount Prospect.

the referendum in the unincorporated area passes and the village board approves the request. According to Mayor Robert Teichert, the village will make a study of the area to determine the economic feasibility of the annexation.

costs to the revenue." He has also said this is an appropriate time for the village to annex a residential area because of recent annexations of industrial land south of Golf Road.

Indicates boundary line of Mount Prospect. PORTIONS OF Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect. Petitions requesting annexation are Mount Prospect may be annexed to the Village of now being circulated in the area.

EARLIER TEICHERT said, "Single-family homes usually don't pay their own way. The question is how close are the

If the area is annexed the population of the village will rise to more than 43,500. The new village residents' taxes will rise only $2, on the average, after annexation, according to a fact sheet now being distributed by the petitioners.

Leaders of the annexation movement estimate there are 8,638 people living in the approximately 2,450 homes in the six associations. These are the Castle Heights, Rainbow Ridge, Woodview, Euclid Lake, Parkview and River Trails associations.

HERMAN HAAS SR., 88, of Mount Prospect will be buried today in St. Paul Lutheran Cemetery, Mount Prospect. Haas, who died Friday in Waukegan, served on the Mount Prospect Village Board from 1934 to 1945.

The sheet points out that a resident in the unincorporated area that now has a real estate bill of $826 will pay a municipal tax of $78.18 plus a vehicle sticker fee of $10 per car after annexation. However, he will save $98.27 because he will no longer have to pay a separate real estate tax for fire protection nor a separate garbage service fee. These charges are included in the municipal tax.

"Further savings," according to the fact sheet, include a reduction in the residents' insurance costs and federal income taxes. Fire insurance costs will be lowered because the village fire department has a better insurance rating. The federal income tax will be reduced because the municipal tax is deductible.

"THE 'NEW TOWN' residents began the move toward annexation after a study was made by the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations, which represents the six associations and the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Wolf Mandel Association. The latter two groups are included in the proposed city boundaries.

The petitions must have the signatures of the majority of the landowners and of the electors to meet state statutes. According to Marie Caylor, a leader of the group, "We hope to have more than the required number of signatures by April 1."

A PROSPECT HEIGHTS attorney, Patrick Link, will file the petition. The court will then set a hearing date, which must be between 20 and 30 days after the filing date.

The area proposed for annexation, is boot shaped, stretching from Old Willow Road on the north, to Foundry Road on the south, and from River Road on the east, to Westgate Lane on the west. The area borders the village along Westgate Lane and along a jagged line that includes the Dist. 26 Feenhanville and River Trails Junior High schools, west of Wolf Road.

The area is also contiguous to the boundaries of the proposed City of Prospect Heights along Mandel Lane, and portions of Indigo Court and Wolf Road. The city includes the "old town" area of Prospect Heights, west of Wolf Road, and portions of unincorporated Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

The six "new town" associations will not be annexed to Mount Prospect unless

Hospital Releases Man After Incident

Byron Crowell, 33, was released from St. Alexius Hospital last Friday after being treated for a broken wrist and jaw following an incident March 14 with Elk Grove Village police.

Mrs. Crowell, who was not involved in the scuffle with police as previously reported in the Herald, said she saw the incident inside the gas station and that both men did not resist arrest or strike the police officer as charged.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader called on Congress Sunday to examine what he called the Treasury Department's "unlawful" proposal to give businessmen a tax break in order to boost the economy.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged President Nixon Sunday to impose partial wage and price controls to "rescue" the economy.

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Sunday the long-awaited federation of Egypt, Syria, Libya and possibly Sudan will be announced next Sunday, barring unexpected developments.

The first day of spring Sunday brought fair weather to most of the nation today. The southwest warmed rapidly under clear skies after a night of record cold.

Seven Mount Prospect boys helped celebrate Carnival Week at the Powder Horn ski area in Michigan's upper peninsula. They are members of Explorer Post 267, led by Marvin Metge. While there, the boys stayed in an old church which doubled as a ski lodge. They returned from their third annual ski trip without a single broken bone.

Skiers on the trip were Brad and Bruce Metge, Jeff Strey, Richard Schultz, Bob Ackmann, Mike Ritschdorf, and Scott Donahue. Also trying out his ski legs for the first time was five-year old Matt

Metge, who helped his parents chaperone the trip.

THINKING ABOUT current issues in the light of Christian theology is the aim of a Lenten study at St. John's Episcopal Church. Members of the study groups have discussed pollution of our environment. In later sessions they will apply the Christian doctrine to such other issues as population control, war and peace, and marriage and divorce.

A GROUP of Prospect Heights ladies recently held a farewell luncheon at the Hobson House in Long Grove for Mrs. Harold Sigwart, 207 N. Elmhurst, Prospect Heights. The Sigwarts were long-time residents of the community and active at the Prospect Heights Community Church. They are now living in Hardy, Ark.

ANCHORS, LIFE jackets, rope, oars, paddles, yacht club pennants, compasses and charts are needed by a new Sea Scout Ship being organized in Mount Prospect. Under the leadership of Jack Dawson, the high school boys will meet two Thursday nights each month at the Community Presbyterian Church. Dawson would be happy to hear from prospective members and their fathers (to help out with ship activities) or anyone willing to donate nautical gear for training aids. His number is 255-8897.

U.S. AIR FORCE Sgt. Norman L. Kaiser, son of Doris L. Wiater, 905 S. Owen, has arrived for duty at Luke Air Force Base, Ariz. Sergeant Kaiser, an aircraft mechanic, is assigned to a unit of the Tactical Air Command. Previously he served at Bien Hoa, Vietnam.

TRADITIONALLY PTAs raise money for PTA and school projects. Fairview School teachers recently turned the tables on their PTA when they held a mini-bake sale. Each teacher baked and contributed several items. So successful was the sale that potential buyers arriving a few minutes after it began found only a few crumbs left. On behalf of the teachers, Patricia Kudla has presented the PTA with a check for $80.

CHICKEN POX seems to be the "in" thing for grade schoolers to catch this month. One youngster recovering from it thoughtfully ran his fingers over his chin while bedspread. "It feels like it has chicken pox, too," he observed.

Absentee Ballots Available Today

Absentee ballots are available for residents who will be out of town for the Mount Prospect Park District park board election April 6.

Robert Jackson, president of the park district board of commissioners, will be the only person on the ballot for the one open post. Anyone wishing to challenge Jackson's bid for reelection must do so with write-in votes.

Absentee ballots can be obtained at the park district office, 600 See-Gwon Ave., from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Mailed requests for ballots must be received at the office no later than April 1 at 5 p.m. The deadline for applying in person is April 3 at noon. All absentee ballots must be turned into the office by 5 p.m. April 3 to be counted.

The park district serves a major portion of Mount Prospect and the eighth ward in Des Plaines.

Candidates' Forum Begins

No single residential neighborhood is self-sustaining; commercial and industrial properties offset the tax load.

The so-called "new town" areas have full improvements and could become logical annexations when common interests are demonstrated. Orderly growth must assure the continuation of such public benefits as water, police and fire protection to our present residents.

tage to the annexation would be the landlocking of the Northern Illinois Gas Co. property. With this in the village, it could be controlled when developed and at our standards. A strong point for the area itself is the condition in which it has been developed. It meets many, if not all, of the standards of our village. Lastly, I do not want to see annexation just for the sake of becoming a large village, but must carefully weigh the advantages and disadvantages before annexing property.

Vote Signup Ends Today

Today is the last day Mount Prospect residents may register to vote in the village elections April 20. Residents, who have not registered, may do so at the township clerk's office.

Residents who live north of Central Road are in Wheeling Township. Residents south of Central Road live in Elk Grove Township. Voter registration will be accepted only at the township clerk's offices, not at the village hall.

Elk Grove Township residents may register at the clerk's office in the town hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights. The clerk's office will be open today from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Mount Prospect residents who live in Wheeling Township may register to vote at township offices, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. The clerk's office will be open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. today.

Voters will go to the polls April 20 to elect three village trustees and two directors to the public library board. Village trustees will be elected to serve four-year terms and library directors to six-year terms.

FIVE CANDIDATES are seeking election to the village board. They are Richard Hendricks, of 1537 Emerson Ln.; Richard Monroe, of 1901 Bonita Dr.; George Anderson, of 1005 Isabella St.; Kenneth Scholten, of 1720 Estates Dr.; and Lloyd Norris, of 200 S. I-Oka Ave.

Norris, an incumbent board member, and Hendricks will seek election as independent candidates. Monroe, Anderson and Scholten will run under the banner of the United Village Party.

Norris is the only one of three incumbent trustees who will seek election April 20. The terms of Robert Soderman and John Kilroy will expire May 1.

Candidates in the library board election are Mary Ellen Brady, of 1202 W. Milburn Ave.; and Robert Nordli, of 317 S. We-GO Tr.

The terms of incumbent library directors Marion Clark and Mary Berg expire this year.

Tools Stolen

Power garden tools, valued at about $300, were reportedly stolen Thursday morning from the Edward Oravec residence, 16 W. Hiawatha, Mount Prospect.

Oravec told police the tools were in his garage at the time of the theft. He told police he found the electric garage door open, but there were no signs of forcible entry.

SCHOLTEN
The first and major disadvantages of annexation of the "new town" area is cost to the community. As we all know, annexation of any single-family residential area is a losing proposition. Their real estate taxes don't even cover the cost of the services provided. However, consideration must be given to the residents in the area adjacent to the property, due to the water problem there.

The board could not close its eyes to the needs of our citizens when reacting to the "new town" area. Another advantage

A Sure Spring Sign: Earth Week Planned

National Earth Week will be observed by the Village of Arlington Heights with clean-up campaigns and glass, can and newspaper pick-ups.

During the same week, April 18 through April 24, the first quarter of the village will receive the annual spring pick-up from Laseke Disposal Service.

Students from schools in Arlington Heights will compete in essay and poster contests involving the week.

Students in all elementary, junior high and high schools in the village will be eligible to compete for $25 first prizes in the essay and poster contests. Schools will submit entries to the village by April 9.

Winners in elementary, junior high and high school categories will be honored at the April 19 meeting of the Village Board of Trustees. The Chamber of Commerce is donating the prize money.

ON SATURDAY, April 24, Boy Scouts will pick up litter in all public areas of the village. Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls will clean up parks in the village.

On the same day, glass bottles and aluminum cans can be dropped off at three sites in the village. The items will be taken to plants for recycling. Laseke Disposal Service has agreed to furnish trucks for the hauling. Darryl Kenning, assistant to the village manager, said.

The cans and bottles will be collected, on that Saturday only, in the parking lot of Rand Junior High School, 2800 N. Arlington Heights Rd.; the parking lot of Juliette Low School, 1530 S. Highland Ave., and at the commuter parking lot on the northwest corner of Sigwalt and Arlington Heights roads.

The drop off will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will be supervised by volunteers from the Junior Women's Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Newspapers will be collected door-to-door by volunteers in each area of the village on the Saturday before the spring trash pick-up.

In the southeast part of the village, south of the railroad tracks and east of Arlington Heights Rd., newspapers will be collected on April 17 and all trash except building materials will be picked up at the curb on April 19.

IN THE SOUTHWEST portion of the village, south of the railroad tracks and east of Arlington Heights Road, newspapers will be collected April 24 and trash pick-up will be April 26.

In the northeast portion of the village, north of the railroad tracks and east of Arlington Heights Road, newspapers will be picked up May 1 and trash will be picked up May 3.

In the northwest portion of the village, north of the tracks and west of Arlington Heights Road, newspapers will be collected May 8 and trash pick-up will be May 10.

TWO ROLLING MEADOWS youths escaped injury yesterday in a spectacular hit-and-run accident on Rand Road in unincorporated Arlington Heights. Scott Snyder, 18, of 2103 Campbell St. and Marvin Bublitz, 16, of 2308 Park Ave., were towing a car northwest on Rand Road when another car pulled out into their path from Waterman Avenue. Snyder was not charged and police are trying to determine the identity of the other driver who fled the scene before state police arrived.

The musical features Mary Campbell and Dean Bastounes in lead roles.

Gerald David, a faculty member, is the director, with Ann Toban as student director.

Commuter Station To Be Built At Arlington Park

A new commuter station with 800 parking spaces will be built at the Arlington Park race track, without the use of federal money, Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights mayor said Friday.

Three parties, the Chicago and North Western Rwy., the track and the village are currently working on the terms of cost-sharing for the new facility, he added.

Walsh stressed village participation would not cause any additional taxation to local residents.

The decision to use local and private money in the initial development is aimed to quickly alleviate pressures on Arlington Heights downtown station, Walsh said.

"Most federal programs require regional plans which we don't have. It can take years before federal money becomes available. There are all sorts of complications," he added.

THE POSSIBILITY is not being eliminated of applying for federal funds in the future to expand the new station into a commuter center, Walsh said.

The total commuter center concept in other areas has been associated with multiple level parking, bus, taxi, and helicopter facilities adjoining the rail station.

Development of a commuter center could create a facility available to areas such as Schaumburg, Long Grove and Buffalo Grove because of easy access to the track area via Routes 53 and 14, Walsh said.

Plans for the new station should be available from C & NW engineers in a few days, he added.

Construction of the new station and parking facility will begin once it is determined what share of the cost each of three parties involved is willing to accept, Walsh said.

Snowball-Throwing Incident Costs 2 Students $200 Each

A snowball-throwing incident at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights ended up costing two students at the school almost $200.

Magistrate Paul A. O'Malley, judge of the circuit court, levied fines against the two youths Friday for throwing the snowballs at an Arlington Heights Police Department squad car last December.

The students, Joseph J. Eschenbrenner, 17, of Rte. 2, Palatine and James J. Houldsworth, 18, of 2802 Hawk Ln., Rolling Meadows were charged with criminal damage to property and disorderly conduct.

Dets. Ronald Van Raalte and Otto Schuster of the Arlington Heights police had alleged that they were parked near the school when a group of students began to throw snowballs and shout obscenities.

Eschenbrenner and Houldsworth were arrested after the detectives chased them into the school building, believing they were the "instigators" of the incident.

O'Malley found both the students guilty of disorderly conduct. Houldsworth was fined $100 plus court costs and Eschenbrenner was fined $50 and $20 court costs.

Eschenbrenner was found innocent of criminal damage to property. The state did not prosecute that charge against Houldsworth.

Optimist Club Egg Sale Ends This Weekend

Arlington Heights Optimist Club is selling eggs for the benefit of Little City in Palatine and for its own youth fund.

Coupons redeemable for a dozen eggs on Egg Day, Saturday, April 3, are being sold for $1 donations. They are on sale at Arlington Federal Savings and Loan Assn.

Optimist club members, assisted by Dodo the Clown, have been selling the coupons in downtown Arlington Heights on Saturdays. Their final day of activity will be this Saturday. Eggs for the sale will be supplied by Weidners Egg Farm of Palatine.

On Egg Day, the Optimists will conduct egg hunts at four parks in Arlington Heights. An estimated 2,000 children will be given free candy and see free movies before the egg hunt, which will be conducted for children 1 to 2 years old, 3 to 5, and 6 to 8. The egg hunts are scheduled for 10 a.m. at Hasbrook Park, 333 W. Maude Ave., Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave., Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., and Camelot Park, 1005 E. Suffield Dr.

Prizes will be awarded to children finding golden eggs. A new bicycle will be given to the top winner in each age group.

School Board To Meet Tonight

The Board of Education of Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 will finish its regular business tonight and will then probably adjourn into executive session.

The meeting, the first since a tax increase request was turned down by the voters March 13, will include some preliminary reports on state aid formulas and a report by a board committee on a new budget reporting system.

The executive session will deal with personnel actions that will be necessary because of the referendum, Supt. Donald Strong said Friday.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Administration Building, 301 W. South St.

VILLAGE EARTH week will be represented by this symbol, April 18 through April 24. The village will have clean-up campaigns and collections of bottles, cans and newspapers with the help of volunteer organizations that week.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader called on Congress Sunday to examine what he called the Treasury Department's "unlawful" proposal to give businessmen a tax break in order to boost the economy.

In a letter to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Nader said the proposal came about because "powerful private interests have undertaken a raid on the U.S. Treasury" that would cost the government $3 billion in revenue a year.

Earth Day — designated to call attention to the state of the world's environment — was observed Sunday in New York and San Francisco. Plans for Earth Day demonstrations in other cities fizzled.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged President Nixon Sunday to impose partial wage and price controls to "rescue" the economy.

"This is a rescue situation," the Republican senior senator said. "This is a situation in which for a number of years we ran enormous deficits, sweeping the Vietnam War under the rug on the theory that, as President Lyndon B. Johnson put it, we could have guns and butter. Well, you can't."

More than 500 Jews were arrested in downtown Washington Sunday when they staged a massive sit-in near the Soviet Embassy as a protest to the treatment of Russian Jews.

The World

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Sunday the long-awaited federation of Egypt, Syria, Libya and possibly Sudan will be announced next Sunday, barring unexpected developments.

The paper said the merger would probably take the form of a federation or, if certain "obstacles were not surmounted," the form of a confederation.

In either case, the newspaper said, the four countries will unify their foreign, defense, financial and information policies. Each will keep its own political organizations and domestic arrangements, however.

French voters elected 76,000 local government officials in the second-round balloting Sunday in national elections.

Authorities reported a light turnout among the 30 million registered voters, interest being confined to areas where Communists and left-wing candidates polled their efforts to defeat Gaullist candidates.

The Weather

The first day of spring Sunday brought fair weather to most of the nation today.

The southwest warmed rapidly under clear skies after a night of record cold.

Warm southerly winds up the Mississippi Valley lifted the temperatures into the 50s through the southern parts of the Middle West.

Precipitation wise, a few snow flurries linger from Pennsylvania to Northern New England. A low pressure system near Lake Michigan spread light snow through parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Eye on Arlington Board Implements Will Of People

by WANDALYN RICE

Somewhere in Arlington Heights there are 5,557 voters who ought to attend the School Dist. 25 Board of Education meeting tonight.

Those voters would, if they attended, see something rare in this day of unresponsive government — they would see a group of elected officials begin immediately to implement The Will of The People.

The school board was informed of that Will on Saturday, March 13, by 5,557 voters who said they would pay no more money for the schools. The statement was clear and the margin overwhelming.

Now the board will begin to cut the district budget, eliminating programs wholesale where necessary, so they can live within the amount of money the voters were willing to give them.

THE REASONS for the district's defeat at the polls are as complex as the times. In some areas specific issues, like the Dist. 214 high school boundaries and the Victorian housing issue, had voters angry at all government bodies.

In a few areas, parents might have been upset about their neighborhood schools. But the biggest contributing factor to the defeat was taxes and the economy. On voting day, persons who had never set foot in a Dist. 25 school came out to protest the increasing tax burden.

Many of the voters no longer have children in school; many were elderly and on fixed incomes. Their views can be called short-sighted, but when a tax bill gets so high a person thinks he may have to leave a home where he has lived for many years. It is hard to blame him for striking back.

In addition to the angry, upset or financially beset voters who came to the polls to defeat the tax increase, there was another group that contributed to defeat — what some school-watchers call the "stay-at-home yes vote."

BECAUSE THE economy is in bad shape, many voters, including parents, who would have voted for the increase in other years didn't feel they could do so this time.

So, rather than vote no, they stayed home. And 5,557 voters who did make the trip to vote no, carried the day.

The sad part of the situation is that most of those no voters, and many of the stay-at-home yes voters, will pay no more attention to what happens in the district until it affects them.

Until their child or grandchild doesn't get into a special program because the district has no money for it.

Until class sizes become conspicuously larger.

Or until they find it hard to sell that home because the school system no longer has a top-notch reputation.

That is why at least 5,557 voters — and a lot of non-voters — ought to attend the meeting of the school board at 7:30 p.m. today in the Administration Building, 301 W. South St.

There they would see the first results of their actions.

It may make them happy.

Or sad.

But they ought to watch.

Charge Man With Burglary Attempt

An 18-year-old Des Plaines man was charged with attempted burglary Thursday night after he was reportedly found in a darkened meat locker of an Arlington Heights supermarket.

Arlington Heights police said the man, Robert Dyehouse, of 1409 Campbell St., Des Plaines, was discovered in the locker by employees of the A&P supermarket, 1818 N. Arlington Heights Rd., at closing time.

The employee, Mike Gaynor, told police he was making a final check of the store prior to closing when he found Dyehouse at the rear of the darkened locker. Gaynor said Dyehouse claimed he was looking for a washroom.

Dyehouse was held overnight without bail and was arraigned Friday before Magistrate Paul A. O'Malley, of the Cook County Circuit Court.

Dyehouse was later taken to the Cook County Jail, in lieu of $20,000 bond, awaiting an April 2 court date.

Australian Teachers Visit London School

John and Christene Barren, teachers from Australia, visited eighth grade classes at Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling.

The Barrens, who are visiting the United States on a honeymoon trip, found buildings and equipment "much finer than in Australia and students 'more disciplined' and 'brighter' than Australians.

Students Honored In London Science Fair

A project submitted by Keith Berglund was judged "outstanding" in the fair. First place awards were taken by Berglund, Tom Will, Mike Dunn and Bob Quasius.

The four boys were eligible to exhibit their projects in the Dist. 21 science fair held Saturday at London.

6 Groups Participate

Homeowner Units Start Annex Petition Campaign

Residents in six homeowner associations in portions of Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect have begun a door-to-door petition campaign as part of their efforts to be annexed to the Village of Mount Prospect.

All weekend homeowner association block captains asked their neighbors to sign a petition requesting the Cook County Circuit Court to set a date for a referendum on the annexation proposal in their area. The block captains will continue their campaign until they have visited every home in their assigned areas.

Leaders of the annexation movement estimate there are 8,638 people living in the approximately 2,450 homes in the six associations. These are the Castle Heights, Rainbow Ridge, Woodview, Euclid Lake, Parkview and River Trails associations.

The petitions must have the signatures of the majority of the landowners and of the electors to meet state statutes. According to Marie Caylor, a leader of the group, "We hope to have more than the required number of signatures by April 1."

A PROSPECT HEIGHTS atty. Patrick Link, will file the petition. The court will then set a hearing date, which must be between 20 and 30 days after the filing date.

The area proposed for annexation, is boot shaped, stretching from Old Willow Road on the north, to Foundry Road on the south, and from River Road on the east, to Westgate Lane on the west. The area borders the village along Westgate Lane and along a jagged line that includes the Dist. 26 Feehanville and River Trails Junior High schools, west of Wolf Road.

The area is also contiguous to the boundaries of the proposed City of Prospect Heights along Mandel Lane, and portions of Indigo Court and Wolf Road. The city includes the "old town" area of Prospect Heights, west of Wolf Road, and portions of unincorporated Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

The six "new town" associations will not be annexed to Mount Prospect unless the referendum in the unincorporated area passes and the village board approves the request. According to Mayor Robert Teichert, the village will make a study of the area to determine the economic feasibility of the annexation.

EARLIER TEICHERT said, "Single-family homes usually don't pay their own way. The question is how close are the costs to the revenue." He has also said this is an appropriate time for the village to annex a residential area because of recent annexations of industrial land south of Golf Road: "The two areas would create a balance in the village."

If the area is annexed the population of the village will rise to more than 43,500.

The new village residents' taxes will rise only $2, on the average, after annexation, according to a fact sheet now being distributed by the petitioners. The sheet was prepared by the group leading

7 File For Board Posts

Seven candidates have filed for election in the High School Dist. 214 April 10 school board election.

The two incumbents, Leah D. Cummins, 1009 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village, and Richard Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect, filed on Feb. 24, the first day of filing. Mrs. Cummins will be the first candidate on the ballot, Bachhuber the second.

Jack L. Matthews, 1511 E. Sunset Terr., Arlington Heights, was the third to file on March 18.

Raymond L. Pettersen, Jr., 4307 Linden Ln., Rolling Meadows, filed for candidacy Friday at 2 p.m. He will be the fourth name on the ballot.

The last three, Robert C. Winkle, 680A Versailles Cr., Elk Grove Village, Clyde

H. Brooks, 65 Brantwood Ave., Elk Grove Village, and Don C. McGlothlin, 1047 S. Carol Ave., Wheeling, drew straws at 4 p.m. Friday to determine their position on the ballot.

Winkle will be fifth, Brooks sixth and McGlothlin last on the election ballot.

Both Brooks and McGlothlin were candidates in the Dist. 214 election last year.

Mrs. Cummins, the first to file, submitted 141 names on her petitions, McGlothlin, the last, had 52. Each candidate must have 50 valid signatures of registered voters in Dist. 214 to be qualified as candidates. Final acceptance of the petitions must be made by the Dist. 214 board secretary.

4 Candidates Seek Dist. 59 Seats

Four candidates will seek two seats on the board of education April 10 in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59.

Filing for the election closed Friday. Allen Sparks of Des Plaines is the only incumbent who filed.

Richard Hess, board president and a resident of 247 Placid Way, Elk Grove Village, decided not to seek re-election after having served on the board for six years. Hess had been expected to file based on an earlier comment in February.

The four candidates will seek two 3-year seats on the seven-member board that has 20 schools in the district.

The candidates are Erwin Poklacki, of 1223 Fernandez St., Arlington Heights; Albert Domanico, of 7 Grange Pl., and Theodore Stadler, of 1032 Brantwood Ave., both in Elk Grove Village; and Sparks of 908 Spruance, Des Plaines.

Poklacki was the last to file on Friday. The others filed earlier in late February and early March.

A research chemist at Borg-Warner Corp., Des Plaines, Poklacki has lived in the district for about 3½ years. He is active in the district, serving on a committee that studied overcrowding in the junior high schools, the aims-and-goals committee, and with the School Community Council.

POKLACKI WAS a candidate in last year's election. He lost by six votes, trailing incumbent Harry Peterson Jr. of Elk Grove Village.

In the last election there were 12 candidates seeking four openings on the board that sets policy for schools in portions of Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, and Des Plaines.

Sparks is employed as an assistant director of research for Universal Oil Products, Des Plaines. He has been on the board for three years and served as president one year.

Domanico, employed as an assistant regional sales marketing manager for General Instrument Corp., Lincolnwood, is a former board member having served briefly in 1967 when he was appointed and in 1969 when he was elected for one year.

Stadler is a manager of education in engineering for International Business Machines in Chicago. He has been a resident of Elk Grove for nine years.

Volleyball Offered At Camelot Park

Free games of co-recreational volleyball are offered Thursday nights at Camelot Park, Brighton Place and Suffolk Drive, Arlington Heights.

The games are open to any interested residents and are sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District. The evening's sporting activities are held from 8 to 10 p.m.

For more information, contact Bette English at 394-0047. Mrs. English is employed by the park district as the center director at Camelot Park.

Tree Planting Project Planned

A tree planting project is being planned by the Arlington Beautification Council (ABC) for Arbor Day, April 30.

According to Erwin J. Page, civic project director for ABC, trees will be planted at each school in Arlington Heights. The program is being supported by civic organizations, which are donating flowering crab trees, at $25 each, and by school officials who are encouraging participation by students.

School children will handle the actual planting on Arbor Day.

Page said education of children of the necessity of cultivation of trees and bushes is a primary goal of the program. School officials are being asked to cooperate through such activities as assembly programs, poster campaigns, essay contests, science studies, field trips and others.

Asking for community support of the program, Page said, "We must all assume part of the responsibility for the current pollution and it follows that each one of us should do our share to improve the environment."

Indian Craft Class Scheduled Thursdays

A special Indian craft class for girls will meet Thursdays at Hasbrook Park, 333 W. Maude St., Arlington Heights.

The class will include how to make an Ojo dios (God's eye) and will center around an Indian craft popular among a tribe called the Huichols. Colored yarn, sticks and sandpaper are required to make an ojo dios, a woven triangle.

The craft, sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District, will require each girl to supply her own yarn, sticks and sandpaper. The class will meet from 3:45 to 4:30 p.m. Thursdays and is open to girls in first through fifth grades.

For more information, contact Rich Sedowski, 259-4624.

It's a shame to stuff a landfill with re-usable material. Facilities now exist for the recycling of old newspapers, steel and aluminum cans and glass. Their re-use eliminates the economic waste and pollution.

We urge residents to SAVE, rather than discard these items. Various groups make periodic collections.

2 Candidate Nights Planned By League

Candidates for local elected offices will be invited to speak at two candidates nights sponsored by the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area.

The candidates will include those running for the offices of Arlington Heights Village Board, Park Board and Library Board and for the Boards of Education of elementary school Dist. 25 and high school Dist. 214.

The candidates will be asked questions during the four open seats on the Village Board will be held at 8 p.m. March 30 in the girls' gymnasium at South Junior High School, 314 S. Highland Ave.

The candidates for the other offices will be invited for a meeting at 8 p.m. April 1 in the girls' gymnasium at South Junior High School.

The candidates will be asked questions by members of the league, a non-partisan organization, and will be presenting their views on issues. Both candidates' nights are open to the public.

Recreation Plan Proposed

by JERRY THOMAS

A 27 hole golf course, and extensive recreational facilities have been proposed for a 200-acre site in Schaumburg Township adjoining Hanover Park.

The proposal, however, did not come from the owner of the property, Metropolitan Sanitary District, but Village Atty. William Davies.

The attorney received village board approval Thursday of the plans for the recreational development he proposes for the district's recent acquisition adjacent to the present Hanover Park Sanitary District's Treatment Plant off Barrington Road.

Although MSD purchased the land for a sludge farm project and expansion of its present facility, attorney Davies showed an artist's rendition of the golf course, tennis courts and football and baseball fields.

Describing it as "Davies and Humphreys pipedream" Davies said it was his and the Hanover Park Park District president's Harold Humphreys plan.

Admitting the MSD district owns the land he argued the village objects to the use of it as a sludge farm and hopes that the district can be influenced to develop it as a recreation area.

He added that federal and governmental agencies could be approached for financing of the project and the MSD would benefit from good publicity as much as the village would from the recreational area.

Originally the village fought the acquisition, and after the sale authorized Davies, organizers of objecting groups and the park district to negotiate with the MSD.

Pointing out they bought the acreage because they needed it to dispose of sludge and expand the present facility close to $3 million, and told the attorney to come back with a concrete offer from a developer.

MSD added that it would consider a cooperative recreational use while the land was used to dispose of the solids, from the plant that is being expanded.

There was talk of a golf course but the MSD would not be tied down to any promise except one to work with the villagers.

Mrs. Karen Goro, chairman of the Hanover's Involved People Group recently banded together to fight the MSD plans for sludge farming, wasn't too pleased with Davies' plans.

She asked how sludge could be applied to turf and still be used as a golf course. The odor was also discussed as she talked about the ammonia-like smell of fertilizers.

Davies said that's why his plans showed 27 holes; while sludge was being applied on some areas the others would be open for play.

He said the MSD district should be receptive to the plan since they could point to the recreational development as "something beautiful, useful to the community and still working for the district."

"But sludge still stinks," objected a resident. "Would you rather have a stinky golf course or a stinky corn field?" asked Davies.

Although he holds approval from the trustees Davies will continue to attempt to attract a developer for the site.

The board noted that it would prefer industrial or commercial development of the acreage, but if that fails would work for Davies' plan.

Scouts Honored

Curt Siroky was awarded his Eagle Scout badge at a recent court of honor conducted by Boy Scout Troop 159, and Dave Stratton was presented his second Eagle Gold Palm.

Siroky is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Siroky, 29 N. Reuter Dr.

Stratton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stratton, 211 S. Illinois Ave., needed to earn 40 merit badges, 25 more than required for the rank of Eagle, to attain the second palm.

Also at the court of honor, the rank of Life Scout was bestowed on Ken Bergstrom, 607 S. Harvard Ave., and Ray Warns, 111 N. Kaspar Ave. Promoted to Second Class Scout were Bill Barry, 1511 St. James Pl.; Bill Mitchell, 120 S. Yale Ave.; Mark Kahn, 211 W. Emerson St.; and Tim Ryan, 426 S. Reuter Dr.

Troop 159 is sponsored by St. Simon's Episcopal Church.

Carnival Atmosphere

Harper College Career Day Set

Trampoline stunts, a tooth booth and an electronic tic-tac-toe game will provide a carnival atmosphere for the Harper College Career Day Tuesday, March 23 at the college.

Businessmen and housewives as well as high school and college students are invited to visit the day-long Career Carousol where the college's 29 career programs will be explained.

Area high schools have been invited to bring students to the program between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Evening hours for students and residents who cannot come during the day are 7 to 10 p.m.

The trampoline stunts will be demonstrated by the physical education department, a booth built like a tooth will be the information center for the dental hygiene program, and the electronic tic-tac-toe will be located at the electronics career booth.

IN ADDITION, the law enforcement department will have a police squad car, motorcycle, and a state police van on display. A cardboard computer built by students in the data processing program will tell fortunes.

All 29 career programs will have information booths open where visitors can discuss the programs with students and faculty advisors.

Programs available at Harper include accounting, architecture, business, baking, business and industrial security, chemical technology, child services, clerical or administrative assistant, cooking, data processing, data processing clerical, dental hygiene, electronics technology, fashion design and fire science.

Other career programs are food service management, journalism, law enforcement, legal secretary, marketing mid-management, mechanical engineering technology, mechanical drafting, numerical control technology, nursing, secretarial science, supermarket management, supervisory and administrative management.

Two new career programs are interior design and real estate.

The Career Carousol is being organized by Robert Cormack, dean of career programs, and the Harper Career Coordinators' Council.

Adults who have an interest in continuing their education in a specialized field are being encouraged to attend the Career Carousol, according to Cormack. A national need for skilled technicians is prompting development of career programs at the community college level.

Harper College offers a two-year associate degree in most of the 29 career programs. A few programs offer a one-year certificate.

"High schools outside the Harper district (areas served by High School Dist. 211, 214 and 224) have expressed interest in our programs as well as those within the district," Cormack said. Currently, Harper is participating in a cooperative program with high schools in health occupations careers besides enrichment and regular courses for adults.

Harper is located at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine.

Three School Programs On Board Agenda

Three school programs -- the action program and modular scheduling at Wheeling High School, and the self-contained classroom at Prospect High School -- are on the agenda for discussion by the High School Dist. 214 School Board tonight.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Building, 799 W. Kensington Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Two substitute teachers, Mrs. Ronald Ladders, 34 University, Buffalo Grove and Mrs. Donald Meisner, 1827 Rolling Ln., Arlington Heights, will speak to the board about substitute teacher salaries.

Substitutes presently receive $25 per day for the first 10 days they substitute in a school year and $30 per day after that. The substitute teachers are asking for an increase in the daily amount, which they say has not been changed for three years.

The board will also take final action to award the 1971-74 bus contract for the northern part of the district to Cook County Bus Co. Circuit Court Judge Edward Egan, in a declaratory judgment requested by the school board, named Cook County as the low bidder over Davidmeyer Bus Service.

Approval of $108,000 for purchase of movable furniture for Rolling Meadows High School will also be considered.

Caucus-Backed Candidates To Run Unopposed

Candidates will compete in two school board elections April 10, but the Des Plaines caucus-backed candidates will run unopposed.

As candidate filing deadlines passed last Friday, competitive races had developed for trustee posts at two school districts which serve Des Plaines — Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and Niles-Maine Junior College Dist. 535.

Three candidates will contend for three positions in Dist. 62.

An independent, John Gahala of Park Ridge will campaign in a race for three Dist. 207 trustee seats with three caucus-backed candidates, including incumbent William Wuehrmann, 47, of 600 S. Clifton, and William Bocek, 44, of 904 Florence, both of Park Ridge; and Leonard Grazian, 46, of 9604 Oliphant, Morton Grove.

In the Oakton Community College trustee race for two trustee posts, four candidates are running, including two incumbents. No Oakton caucus has been formed to endorse candidates.

The incumbents are Mrs. Doris Sopkin of Skokie and Griff Macdonald of Park Ridge. The other two candidates are Stephen Loska Jr., 1694 Van Buren, Des Plaines, and Sherwin "Larry" King, 5018 Pratt, Skokie, who filed Friday at the filing deadline.

NO CHALLENGERS have filed in the Des Plaines Dist. 62 election for three seats. Caucus-endorsed candidates are incumbent Glenn W. Glaser, Jr., 61 E. Terrace Ln., Mrs. Nancy Lee Sherden, 1019 6th Ave., and Stuart Kisten, 1755 Sycamore.

Gahala, 55, who filed in the Dist. 207 board race last Thursday was one of four who competed for the Park Ridge Caucus endorsement, received by Wuehrmann and Bocek.

He is a teacher at Oak Park (River Forest) High School, and former department chairman at Lockport High School.

He also is a former dean of men at Lewis College in Lockport. He is a graduate of St. Mary's University, San Antonio, Tex., and has a master's degree in German. He has done graduate work at several midwest universities.

He has been a resident of Park Ridge for two years. He and his wife Estella, have no children.

KING, WAS THE last to file in the Dist. 535 race. The other three candidates filed on the first filing date, Feb. 24.

King is an associate professor of history at Harper College in Palatine. He also is chairman of the social science department of the junior college.

King, 37, is a resident of Skokie. He and his wife, Joyce, have two children, Lawrence, 15 and Susan, 12.

He has taught at Harper for four years, and will soon be a visiting lecturer at the

Residents Hear Con-Con Delegates

Township government can be whatever the residents of a township want it to be under the new Illinois Constitution, according to a delegate of last year's Constitutional Convention.

Mrs. Anne Evans of Des Plaines told the Wheeling Township Republican Club Thursday night that the new Constitution, which takes effect July 1, allows residents of townships to determine the extent of services that they wish the township to offer.

Among those services will be construction of hospitals, mental health facilities, youth services, parks, libraries, and township office buildings.

Mrs. Evans, who served on the Con-Con Education Committee also said individual townships can be eliminated under the new Constitution, if voters in a township vote in favor of dissolving the township government.

"There is no reason, it seems to me, why township government cannot be continued, if it needs to be continued, or eliminated if there is no need for it," Mrs. Evans said.

She admitted the debate over township government had taken on political ramifications but said observers must take a practical view of it.

The "political ramifications" prompted the most heated discussion from an audience that included several Wheeling Township officials, including Supervisor, Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Assessor Marshall Theroux and former Con-Con delegate Virginia Macdonald.

Mrs. Kolerus denied there was patronage in township government and said patronage does not include elected officials.

Mrs. Evans said she didn't know how much patronage exists in township government, but added that the need for employees depends on the job to be done.

"If they have the money and the job needs to be done then they should hire the people they need," she said.

When asked if there was a need for township government services, Mrs. Evans replied, "It's like the question of metropolitan government — there are some things that can best be done on a wide-area basis, but others belong on a much more local level."

Mrs. Evans said she would neither praise or condemn township government as a whole because of the vast differences in performance and services.

Glass Recycle Program Gets Under Way

A glass recycling program, sponsored by the City of Des Plaines and the Des Plaines Junior Women's Club, is under way this week.

Receptacles have been placed at the city's three fire stations in which glass bottles and jars can be deposited by residents for transport to a manufacturing plant, where they will be crushed and sold for paving material.

When placing non-returnable bottles and jars in the receptacles, residents have been asked to separate clear and colored glass and to remove all metal tops or other metal fittings from the bottles and jars.

The three fire stations are located on Thacker Street just east of Mount Prospect Road, at Ash Street and Oakton Street, and at 1420 Miner Street next to the municipal building. Bottles and jars can be left at the fire stations at any time, according to City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach.

City trucks will transport the collected glass to the Ball Bros. Co. in Mundelein where it will be crushed and added to asphalt for road paving.

Zoning Requests To Be Heard March 30

The Des Plaines Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a hearing Tuesday March 30 on two requests for commercial rezoning.

Chrysler Realty Corp. is asking for a change from manufacturing (M-2) zoning at 633 Northwest Hwy. to the commercial (C-2) zoning classification.

At 1230 Golf Rd., the J.S. Adams Co. is requesting a change from manufacturing (M-1) zoning to the commercial (C-2). The hearings will begin at 8 p.m. in the municipal building city council chambers, 1412 Miner St.

Candidates' Quotes

Candidates and the issues they will face if elected to local school boards April 10 are taking the spotlight for the next few weeks. The following are some of the developments in this year's campaign.

Two candidates for Oakton Community College board seats have urged residents to get applications for absentee ballots if they are physically unable to go to the polls, or if they will be away from the district April 10.

Applications are available at the homes of the candidates: Stephen Loska, 1694 Van Buren, Des Plaines; and Griff Macdonald, 401 N. Ashland, Park Ridge.

Oakton Community College will share polling places with Des Plaines School Dist. 62 and Maine Township High School Dist. 207.

In a recently issued statement, Stephen Loska said he is seeking election to the Oakton College board because he believes Des Plaines should be represented on the board.

"As presently constituted, this board has five members from Niles Township and only two from Maine Township," he stated. "Des Plaines, the second largest municipality in the junior college district, isn't represented at all."

"I believe it is in the best interests of the college, its students and residents of both townships that there be balanced representation on this board. This would help develop more enlightened support of the institution."

Leonard Grazian, candidate for the Dist. 207 board, has issued a statement supporting increased community responsibility in demands for higher state aid to schools.

"While many people in this and neighboring areas have been concerned with and talking about the lack of money for schools, the time is here to replace talk with action."

"It's up to the people of this community to let their senators and representatives in Springfield know their feelings."

Maine Township voters should be particularly interested in seeing the passage of a resolution that would eliminate the preferential treatment now being given in "unit" districts over aid given in "non-unit" districts such as Dist. 207, he stated.

Unit school districts, he said, are those in which a single school district includes grades one through 12. "Despite the fact that the non-unit district provides educational programs for larger groups, it receives a smaller share of state aid per student."

Mrs. Mary Jane Weiss, 493 Pinehurst, Des Plaines, is handling publicity for the Stephen Loska campaign. W.M. McCarty, 8666 Gregory, is handling publicity for the Leonard Grazian campaign.

Candidate Supports City Moratorium

A seventh ward aldermanic candidate last week said he approves of a city moratorium on permits for downtown area apartment buildings and called for higher quality apartment development in central Des Plaines.

George Brubaker, 886 S. Golf Cul-de-sac, said the city should encourage higher quality downtown apartments by forcing developers to construct taller buildings with more green space and more room for parking.

The council city voted to hold up building permits for apartments on lots with less than 100 feet of frontage or less than 12,500 square feet of total area last Monday. Ald. Joseph Szabo (1st), in asking for the moratorium, complained that buildings developed in the R-5 zoning district surrounding much of the downtown area have not met intended city standards.

Szabo said some of the apartments that have been built on 50-foot frontage lots have had too much "brick and pavement" and not enough parking space or lawn. He asked that a 100-foot minimum be written into the R-5 regulations.

"Everybody gets excited when you talk about buildings 65 feet or higher," said Brubaker. Though he opposes tall buildings in outlying areas or single-family neighborhoods, Brubaker said tall buildings in the downtown area make for higher quality development.

"I WOULD MUCH rather see an attractive, graceful building with additional parking, additional greenspace around it than these tightly packed things which are built under the relatively loose R-5 ordinance," he said.

The city council's city code committee, which discussed Szabo's recommendation at a meeting last Thursday, has scheduled another meeting for this Thursday night, according to Ald. Edward Shillington (8th), committee chairman.

Shillington said last week that the city council understands the gripes of some builders and developers about the 100-foot frontage requirement.

"By the same token, what would we be doing as aldermen if we didn't think of the people," said Shillington, who predicted that rules requiring larger lots for downtown area apartments would be approved.

"I'm sure that they will be," he said. "As Joe Szabo said, if we don't do this, we're just going to have regular apartment high-rises and that's it. We're not going to be accomplishing anything as far as downtown redevelopment goes. We're going to be hurting the downtown by allowing this kind of building."

SHILLINGTON SAID Rolf Campbell of

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader called on Congress Sunday to examine what he called the Treasury Department's "unlawful" proposal to give businessmen a tax break in order to boost the economy.

In a letter to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Nader said the proposal came about because "powerful private interests have undertaken a raid on the U.S. Treasury" that would cost the government $3 billion in revenue a year.

Earth Day — designated to call attention to the state of the world's environment — was observed Sunday in New York and San Francisco. Plans for Earth Day demonstrations in other cities fizzled.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged President Nixon Sunday to impose partial wage and price controls to "rescue" the economy.

"This is a rescue situation," the Republican senior senator said. "This is a situation in which for a number of years we ran enormous deficits, sweeping the Vietnam War under the rug on the theory that, as President Lyndon B. Johnson put it, we could have guns and butter. Well, you can't."

More than 500 Jews were arrested in downtown Washington Sunday when they staged a massive sit-in near the Soviet Embassy as a protest to the treatment of Russian Jews.

The World

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Sunday the long-awaited federation of Egypt, Syria, Libya and possibly Sudan will be announced next Sunday, barring unexpected developments.

The paper said the merger would probably take the form of a federation or, if certain "obstacles were not surmounted," the form of a confederation.

In either case, the newspaper said, the four countries will unify their foreign, defense, financial and information policies. Each will keep its own political organizations and domestic arrangements, however.

French voters elected 76,000 local government officials in the second-round balloting Sunday in national elections.

Authorities reported a light turnout among the 30 million registered voters, interest being confined to areas where Communists and left-wing candidates polled their efforts to defeat Gaullist candidates.

The Weather

The first day of spring Sunday brought fair weather to most of the nation today.

The southwest warmed rapidly under clear skies after a night of record cold.

Warm southerly winds up the Mississippi Valley lifted the temperatures into the 50s through the southern parts of the Middle West.

Police Exams Help Youth Center

Additional supervision, safety precautions and more active discouragement of drug possession has stemmed from examinations of the Des Plaines Place for People Youth Drop-in Center by Des Plaines Police youth officers.

Examinations of the informal youth center in February showed that teenagers were sitting in almost total darkness, smoking and overcrowding the hall and stairway, all in violation of fire safety rules.

The youth officers have begun daily examinations of the center at the Rand Park Fieldhouse. Dempster near Parkview, according to Det. Lawrence Zumbrack, youth officer.

Sgt. Ken Fredricks and other members of the youth division have visited the center and have had discussions with the Rev. Dave Russell, chairman of the youth center board and with the Rev. Richard Smith, director of the center.

REV. RUSSELL, speaking Thursday at a meeting of the Des Plaines Coordinating Council on Youth Problems, said that smoking has been forbidden in the main room of the center and adult supervision has increased. Rules against drugs are being enforced, he said, and a greater effort has been made to keep the center clean.

Fire precautions now enforced include use of exit lights and full lighting of the center, he said.

He also said a policy is being worked out by the Place for People board on what should be done if narcotics are found in the possession of a youth.

According to Zumbrack, Smith would like to talk to any youth who has been discovered to have narcotics. Smith would then discourage its usage.

Bur Zumbrack feels that police should be called in when narcotics are found.

RUSSELL SAID narcotics might be found at the center because of the current drug culture among Des Plaines youth, but the center is now collecting $1,000 to have additional drug counseling and to set up a course on drug education.

The center also is planning courses on ceramics and other activities to replace the boredom that often leads to drug addiction, he said.

The Drop-in center has received a $500 contribution from the Maine West High School student council. The center has also become a state chartered non-profit organization and is seeking state and community financial report support.

The Des Plaines Park District this week renewed the Youth center lease for three months at the second floor of the Rand Park Fieldhouse.

The center was created last summer to provide an informal atmosphere for discussion and counseling for Des Plaines teens who don't feel they fit in with athletic or school sponsored activities, center officials have said.

The youth center board has representatives from the Kiwanis, Jaycees, First Methodist Church, Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church and St. Martin's Episcopal church. It has received the support of the Des Plaines Coordinating Council, according to Sgt. Fredricks, Council chairman.

Candidate Supports City Moratorium

Rolf Campbell and Assoc., the city's planning consultant, has been asked to draw up an amendment to the city zoning ordinance providing an additional apartment zoning district, R-6, to encourage larger buildings on larger lots around the downtown area.

Brubaker said he approved of the council's apparent intentions to force development on larger lots, and pointed to his objection in 1969 to a reduction in building setback requirements in the R-5 district.

"As I see it, in 1969 when the front yard requirement was reduced from 25 to 12 1/2 feet, the requirements of the R-5 district were made too lax. I think the development we've seen since then is a direct consequence of the lowering of the square footage requirement in this way," he said.

"I think the mistake was made two years ago. But the moratorium is better than nothing and I'm glad to see it," said Brubaker, who is a chemistry professor at the Illinois Institute of Technology.

"I accept that on face value as the method to stop (small) lot development and I think we've got to go back and re-examine it," he said.

BRUBAKER SAID developers should be required to make the added investment to build a large elevator building on 100-foot or larger lots. "If you're going to stick with this minimum stuff, you're never going to have a high quality development," he said.

Several builders and developers have objected to the proposed requirement of larger lot apartment buildings. The large lots are difficult to find and the expense of high-rise elevator buildings forces rents above the local market level, they have said.

Behrel To Be Queried On Radio Wednesday

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel will be interviewed next Wednesday at 1:15 on WMTB-FM, student radio station at Maine West High School, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines.

He will be interviewed on the show, "Potpourri," from 1:05 to 1:35, and as reported in an article by the Herald yesterday.

Independent Files For School Board

An independent has filed to become a candidate for a board seat in the April 10 Maine Township High School Dist. 207 election.

John W. Cahala, of 1103 S. Hamlin Ave., Park Ridge, filed petitions yesterday, the next to last filing day.

Three caucus-endorsed candidates filed petitions Feb. 24 for the three openings on the high school board.

They are: incumbent William Wuehrmann, 600 S. Clifton, and William Bocek, of 904 Florence, both of Park Ridge and Leonard Grazian, 8504 Oliphant, Morton Grove.

Commuter Station To Be Built At Arlington Park

A new commuter station with 800 parking spaces will be built at the Arlington Park race track, without the use of federal money, Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights mayor said Friday.

Three parties, the Chicago and North Western Rwy., the track and the village are currently working on the terms of cost-sharing for the new facility, he added.

Walsh stressed village participation would not cause any additional taxation to local residents.

The decision to use local and private money in the initial development is aimed to quickly alleviate pressures on Arlington Heights downtown station, Walsh said.

"Most federal programs require regional plans which we don't have. It can take years before federal money becomes available. There are all sorts of complications," he added.

THE POSSIBILITY is not being eliminated of applying for federal funds in the future to expand the new station into a commuter center, Walsh said.

The total commuter center concept in other areas has been associated with multiple level parking, bus, taxi, and helicopter facilities adjoining the rail station.

Development of a commuter center could create a facility available to areas such as Schaumburg, Long Grove and Buffalo Grove because of easy access to the track area via Routes 53 and 14, Walsh said.

Plans for the new station should be available from C & NW engineers in a few days, he added.

Construction of the new station and parking facility will begin once it is determined what share of the cost each of three parties involved is willing to accept, Walsh said.

Solutions Offered For County, Suburb Zone Disputes

by DAVE CRIPPEN
Last of a Series

A number of solutions to the zoning dispute between county and suburb have been suggested by officials on both sides.

Some are uncomplicated, like that proposed by County Commissioner Charles S. Bonk who contends everyone would be happy if communities would just annex the land.

Others call for action with more far-reaching implications, such as state control of zoning in unincorporated areas.

COMMENTS FROM county and local leaders indicate there, at least, is some mutually agreeable steps that could be taken. These include:

- Striving for more communication between local officials and county zoning authority
- Revising the basic guidelines on which county zoning decisions are based, either through comprehensive planning or updating of the existing zoning map.
- Achieving a closer working relationship between county and suburb in recognition that zoning and other area-wide problems can best be met through concerted efforts

Indicative of the progress that can be achieved through more communications is the growing understanding local officials display for the county Zoning Board of Appeals. Zoning Board Chairman Alex Seith is credited with bringing about this more conciliatory attitude.

SINCE SEITH took over as chairman in August 1969, he has sought comments and criticism from local officials on his board's operation. He has markedly revised the board procedures in reviewing cases.

Regular board meetings are now public, and, frequently, he allows comments from the floor. Board procedure and policy is reiterated by Seith at each regular session, as well as before each public hearing. And though formal agendas are not available, Seith makes it clear any interested party can find out what is scheduled for meetings merely by calling the zoning board secretary.

Municipal planner Thompson A. Dyke of Harland Bartholomew and Associates, who generally sides with local forces in criticizing county zoning practices, has nothing but praise for the board.

"Procedurally, they have one of the finest operations I've ever run into," says Dyke.

The board procedures are still under fire, most notably by Wheeling and its village attorney, Paul Hamer. Hamer, though acknowledging Seith's improvements, challenges zoning board refusal to continue public hearings so opposing testimony can be presented.

It would appear part of the problem could be blamed simply on the long-standing process by which a developer seeks zoning board action. No one — neither suburban nor county officials — has any idea of the nature of the proposed development until plans are outlined during the hearing. As a result, communities complain they can't prepare testimony.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have angina of the heart and wondered if any one ever gets over this or is it something I will have to learn to live with? I am nervous and in my 40s and female. Would you say something about angina of the heart in your column?

Dear Reader — The most common cause of anginal chest pain is atherosclerosis, fatty deposits in the arteries. It is fairly uncommon in women of our age and quite common in older women. Men can have it, too, particularly after a heart attack.

Emotional tension or excitement can cause the pain. That is why the doctor tries to eliminate excitement or stress for a heart patient.

Often an overweight person can help himself by losing a lot of weight. This decreases the amount of work the heart

GEORGE W. DUNNE
"I'd be ready to meet with . . . the Northwest suburban children's choir."

SEITH ADMITS there is some justification for local concern over this point and hinted he is considering some possibilities for providing more information before public hearings. But he also points out that current procedure allows at least 21 days after the hearing for opposing interests to file written statements. These are thoroughly considered by the board before decisions are reached, according to Seith.

Moreover, he suggested communities already have the power to find out what a developer has in mind before the public hearing.

"If the village is that interested in what the guy is going to do, it can have a deposition taken," Seith argues. But most village officials reject that idea, because such action imposes an unjustified burden on the community.

Differences over procedural matters are not as sharp as those stemming from county zoning decisions. It is in substantive matters that officials see a need for more meaningful communications.

A number of Northwest community leaders have suggested suburbs collectively approach the county in an effort to identify and solve common problems. Staunch advocates of such a plan are Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl and Bob Teichert, village president of Mount Prospect.

"HOW ABOUT county and village planners getting together to arrive at some mutual understanding?" asks Pahl. "Then the village and county can present a united front to property owners and developers." In conjunction with his proposal, he suggested a "moratorium" on zoning of unincorporated land until some common goals are identified.

But village and county officials alike dismiss the implementing such a suggestion as impractical and unconstitutional.

Teichert is among those who sees little sense in a moratorium, but he supports the idea of community cooperation.

"I see a real need for the communities to get together to discuss what is good planning for all of us," he stresses.

"Then let's sit down with the county." Teichert is critical of area communities for what he terms "reactionary planning" that is not responsive to the current trends and needs.

Currently president of the Northwest Municipal Conference (NWMC), Teichert is confident the organization can represent the area in settling zoning problems.

OTHER LOCAL officials doubt such efforts can achieve anything meaningful because the county wouldn't respond.

Hamer recalls, "We attempted to do that some time ago, and it fell flat on its face."

Palatine Village Mgr. Burt Braun is likewise skeptical: "As long as zoning is something to be traded, you're not going to accomplish anything."

But even the skeptics say they would back a concerted effort and give the county credit for demonstrating more responsiveness recently.

Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh asserts, "There has been attempt on the county's part to improve communications." Walsh claims he has attempted to establish better relations by personally contacting county officials and stresses a need for "non-political" efforts at bringing about mutual understanding.

As a result, Walsh claims, "I've found, in general, we have found our way to a fairly cordial relationship." He, too, needs to do I can't emphasize too strongly that even if a person has a minimal amount of extra fat, the loss of fat can greatly increase the amount of work a person can do without having heart pain.

Of course, coffee, particularly in nervous people, should be stopped and cigarettes eliminated. After weight reduction some people benefit from a walking program. But before you start you should check with your doctor to be certain an exercise program won't be too much for you. Incidentally, life's situations — like getting excited watching television — often cause the heart to work harder than a good normal walk. A person has to have rather severe heart disease before he can't walk in good weather.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

backs plans to present a united front to the county but doubts NWMC is capable carrying out such a program. Walsh, currently president of the Cook County Council of Governments (COG), suggests that organization is much better equipped for such a role.

COUNTY OFFICIALS say they would welcome any effort by communities to foster better understanding and more communications. Moreover, they pledge to work with any group representing local interests.

Typical of official willingness to work with community representatives was Dunne, who remarked, "I'd be ready to meet with even the Northwest suburban children's choir on any matter."

Most officials foresee many needs beyond the communications gap. High on

4 Candidates Seek Dist. 59 Seats

Four candidates will seek two seats on the board of education April 10 in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59.

Filing for the election closed Friday. Allen Sparks of Des Plaines is the only incumbent who filed.

Richard Hess, board president and a resident of 247 Placid Way, Elk Grove Village, decided not to seek re-election after having served on the board for six years. Hess had been expected to file based on an earlier comment in February.

The four candidates will seek two 3-year seats on the seven-member board that has 20 schools in the district.

The candidates are Erwin Poklacki, of 1223 Fernandez St., Arlington Heights; Albert Domanico, of 7 Grange Pl., and Theodore Stadler, of 1032 Brantwood Ave., both in Elk Grove Village; and Sparks of 908 Spruance, Des Plaines.

Poklacki was the last to file on Friday. The others filed earlier in late February and early March.

A research chemist at Borg-Warner Corp., Des Plaines, Poklacki has lived in the district for about 3½ years. He is active in the district, serving on a committee that studied overcrowding in the junior high schools, the aims-and-goals committee, and with the School Community Council.

POKLACKI WAS a candidate in last year's election. He lost by six votes, trailing incumbent Harry Peterson Jr. of Elk Grove Village.

In the last election there were 12 candidates seeking four openings on the board that sets policy for schools in portions of Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Ar-the long list of problems to be solved, according to some, is a desperate need for comprehensive planning.

Last year the county board set up a planning department and established itself as the "planning commission." However, the four-man staff in the department has not undertaken any projects related to land use in unincorporated areas, according to Planning Director Ted Brzyski.

County board officials contend the comprehensive zoning ordinance of 1960 serves as the overall plan to guide development. Revision of the ordinance and its zoning maps will get under way this year.

PLANNERS AND local officials contend the zoning provisions are inadequate and doubt little will be accomplished by their revision.

"What happened in Cook County has happened because they left out planning," says Dyke, whose firm has prepared comprehensive plans for numerous Chicago suburbs. Dyke argues that planning must precede preparation of the zoning ordinance.

Most local officials side with him. But neither they nor Dyke see any hope for substantive planning efforts by the county.

Referring to the county board serving as a planning commission, Walsh remarked, "I don't think it is worth a ding that way."

Many visualize state involvement in zoning matters as the only plausible solution. Recently, the newly-established Illinois Zoning Commission, headed by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, released a preliminary report calling for minimum state-wide zoning regulations.

THE REPORT ALSO proposed establishment of a permanent zoning commission, a recommendation which drew a great deal of fire from those who argued the provision would undermine local autonomy. Schlickman subsequently re-

Sparks is employed as an assistant director of research for Universal Oil Products, Des Plaines. He has been on the board for three years and served as president one year.

Domanico, employed as an assistant regional sales marketing manager for General Instrument Corp., Lincolnwood, is a former board member having served briefly in 1967 when he was appointed and in 1969 when he was elected for one year.

Lions Club Sets Pancake Day

The Des Plaines Lions Club will hold its annual Pancake Day Saturday, April 3, at Maine West High School.

Funds raised at the annual event will be shared by the Maine Township Mental Health Assn. and Clearbrook Center for the Retarded's day care facility in Des Plaines, according to Robert DiLeonardi, Lions Club president.

Scott Hodlmaier, Pancake Day chairman, said the Lions expect to top the sale of 5,000 pancakes that set a record at the event last year. Other club members preparing for Pancake Day include Bob Heilig, handling tickets and posters; Ernie Feiffer, who is in charge of food; and Jim Williams, publicity chairman.

Serving will begin at 7 a.m. in the Maine West cafeteria, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., and end at 2 p.m. Tickets are available from Lions Club members or at the door.

Coloring Contest Winners Named

In addition to being named grand prize winner, Norman Pree was also judged the winner of this week's first place award in the final week of the contest.

Second place went to John Ziegler, 391 Indian Hill, Buffalo Grove, and third place was awarded to Susan Villie, 402 E. Highland Ave., Mount Prospect.

vised the proposed powers of the commission, reducing its authority to that of a mediator, rather than giving it final authority in deciding zoning disputes.

The final report is slated to be presented to the legislature around Mar. 1.

Currently local officials offer cautious support of state zoning efforts, but are fearful of losing jealously-guarded community control over land use. County leaders are critical of proposed state involvement and have hinted they will strongly oppose legislative efforts.

But for now, the county is limiting its opposition to polite criticism, as exemplified in remarks by Homer Fields, zoning board members who commented, "I like to keep government as close to the people as possible. Although state zoning may be in the future, I can't see any need for it this year."

State zoning and other related legislation are a long way from reality. In the meantime, officials of Cook County and the Northwest suburbs must live with existing provisions as rules of the zoning game.

It remains to be seen whether local and county forces will continue to battle each or will strive for some measure of agreement on how remaining unincorporated land should be used.

Pollution Laws Studied

The Des Plaines City Council's air and water pollution committee is studying several anti-pollution measures, according to Ald. Robert Michaels (8th), committee chairman.

The committee is looking into a Denver, Colo., air pollution law, Michaels said at last week's city council meeting.

Under that law, Michaels said, the license plate numbers of cars spewing smoke and visible exhaust fumes are recorded by Denver traffic police. The car owners are later asked to bring their vehicles up to standards or junk them, he said.

Michaels said his committee has asked for a copy of the Denver law to study it further.

Also under consideration, he said, is a suggestion that the city cooperate in a newspaper recycling project, similar to the glass recycling project that makes use of city trucks for hauling non-returnable bottles to a Lake County manufacturer for use as paving material.

The council pollution committee is also looking at a Chicago ordinance banning the sale of high-phosphate laundry detergents in local stores. Phosphates have been accused of polluting lakes and streams by encouraging the growth of algae.

In addition, Michaels said last week, phosphates are also suspected of seeping into underground well water supplies and entering drinking water systems, something his committee will also look into.

600 Employees To Give Blood

More than 600 employees of the Universal Oil Products Co., located in Des Plaines, have signed up to give their blood to the American Red Cross under a program which entitles the employees and their families access to an unlimited amount of free blood for one year.

Don E. Lewan, director of personnel at UOP and program co-chairman, said the percentage of employees who work at UOP and are participating in the program assures that the company's total of 1,400 employees and their families will be covered.

A. A. Fridrych, UOP manager of safety and security, who is coordinating employee participation, said employee response to the program was so enthusiastic that eight American Red Cross nurses and five volunteers are administering the program over a five day period, which began this week at UOP's corporate headquarters, 30 Algonquin Rd.

Hearing Is Slated

The Des Plaines City Council streets and traffic committee will hold a hearing Monday, March 29 on the proposed widening of Center Street between Thacker Street and Lincoln Avenue.

More than 50 residents have protested the proposed street widening in a petition to city council. Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said two weeks ago that the city was ready to ask for bids from contractors on the widening project.

The hearing will be held at 8 p.m. March 29 in the municipal building city council chambers, according to Ald. John Leer (3rd), head of the streets and traffic committee.

Cage Record Can Deceive; Elk Grove Finds That Out

by JIM COOK

When James Naismith invented basketball in 1891 the object of the game was to score points. Logically, the team with the most points achieved victory.

But had determination been the chosen formula, instead Elk Grove would have been a winner this season.

As it was the Grenadiers finished with an overall 4.18 record under first year head coach Bill Parmentier but beneath this unimpressive mark was perhaps a more revealing statistic.

Eight of their setbacks, almost half, were by a margin of less than 10 points while still another five were not by more than 15. No opponents who thought they might have a breather on their schedule probably cast a sigh of relief after battling the Grenadiers.

Other foes weren't as fortunate. Fenton and Luther North both fell to the irrepressible, yet always-overshadowed Elk Grove contingent.

In Mid Suburban League battles, the Grenadiers accomplished something that had eluded them in their previous four-year existence — beating arch-rival Forest View, 53-51. Elk Grove's other loop triumph was registered in the divisional playoffs against Palatine 72-70.

The Grenadiers' appearance on the floor alone put them at an immediate disadvantage. Physically, Elk Grove offered the smallest team in the circuit. They were also one of the youngest and shortest on experience with three juniors and a sophomore in the starting lineup most of the way.

The only starting senior, 6-3 Mark Hopkins, captained the Grenadiers and served as the rallying point for his teammates. He carried the heavy load without objection, finally emerging as one of Elk Grove's all-time greats, a Mid Suburban League All-Star, and the school's single season record-holder.

The spindly southpaw hammered the opposition for a 19.6 league average and snagged rebounds at the rate of about eight per game.

"He was a tremendous inspiration," Parmentier said. "We're really gonna miss him. You just don't replace 19 points from your lineup."

The handicap of playing a young team this past season should blossom next year with almost everyone returning. One of the brightest young prospects is sophomore Bob Prince who accepted a varsity stint and showed the potential for greatness.

The little guard averaged just under 13 points in his varsity campaign while displaying a take-charge leadership trait. "Bob is a fine scorer," Parmentier said, "and has the poise to set up plays and run the team."

Prince's backcourt runningmate Keith Chupek is the "quickest kid we have," according to Parmentier. "He'll show you that quick release and the good hands on defense. Nobody hustles more than he does." Keith was just a junior this year.

Grenadier fans will also see Dave Chernuck return next season. The smooth forward averaged just under twin figures this year while ranking as Elk Grove's leading free throw shooter with a 77 per cent ratio.

"Dave started out strong, but hit a mild slump in the middle of the year," Parmentier explained. "He began fighting himself because he felt he couldn't contribute enough. He's just a tremendous competitor."

Another who mingled under the boards and did a fine job was junior center Randy Stenberg. Despite his size (6-3½), Parmentier credited Stenberg with some outstanding defensive work against the giants of the Mid Suburban. "He wants to work with weights this summer," Parmentier said. "He's always trying to improve."

Parmentier will also have the bonus of swingman Steve Scholten reporting next year. Scholten, who manned all three positions this year, was reliable at any of them.

"I probably hurt him by making him play all three," Parmentier said, "but he made a tremendous adjustment. He is one of the steadiest we have."

The impressive list of returnees will also be bolstered by juniors Jeff Sronkoski, Mike O'Dea, Mark Greenberg, Scott Pruitt and soph standouts Rich O'Leary, Jeff Stewart and Mike Millner. "This should give us a great atmosphere for competition," Parmentier said. "It's something that we really lacked this year."

This past season could easily be divided into two sections. The first would run through the Christmas Tournament and the second during the rest of the campaign.

"We were very defensive-minded in that first half," Parmentier said. The Grenadiers were holding their foes to 61 points per game, but only scoring at a 54 clip.

"When we only had 13 points at half-time of that final tournament game, I figured it was time for a change. We concentrated on offense after that and began scoring some points."

Elk Grove upped its average to 67 points per game over the second half of the season while the defense was yielding 75.5 to the opposition.

Elk Grove should be vastly improved after maturing this past season. They're well coached, well disciplined and perhaps more importantly, determined.

Some can't wait until next year. Mark Hopkins didn't. He was an outstanding senior and will be sorely missed by all.

All-Area Team Named Wednesday

Track Records Fall

Five records were broken or tied, none by Maine South, but Maine South outscored 11 other schools in the fifth running of the Blue Demon Relays at the Maine East High fieldhouse Saturday.

Tracksters from Fremd, Maine East, Maine West and Niles East set new meet records but no team could match Maine South's depth which netted first place for the Hawks.

Maine South scored 71½ points followed by Maine East with 60, Fremd with 48, Highland Park with 31, Maine West with 23½, Niles North with 20, Niles East, Niles West, Prospect and Arlington with seven, Hersey with four and Wheeling with two.

The first record broken of the day was made by Jeff Duff of Maine West. Duff leaped 21-5½ in the long jump, breaking the old meet record by nearly an inch. The old record was 21-4½ set by Jeff Genson of Maine East in 1969.

Leading nearly from the outset and setting a blistering pace all the way, Maine East's John Keane established a new record in the mile run with a 4:18.2. The old record was 4:19.3 held by Jack Gilio of Maine East who set the record in 1968.

The foursome of Jim Jarocki, Bill Jarocki, Dan Pittenger and Mike Pitchell set a new record in the two-mile relay with a 7:57.8. The old record was 8:03.6 held by Rick Randall, Bill Grimm, Rick Phalen and Jim Olson of Maine East. A strong finishing kick by Pitchell on the last lap overtook Maine East which finished second and also eclipsed the old record.

Steve Bruce of Fremd tied the meet record of 5.5 in the 50-yard dash while taking first place. In the 50-yard hurdles Bill Tepp of Niles East tied the meet record of 6.3.

Besides setting a record in the 50-yard dash, Bruce took first place in the pole vault with 13-3.

Bruce Potenza of Maine East went over the bar at 6-3 to nab first place in the high jump.

The host Demons took first place in the frosh-soph eight-lap relay with the foursome of John Flippo, Joe Cooper, Mike Bell and Doug Tucker with a 2:49.0 clocking.

Maine East also took first place in the freshman four-lap relay with Scott Peota, Joe Zimmerman, Scott Magnuson and Mike Ashner with a 1:20.7.

First place in the frosh-soph distance medley went to Maine East in 8:38.0 with Flippo, Jim Pifke, Bell and Pat Moyer.

Maine East won the last event of the meet, the mile relay, but Maine South could not be overtaken with its second place finish. Running for the Demons were Bob Kostelny, Doug Tucker, Les Joseph and Dale Hendricks.

Oakton Names Bob Hale AD

Bob Hale, a former major league baseball player and physical education teacher at Maine East High, has been appointed director of athletics at Oakton Community College by the college's board of trustees.

Dr. William A. Koehnline, the college president, made the announcement.

Hale, 37, was employed as a physical education teacher at Maine East High School during the 1967-68 school year and has also had teaching experience at the elementary and college level.

Hale's major league baseball career covered seven years with three teams. He broke in with the Baltimore Orioles in 1955 and batted a hefty .357 in 67 games.

In the following four seasons with the Orioles he batted .237 in 85 games, .250 in 42 games, .350 in 19 games and .135 in 40 games.

In 1960 the Sarasota, Fla., native led the American League in pinch hitting at bats and hits while batting an even .300 for the Cleveland Indians. He played with both Cleveland and New York in 1961 and batted .163.

In 376 major league games and 626 at bats, Hale had 171 hits for a .273 lifetime average with 29 doubles, two triples and two home runs. His lifetime pinch hitting average was .335. He played first base on the field.

Hale is currently an assistant professor of physical education and director of the intramural athletic program at Florida Presbyterian College in St. Petersburg, Fla. He has a bachelor's degree and a master's degree from DePaul University and will receive his Ph. D. in education administration from Northwestern University in June.

In a statement regarding Hale's appointment, president Koehnline said, "The dean of student personnel interviewed more than twenty-five candidates for this position. Many well qualified persons applied for this position and making the final choice was difficult. Three finalists were chosen for additional interviews by the administrative council and a sub-committee of the board of trustees. Mr. Hale was the final unanimous choice. He has many strengths which will serve Oakton Community College well as we expand our intramural program and put into operation established affiliation with the Skyway Community College Athletic Association."

Hale, whose appointment at a salary of $16,000 per year is for 1971-72, will begin his assignment on June 1.

Newcombe Lands Top Seed In Tennis Championships

John Newcombe, 1970 Wimbledon Champion and the World Championship of Tennis point leader has been seeded first in the $50,000 Sportface International Tennis Championship which starts in Chicago next Monday, March 22, and runs through March 28.

The order of seeding for the Chicago tourney corresponds with the point standings to date for the World Championship of Tennis. Newcombe, who is tied with Arthur Ashe in the point standings, 11 points each, was awarded the number one spot by World Championship Tennis based on his choice as top seed by the international tennis writers during the original poll to select the 32 players to compete in the 20 city tour.

In addition to Newcombe, the 12 seeds for the $50,000 Sportface International Tennis Championship (the third leg of the World Championship of Tennis) are listed below. Their point standings to date in the 20 city tour are listed beside their names:

2. Arthur Ashe 11 points
3. Ken Rosewall 11 points
4. Rod Laver 8 points
5. Tom Okker 6 points
6. Cliff Drysdale 6 points
7. Bob Lutz 6 points
8. Roy Emerson 4 points
9. Dennis Ralston 3 points
10. Brian Fairlie 3 points
11. Tony Roche 2 points
12. Roger Taylor 2 points

This is the first time since August of 1970 that Rod Laver has not been seeded number one in tournament competition.

Arthur Ashe reached the second seed spot by defeating Ken Rosewall in the finals of the Australian Open at Sydney on March 14. The Sydney tourney was the second leg of the World Championship of Tennis.

Seeded first in the doubles (also according to point standings in the World Championship of Tennis) are Newcombe and Roche, who won the doubles championship at the recent Australian Open. The rest of the doubles seeding includes:

2. Ashe and Ralston
3. Laver and Emerson
4. Rosewall and Stolle
5. Okker and Riessen
6. Lutz and Pasarell

Prize money breakdown for the $50,000 Sportface International Tennis Championships is as follows:

- Singles winner $10,000
- finalist 5,000
- losing semifinalist 2,500 each
- losing quarterfinalist 1,000 each
- losers round of 16, 750 each
- losers first round 500 each
- Doubles winning team $1,800
- second place team 800
- losing semifinalist 600 per team
- losing quarterfinalist 400 per team
- first round losers 200 per team

The seeds for the Chicago tourney — the top pro tennis players in the world — will be seen in action starting Monday, March 22 and running through Sunday, March 28.

The first two days of competition, Monday and Tuesday March 22 and 23, will be held at Wheaton College in the city's western suburbs. The next two days, Wednesday and Thursday March 24 and 25 will be held in the south suburbs at Eisenhower High School in Blue Island. The last three days of competition — quarterfinals, semifinals and finals — will be held at McGaw Hall, Northwestern University, Evanston.

At Wheaton College and Eisenhower High School, competition will start daily at 9:00 a.m. and run until 5:00 p.m. and then resume at 7:00 p.m. for night action. Tickets for days are $2.50, nights are $5.00.

The quarterfinals and semifinals on Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27 at McGaw Hall will be night action, starting at 7:00 p.m. The Sunday March 28 finals at McGaw will start at 1:30 p.m. All sideline and baseline seats are reserved and scaled at $6.50. Balcony seats for $3.00 are general admission.

Tickets for the first two days of action at Wheaton College are on sale at the college's box office, Hiatt's Drug Store in Wheaton and the West Side Racquet Club in Villa Park.

For the next two days of action at Eisenhower High School, Blue Island, tickets are available at the Blue Island Sun-Standard office as well as the South Side Racquet Club in Dolton.

Tickets for the McGaw Hall action are on sale at Northwestern's Dyche Stadium box office and all Ticketron Outlets, Marshall Field and Montgomery Ward Stores.

In addition to the above outlets, tickets for all seven days and nights of competition will be on sale at 333 N. Michigan Ave., Suite 505, Chicago, and at tennis clubs throughout the metropolitan area.

The $50,000 in prize money is being put up by the tournament's sponsor, J. P. Stevens & Co., Inc., developer of the revolutionary new synthetic court surface, Sportface, for which the tourney is named.

Hake NCAA Qualifier

Terry Hake, a college sophomore from Palatine, represented Marquette University in the NCAA gymnastics regional meet for independent schools in Denver over the weekend.

Hake qualified for the meet by maintaining an 8.3 average in his gymnastic work on the parallel bars.

Locals On ISU Roster

Illinois State will open a 42-game baseball school with a doubleheader at Loyola of New Orleans on April 3.

On the ISU roster this season are infielder John Caltagirone, who played for Forest View in his high school career, and outfielder Brian Rooney, who played at St. Viator.

Zikes In Big Tourney

Les Zikes, who bowls out of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, will compete in the Firestone Tournament of Champions at Akron, O., starting on Tuesday, March 30.

Zikes will be among 48 bowlers who will compete in the $100,000 tournament.

Penn State Honors Dunn

Tom Dunn of Arlington Heights has been named to Penn State University's athletic honor roll for scholastic excellence during the fall term of the current academic year.

Dunn is a member of Penn State's gymnastics team and maintained a scholastic average better than 3.0 to qualify for the honor roll.

Globetrotters In Chicago

The fabulous Harlem Globetrotters will bring their special brand of laughter, comedy routines and sleight-of-hand basketball magic to the International Amphitheatre in Chicago on Wednesday, April 7.

The program will start at 7:30 p.m. and will be the Trotters' only appearance in Chicago during the current campaign, their 45th year, which comes to a close on April 11.

Spotlighted in the game will be Meadowlark Lemon, comic supreme, and Freddie (Curly) Neal, the amazing dribbler. Table tennis champions Norikazu Fujii of Japan and Jack Bender of England, batonist Joyce Rice and the trampoline feats of the Mike Pickering family will comprise the entertainment bill.

Tickets are on sale at all Ticketron agencies in the Chicago area. Prices are $3, $4, $5, and $6, with all seats reserved.

Her Skill Aids Stroke Patients

To her neighbors, Mrs. Paul Rizzo typifies the suburban mother of three children, with all of the usual household responsibilities.

But to stroke patients at Brookwood Convalescent Center, 2380 Dempster St., Des Plaines, who are struggling to regain their power of speech, Mrs. Rizzo is a skilled professional bringing hope for a better life.

Mrs. Rizzo works with these patients twice a week at Brookwood, utilizing the skills of her specialty.

She uses mirrors, ordinary playing cards and simple pictures in an effort to help stroke victims who have been paralyzed and, in the process, have lost their ability to speak.

Her success varies with each patient, depending upon the patient's age and willingness to work at what can be an exasperating problem.

"IT IS VERY gratifying to know you are helping these people regain their powers of communication," she said. "When they accomplish something, they will let you know it — just by the way they smile or squeeze your hand."

Stroke patients suffer from what is called "aphasia," the loss of language skills due to brain damage, which can either inhibit their powers of comprehension or their ability to express themselves — or both.

"Most patients have a combination of two-mixed aphasia," Mrs. Rizzo says. "They might know what they want to say, but when they try to express themselves the words just don't come out right."

The treatment of aphasia is a relatively new field that began gaining wide recognition when Mrs. Rizzo was earning her bachelor's degree in education (with a major in speech therapy) 13 years ago at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb.

It first emerged during and after World War II, in response to the large number of wounded soldiers who suffered brain damage and loss of speech.

With elderly patients, Mrs. Rizzo of Park Ridge, must select various applicable techniques to fit individual cases. "There is a lot of learning through application," she said.

She helps them with word association, using pictures that patients match with word cards, or using a mirror to demonstrate the proper mouth formation for various letters and words.

SIMPLE CARD GAMES are used to help "activate the mind." The computation of keeping track of various cards provides mental stimulation for the patients.

Mrs. Rizzo utilizes a continuous, team approach to her job, eliciting the help of other professionals at Brookwood and the patients' families.

She has the physical and occupational therapists work with stroke patients on sentence completion, using word clues and lead-in phrases; she instructs the families to do the same. Nurses help the patients practice writing (regaining speech therapy). Speech therapy in nursing skills.

There ought to be a special place in heaven for the nurses here," Mrs. Rizzo said. "They are always looking for ways to make life easier for the patients."

Mrs. Rizzo praises Brookwood as a "fine nursing home," emphasizing that not many other nursing facilities provide speech therapy. Speech therapy in nursing homes is just now becoming more prominent, she said.

She has been working at Brookwood for the past three years. Earlier in her career she worked for the Franklin Park school board and the Chicago board of education.

In addition, Mrs. Rizzo has done speech therapy work with pre-school youngsters in her home and has worked with referral cases from the Skokie Valley Visiting Nurses Association.

She readily admits that not all stroke victims can fully regain all their previous speaking ability, but with hard work and concentration, most can regain some of it.

"One gratifying accomplishment helps overcome a lot of frustrations," she said.

WORD ASSOCIATION is part of the difficult job of regaining language skills and one of the techniques used by Mrs. Paul Rizzo, speech therapist at Brookwood Convalescent Center, 2380 Dempster St., Des Plaines, as she works with a stroke patient, Mrs. Hulda Harting.

Winner Does Well To Lose, Analyst Contents

You'll win by losing once in a while at the family game table, according to psychoanalyst William Van Precht.

Precht, of the Alfred Alder Mental Hygiene Clinic, recommends an occasional "therapeutic" game in which the consistent winner contrives to lose — resoundingly.

When parents and children lock horns over a game, the unexpected victory will give the perennial loser "a new lift out of life," Precht says.

"I usually come out on top when we play games at our house," he said. "However, if I didn't lose every so often, accidentally or on purpose, nobody would play with me."

Still, the thrill of competition, and even taking an occasional dive for the benefit of your competitor's ego, has led Americans to spend upwards of $225 million each year on games.

TOY MANUFACTURERS Associated says table games can be classified according to their luck-skill ratio. A few games such as checkers or chess are based on the player's mental ability. Others, depend on sheer luck or a combination of luck and ability.

Most of the games manufactured today center on sports. Everything from hockey and football to golf and shuffleboard are available in electrical, mechanical and various other game board versions.

Precht says males of all ages constitute the big market for table-top sporting contests, but mothers, sisters and girl friends join in the act once and a while — sometimes beating the stronger sex and their own games.

"This dents the male ego," Precht says, "But, of course, winning isn't everything."

PARENTS WILL do well to take an occasional dive at the family game table. Consistent winning not only deflates your child's ego, but also dampens his interest in playing with you next time.

Conference On Worldwide Discord Slated

An international effort by psychiatrists and authorities in the behavioral sciences to reverse the swing toward war and violence and move toward collaboration among men and nations will take place May 7 through 9, at Northwestern University in Chicago and at Forest Hospital in Des Plaines.

This "First International Colloquium" has as its theme "Man for Humanity: Concordance Versus Discordance in Social Behavior." The colloquium is co-sponsored by Northwestern University, the Forest Hospital postgraduate center and foundation, and the department of mental health of the State of Illinois.

The three-day meeting will begin Friday evening in Thorne Hall of Northwestern University, where the Saturday sessions will also be held. The final day of workshops and panel discussions will be held at Forest Hospital.

Serving as co-chairmen for the First International Colloquium are Dr. Jules Masserman, professor, department of psychiatry, Northwestern University Medical School and president of the International Society of Social Psychiatry; Dr. Mortimer D. Gross, dean, Forest Hospital postgraduate center, and Dr. Albert Glass, Director, State of Illinois Department of Mental Health.

Psychiatrists from Europe will join with their American counterparts in the discussions, which according to Masserman will aim to "promote constructive influences among all men and nations of good will and thus ameliorate the threats of Armageddon which beset us."

Gov. Richard Ogilvie, Mayor Richard Daley and Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, are expected to address the meetings.

Leading participants include Joshua Biere, M.D., London, England; Vladimir Hudolin, M.D., Zagreb, Yugoslavia; B. A. Lebedev, M.D., Leningrad, U.S.S.R.; Juan Lopez-Ibor, M.D., Madrid, Spain; Louis Miller, M.D., Jerusalem, Israel; and George Vassiliou, M.D., Athens, Greece.

Other participants are Joseph M. Eaton, Ph.D., University of Pittsburgh; Alfred M. Freedman, M.D., New York Medical College; Manfred Halpern, Ph.D., Princeton University; Ari Kiev, M.D., Cornell University; James G. Miller, M.D., University of Cleveland; George University and Bryant White, M.D., San Diego, California.

Also playing a major role in the conference are Robert Strotz, president, Northwestern University; Dr. Rudolph G. Novick, medical director of Forest Hospital; Dr. Stanislaw Maslanka, treasurer, Forest Hospital Foundation; and the deans and chairmen of the Departments of psychiatry of the five medical schools in Chicago.

Panels, workshops, and audience discussion will be additional features of the colloquium on "Man for Humanity: Concordance Versus Discordance in Social Behavior."

Registration for the three-day conference is $50 per person, including an evening of musical entertainment at Thorne Hall of Northwestern University. Additional information may be obtained by calling 827-8811.

Cana Conference Chief To Speak

The Rev. Walter J. Imborski will address the next general meeting of the St. Stephen Parents Association to be held Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Hanley Hall, Dr. Charles Giroux, SSPA president, has announced.

Rev. Imborski is director of the Cana Conference of Chicago. He holds a Master degree in history and a Doctorate in theology.

He has worked with the International Christian Family Movement setting up groups throughout the United States and Latin America. He has published materials on marriage and family life at every level from grammar school through college. Among these publications are: "Beginning Your Marriage," "Your Child's Sex Life," and the "Cana Manual."

Rev. Imborski has lectured extensively in the United States and across the world and has written a widely syndicated family life column.

He is a member of the Advisory Group on Family Life to the United States Conference of Bishops and the Association of Chicago Priests.

He is presently in charge of writing and organizing a kindergarten through eighth grade program in personality and development and sex education called, "Becoming a Person."

Hospital Chief Writes 'Drinking Problem'

A book for people concerned about a possible drinking problem has been written by the Rev. John Keller, administrative director of the rehabilitation center of Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

The book was published by Fortress Press, Philadelphia, Pa. Entitled "Drinking Problem?", the book uses self-analysis questions, information and case histories to help readers determine what the nature of a serious drinking problem is and what can be done about it. It is designed for readers concerned about themselves, a friend or relative. The book helps readers determine whether choice or compulsion directs an individual's drinking.

The book dispels ideas which many people have about alcoholism and alcoholics. Pastor Keller, of 449 Bennett, Palatine, outlines the symptoms and stages of alcoholism and also the steps back to sobriety. The final chapter tells how the husband or wife can contribute to an alcoholic's recovery.

Pastor Keller is also the author of "Ministering to Alcoholics," now in its fourth printing. He has written a number of articles on alcoholism.

PASTOR KELLER joined the staff of Lutheran General in 1963. From 1955-1963, he was associated with Lutheran Social Services of Minnesota. During this time he worked two years at Willmar State Hospital, Willmar, Minn., in the Alcoholic Treatment Section. Following that he worked with alcoholics and their families in Minneapolis-St. Paul and conducted pastoral seminars on alcoholism.

He has been on the staff of the summer school of Alcoholics studies at Rutgers University since 1960 and on the staff of the International School of Alcoholics Studies at the University of North Dakota since 1959.

Pastor Keller received a B.A. degree from Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, and graduated from Wartburg Theological Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa. He received clinical training at Elgin State Hospital, Elgin.

Before entering the field of alcoholic counseling, he served parishes in Medina, N.D.; Sioux Falls, S.D., and in Palatine.

Interfaith Council Sets Meeting

The first step in implementing its theme for the year — "Emphasis: Youth, 1971" — will take place Tuesday, at 8 p.m. when the Interfaith Council of Des Plaines holds its first meeting of the year at the First Presbyterian Church, Maple and Howard Streets.

Featured during the evening's program will be tapes and slides of the Northwest Suburban Day Care Center for preschool children of low-income families of the area whose mothers are employed during the day. The center uses the facilities of the First Presbyterian Church.

Making the presentations will be Mrs. Joan DiLeonardi, chairman of the board of directors, and Miss Diane Lawrence, head teacher and director of the center, which is open five days a week and is run by a permanent staff of five and a group of volunteers.

The center is supported by donations from the community and by nominal fees charged the parents according to family income. It takes about $25 a week to care for each child, according to Mrs. DiLeonardi.

"We provide steady care for about 15 to 20 children, and we include in this an educational program," Mrs. DiLeonardi said. "We operate five days a week throughout the year, except for two weeks during the summer, and take youngsters aged three through five."

She added that the center needs more volunteers, especially teenage boys or young men. Anyone interested should contact the center at 299-5103.

A short business meeting will precede the program, according to Harold Fisher, council chairman. Refreshments will follow.

Fisher also announced the appointment of Lou Joseph as program chairman for the council, and noted that a sunrise service would again be held this summer at Lake Opeka.

Eye 'Emotional Distress'

"Current Concepts in Dealing with Emotional Distress" will be the topic for a public program March 24 in Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

The 8 p.m. program is open to the public without charge and will be held in the hospital's chapel-auditorium.

Presenting the program will be Dr. Dejan Markovich, a member of the hospital's psychiatry department.

The program will deal with the various problems which produce distress in people and when people should seek help with their problems.

"Daily living today creates pressures on people. They should seek help and relief as things occur rather than letting them build up so they become a serious problem," Dr. Markovich said. "Anyone can get emotionally exhausted. Nothing is gained by waiting until emotional exhaustion occurs."

The program will discuss the prevention of serious emotional problems as well as what can be done in treatment.

"People will readily seek help when faced with other types of problems, but are reluctant to seek help when faced with emotional problems," he said.

The new day hospital program at Lutheran General will also be discussed. In this program, patients are at the hospital from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for treatment. Also participating in the program will be members of the day hospital program.

A discussion period and refreshments will follow.

Dr. Markovich received his M.D. from the University of Belgrade. He served his internship at Columbus Hospital, Chicago, and served his psychiatry residency at the Illinois Psychiatric Institute.

The program is another in the series of public programs sponsored by the Men's Association of Lutheran General Hospital. The Men's Association is a group of 300 business and professional men who support Lutheran General Hospital.

Scouting News

Pack 202's fourth annual Blue and Gold Dinner to celebrate Boy Scout month was held Feb. 27 at the Scando House in Mount Prospect. The scouts started the evening festivities with a composition of "America" for the American Heritage theme this month. The Reverend Luther Key, of Messiah Lutheran Church, then gave the invocation followed by a dinner and entertainment "Colonel Fran" and his friend Clyde the Rooster of Channel 26 TV fame, held the children spellbound and full of excitement, along with an unexpected visit from Santa Claus. Captain Carole assisted Colonel Frank with a game and prizes for unexpected children. Everyone received a souvenir picture of "Clyde and Colonel Frank." Certificates of appreciation were awarded to mothers and Webelos leaders. Along with the certificates the den mothers were given scarves. Scouts' wife's awards were given to Mrs. Marty Rooney, Mrs. Gene Rudin, and Mrs. Marshall Perlman. Two new boys, Michael Key and Mark Werha were awarded their craftsman badges. A few words of encouragement were given to the boys by George Gauthier, neighborhood commissioner. Pack 202 is sponsored by The Shelley Nathanson PTA.

THE PARENTS OF Boy Scouts in Troop 13 observed the installation of four eagle scouts in a single troop at a Court of Honor held Feb. 11 at the Des Plaines VFW Hall. Accepting scouting's highest rank were Ron Loewenherz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Loewenherz; Ray Naegle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Naegle; Rudy Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Schroeder; and Tom Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stevens. Promoted to life scout were Carl Schroeder, David Geen and Randy Schurr. These boys will be next in line to try to attain eagle scout. Promoted to the third highest rank, star scout, were Rick Jones, Ken Jones, Dan Graves and Jim Blume. David Geen received their first class scouts awards. Received into the troop as tenderfeet were Charles Conner, Tom Naegle, Tom Erickson, John Fell, Marvin Kaiser and Wayne Lara. Merit badge winners were Mike Becker, David Bidson, Jim Blume, David Geen, Dan Graves, Ron Loewenherz, Ray Naegle, Carl Schroeder, Rudy Schroeder, Randy Schurr, Tom Stevens, Dale Vogel, Glenn Witt, Ken Jones, and Jim Ware.

ON FEB. 19, Terrace School gym became the setting for the annual Blue and Gold Dinner by Pack 115. The chicken dinner was complemented by homemade casseroles, salads, and desserts. The evening's entertainment reiterated the outstanding red, white and blue table decorations — each one being created by the individual dens. America — described in affectionate terms by Webelos Den 2 started the evening off with enthusiasm. Cubmaster Harold Hagenson introduced the guests of honor, who were Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Carr, representing the Northwest Suburban Council of Boy Scouts; Mrs. Phyllis Juricic, Terrace School PTA President; and Mrs. Jerriace this month's Scout O' Rama tickets for the annual meet at Arlington Park on March 27th and 28th. Robert Keenley, the Mitch Miller of Pack 115 — then led everyone in an old time song-fest with his son Tim ably accompanying on the guitar. The entire pack then entertained all of their families and guests with an historical review, "Strong for America," in song and verse. The evening was completed with presentation of several awards. Tony Cardona and Nick Williams received their dinner stripes. Craig Christensen and Joe Nix received their assistant dinner stripes. Reaching the age of nine to become Webelos were David Ahlman, Kevin Liepeve, Tim Hurly, Jeff Witham, Craig Hagenson and Bob Kolder. David Ahlman, Kevin Koepeve and Jeff Witham completed their bear badges. Jim Keenley added a wolf badge and silver arrow to his cub uniform. John Breider and Chuck Butler received wolf advancement and a gold and silver arrow from Cubmaster Harold Hagenson. Webelos Den One received their Geologist award.

ON MARCH 5, Cub Scout Pack 64 journeyed to the Playdium in Glenview for an afternoon of roller skating. Mr. and Mrs. George Neumann showed them examples of proper skating techniques. The boys who attended were: den 1 — Danny Albrecht, Jukka Kallio, John Neumann and Doug Rickert; Den 2 — Rich Farmer, Barry Lawhorn and Mark Salavitch; Den 3 — Joey Assmus, Steven Hines, Scott McLean and Don Smith; and Den 6 — Billy Carlton, Bobby Farmer and John Teufel. Adults attending were Mr. and Mrs. James Albrecht, William E. Assmus, Mrs. Roy Kallio, Mr. and Mrs. George Neumann, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rickert and John Teufel. The Cubs of Pack 64 have built their pinewood derby cars. Racing competition began Friday evening, during the monthly pack meeting at St. Martin's Church.

Pint-sized Posies: Preview To Spring

by MARY B. GOOD

It may be too early for tulip and daffodil bouquets from the garden. But it's not too early to dabble with colorful almost-real perker-uppers.

This time of year offers flower folks a shot in the creative arm.

It inspires artsy-craftiness to surface. Why not attempt a paper posy nosegay, a daisy, iris, carnation (No patterns, that's cheating.) Make them tiny and arrange them in pint-sized containers if you can.

Used colored crepe paper and thin florist wire. Experiment with cutting out petals of different varieties. A pussy-willow branch might be a challenge to try. Or even a butterfly.

FLOWER POTS, mini-ashtrays, demitasse cups, dollhouse trappings, ornaments, egg shells, carved out rocks, pieces of wood, souvenir doo-dads — all thimble-sized or slightly larger — make unusual flower holders. Clean out the bedroom bureau drawers and kitchen or bathroom cabinets for ideas.

If nothing comes, look for ideas in stores. Tiny flowers — pansies, poppies, gladioli — birds, mushrooms, lady bugs, butterflies are available locally. The arrangements shown here are hand-made room-brighteners distributed by the Klehn Nursery Pink Peony Shop, Arlington Heights.

Little fussies are favorites in Victorian, traditional and Early American households with collectors and with antique lovers.

A BIRD ARRANGEMENT would make a delightful "what did you bring me" for a child. (He wouldn't have to feed it.) A Mason jar arrangement of iris is an idea for the church bazaar. (They wouldn't have to dust it.) As gifts for shut-ins, they wouldn't have to water it.

For "interior decorators" hungry for the warmth and color of spring, dainty, pint-sized posies serve as a between-season snack.

IDEAS IN CERAMICS. Good medicine is finding carnations, pussy willows and a redbird in with your mortar and pestle. Blue paper flowers nestle in a Dutch beer mug. Arrangements combine color, balance and dimension in dainty little packages of spring cheer.

THIMBLE-SIZED floral miniatures in an array of creative containers include the use of soft pastel hues. From left, wooden shoe inspired by the Holland tulip festival, butterflies and daffodils in a mini-Mason jar, an undersized ashtray filled with daisies and a pert pot of bachelor buttons create the feeling of spring.

That's Just Sherry Nonsense

Youth Is Worth Pursuing

by MARY SHERRY

The time has come for me to add another candle to the cake and admit my age — if not to others, then at least to myself.

I have always thought age was relative — a matter of how one feels. But now that I am firmly entrenched in the over 30 camp, I am finding it harder to live by my philosophy.

Part of this can be blamed on people my own age or older. One prominent example is Jane Fonda. Now a lot of people think Jane is cute, hip and young — mostly young. But Jane is actually older than I am. Sadly for me, however, in a fairly judged wrinkle-off contest Jane would come out the younger. Therefore, whether or not Jane feels 30, she comes off 25. Whether or not I feel 25, I come off ... well, older.

ANOTHER PERSON of prominence that confuses my outlook on aging is Ricky, er, Rick (because he has matured) Nelson. Rick is sufficiently older than I am for me to have looked up to him during his radio days. Like Jane Fonda, Rick Nelson is considered cute, hip and young. But when I compare him with my husband who is also younger than Rick, and who hasn't exactly lost his hair, gone to fat or suffered an impaired memory, "cute and hip" aren't adequate descriptive terms. (Sorry about that, dear.)

It is in these comparisons that pinpointing my age becomes a resented task. It also becomes more difficult to know if I want to nail it down and face it.

All along I have found that I must admit to my age to have a basis for relating to others. Maybe this is bad. I have begun to consider this undesirable only recently as I meet more and more young mothers who obviously consider me experienced. Until this began to happen, it had never dawned on me that part of my asking others for advice was really my way of saying to them, "You are so wise and experienced (and therefore old!)"

I DEFINITELY believe that youth is worth pursuing. It's just that I haven't yet resolved how to pursue it. My father insists on a candle for every year on his birthday cake, and then he proves he's really not all that old when he blows them out all at once. But the more flagrant defiance of age carried off by people like Jane and Rick often tempts me. However, when it comes right down to it I don't have the toughness to starve myself thin, to religiously perform hundreds of reverse wide-circle arm exercises daily and jeopardize my identity with my friends and neighbors.

I suppose all I can do is try to hold out for a few more years by merely thinking young. Would you believe that each one of my children was four years premature?

Fashion

by Genie

The bib-overalled farmer who left for the fields every morning sporting an ensemble of denim was never considered to be setting any fashion trend. Little did he know his work uniform would someday be a fashion fad.

Denim, once confined to rough work clothes, has moved up the style ladder to become a leading fashion fabric.

While blue jeans are the uniform of the day, particularly for the young, denim is being made into every conceivable item. Denim laced boots for women are difficult to keep in stock.

Bib overalls in dark blue are the nearest thing to the denims of the "work-horse era." They have become a requested and highly coveted piece of clothing, especially when used. This winter they dotted the ski slopes, worn by both males and females.

LARGE DEPARTMENT stores have individual small boutiques tucked away in their sportswear departments in order to concentrate on this one fabric. Couture designers have turned to denim for many of their expensive creations.

Yet modern denim is far removed from the blue jean version. It is also presently available in a variety of colors and patterns too.

Among this spring's suits for men are some tailored of denim in shades that include tan, beige, white and gray as well as the original blues. Denim in suits has been softened to remove any stiffness. It tailors as well as any other fabric.

Since suede has come into its own, brushed cotton denim has been high on the list of favorites. While nothing can substitute for the richness of suede, brushed denim does manage to capture some of its qualities.

IN ADDITION to plain denim, jeans this spring will be marketed in plain or patterned blends of polyester cotton.

Jeans are only half the uniform. On top, the primary choice is a skinny knit sweater. That goes for men and women. The skinny knits are in either cotton or light weight wool and are ribbed in multi-hued combinations.

While denim is one fabric to keep a watch on, it is not the only one. In the same weight class, canvas for instance, will be giving denim a run for its money.

PLAYING CHESS with Mommy's perfume? Cologne, hair spray, nail polish remover, astringent and other cosmetic items can pose a poison threat to youngsters in the one to four age group.

Spotlight On New Members

New members of the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines introduced themselves in a hilarious way to members and guests at the club's recent International Pot Luck Dinner in their honor.

The 22 women presented a "Take-Off Show of the Year 2000" in which they humorously depicted Junior Woman's Club members grown old and still wrestling with the same problems. For example, elderly chairmen were still frantically searching for committee members, the conservation chairman wore a gas mask.

The new members are Mrs. Paul Ackermann, Mrs. Richard Tabatt, Mrs. Robert Natzke, Mrs. John Koelig, Mrs. Don Kellerman, Mrs. James Garrard, Mrs. Robert Kase, Mrs. Kenneth Szved, Mrs. Lance Sloncen, Mrs. Richard Kempak, Mrs. William Wells, Mrs. Robert Hayden, Mrs. Jerry Pospisil, Mrs. Christian Buehler, Mrs. Arthur Murray, Mrs. Michael Mueller, Mrs. Leonard Eskuchen, Mrs. Randolph Napier, Mrs. William Parry, Mrs. Terry Uddenberg, Mrs. Alan Wisdom and Mrs. Arthur Shurey.

Daisies For Their Wedding

A one-week skiing trip at Boyne Mountain, Mich., was the honeymoon for newlyweds Sandra and John Jantz. They were married Feb. 20 in a 5 p.m. ceremony at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Des Plaines. Sandra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Heinisch, 452 Oak St., Des Plaines. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jantz of Gross Point Farms, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jantz

Your little boy has just swallowed a mouthful of bleach. Should you make him vomit or not?

Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, 397-1800, and Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, 696-2210, are the area's 24-hour a day official Poison Treatment and Information Centers.

In addition, Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, CL 9-1000, and St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, 437-5500, are fully equipped to handle poison emergencies and got over 500 cases last year.

More children under five years old fall victim to accidental poisoning than any other age group. Last year these four hospitals treated about 989 children under five from poisons that included ammonia, ink, fertilizer, hair tonic, lighter fluid, moth balls, diaper pail deodorant, finger paints, spoiled corn, furniture polish, dishwashing detergent and others.

OVER HALF OF Holy Family's and a fifth of Lutheran General's poisoning load were from common aspirin.

"The lamentable thing is that poisoning is one type of childhood 'illness' that is 98 per cent preventable," said Harold Kurtz, chief of public relations at Lutheran General.

According to "The ABC's of Child Safety" birth to one year old is the wiggleroll, put-it-in-the-mouth age. (Never use lead paint on toys, cribs, etc.)

The following year is the toddling adventurer phase, time to beware of ant cups, insecticides, under-the-sink cleaning compounds.

Age two to three is the hurry-hurry-hurry stage. Children climb up and down stairs and up to mom's cosmetic table, into the medicine chest and atop workshop shelves.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: For the time being, we are living in a one-room apartment and sleeping on a sofa bed. It seems comfortable enough but wonder if it is possible to develop back trouble by not using a proper mattress and box spring combination. Would you happen to know?—Mrs. Bill S.

This is a question that has to be approached gingerly because it's really a field for orthopedic experts. However, it's no secret that many are advised to use bed boards between mattress and spring—that the firmer the support, the better one's health.

One couple in a similar situation bought two lightweight folding bed boards which slip in and out relatively easily. When they go away for any length of time, they take the boards with them. They fit easily into the trunk of their car. It may be an answer for your own problem.

Dear Dorothy: High time I contributed something to your fine column. When I wash woodwork and walls, I carry a clean, dry pencil eraser. I've found it wonderful for taking off the black lines caused by chair scratches and other marks. It's also good for shoe or mop scratches on baseboards. Then I wipe the surface with a soapy sponge and dry. Much easier on the paint than hard scrubbing.—Mary T.

Monday, March 22

—Auditions for "Take Me Along," 8 p.m., Best Off Broadway Players, South Community Church, 501 S. Emerson, Mount Prospect.

Father Dodge of St. Mary's presided over the double ring ceremony.

Blue and white altar flowers, pompons and carnations decorated the church as Sandra came down the aisle, escorted by her father. She wore a white peau de soie dress with a high neck line and long fitted, sheer sleeves. The Empire bodice, A-line skirt, sleeves and chapel train were accented with a daisy patterned white Venise lace and baby blue ribbon.

HER CATHEDRAL length veil was fastened to her head with the daisy lace and ribbon trim. To carry out her theme, Sandra chose a bouquet of daisies.

Beverly Chudy, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a blue crepe floor length gown which was accented with pastel daisies. Her plateau headpiece was baby blue.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Richard Jantz. Ushering for the couple were Tom and Michael Jantz, also brothers of the groom.

Mrs. Heinisch chose a blue knit suit with pearl and rhinestone trim and blue and white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Jantz wore a blue street length coat and dress ensemble with blue and white accessories. Both mothers received carnation corsages.

FOLLOWING the ceremony a reception for 150 guests was held at the Old Willow Road Club House in Wheeling.

Sandra is a graduate of Maine West High School and attended the University of Wisconsin at Whitewater, Wis. She is currently employed at Universal Oil Products, Des Plaines.

John is attending Xavier College, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Small Children Chief Victims

BY AGE FOUR the child is developing skills—like how to open aspirin bottles. Parents forget that young children will swallow almost anything, no matter how awful or strong it tastes. Every child explores the world by tasting. The ABC's booklet suggests mothers let their children discover the harmless tastes of mustard or vinegar. Though warned, he'll experiment and soon learn to heed mother's advice and be wary in the world of tasting.

MARCH 21 TO 27 is National Poison Prevention Week, a time when parents might consider looking at their home with the eyes of a child.

Holy Family Hospital will have a display beginning today of the various kinds of items youngsters swallow.

The hospitals offered several poison first aid tips to parents:

1. Keep chemicals out of reach.
2. Keep an eye on the children.

3. Keep things in original containers. (Putting something like paint remover in a pop bottle or food container is downright thoughtless.)

4. Get rid of leftover medicine and wash the container before disposing.

5. Instruct children not to eat berries or seeds or other plant life they find outdoors.

6. In case of a poisoning, have a neighbor call ahead to the hospital and alert the emergency unit, reporting the type of poisoning, while mother and child (with empty poison container) are on their way.

Dr. Cyrena Berger, a Buffalo Grove pediatrician, confirmed that it's wise to have on hand a bottle of syrup of ipecac to induce vomiting, if directed by the family physician or poison control center. (She emphasized that vomiting must never be induced for corrosive, fume type liquids.)
